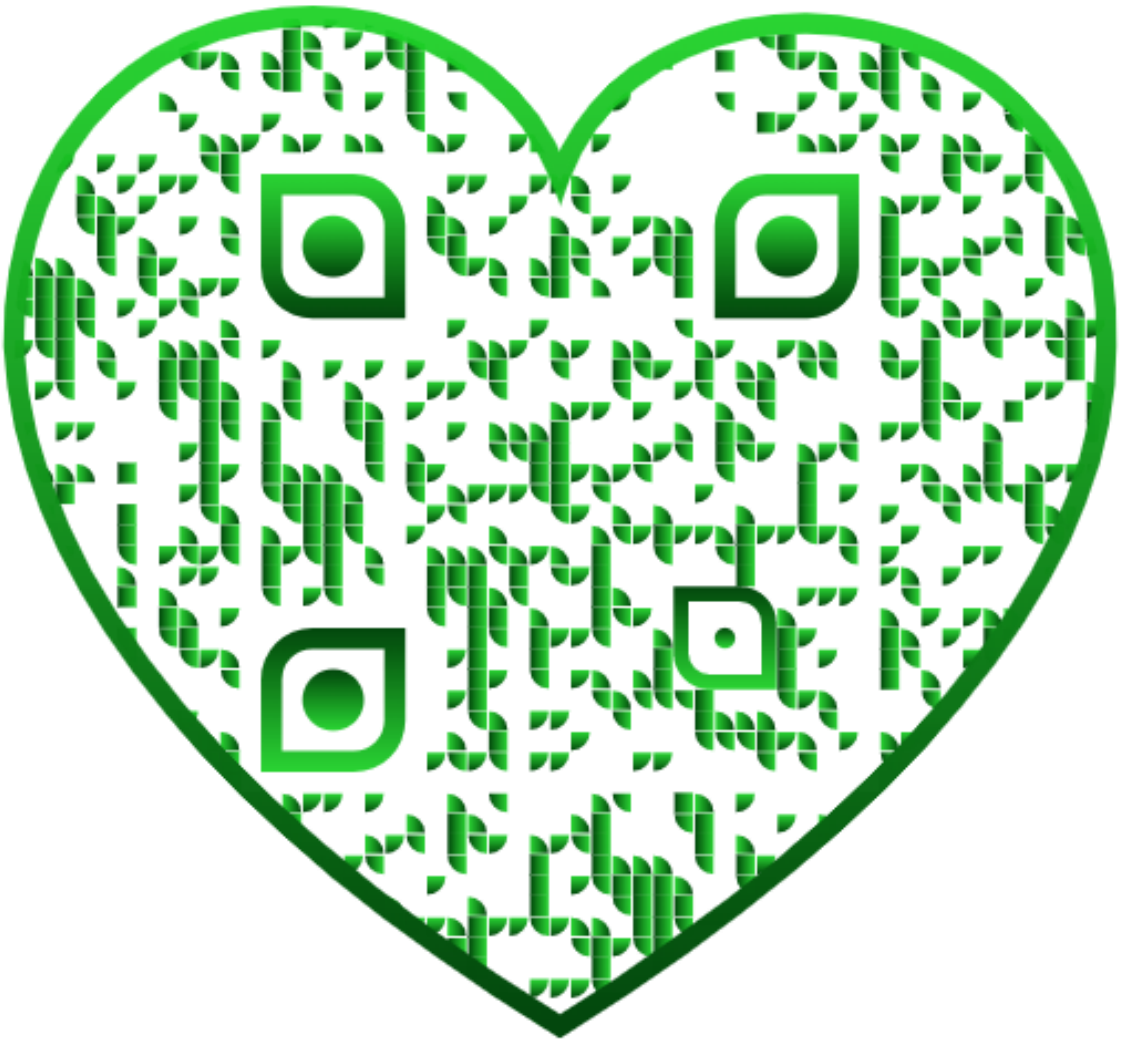
RV-UFO-NWO

REMOTE VIEWING, UFOLOGY & THE ALIEN NEW WORLD ORDER

BY

KERTH BARKER



RV-UFO-NWO

Remote Viewing, Ufology &
The Alien New World Order

Kerth Barker

INTRODUCTION

This book has three parts. As the title suggests, each part covers a different subject, and all three of these subjects are interrelated.

Part One gives an overview of the U.S. Department of Defense (DoD) remote viewing (RV) research, which is popularly referred to as Program Star Gate (Star Gate). Additionally, I share what I know of a group of unique Christian remote viewers and how they've organized themselves to work anonymously. I'm not a remote viewing practitioner, but I have known those who are. I've seen skilled remote viewers at work and know what can be done with this discipline. I also have a background in psychic practices and research. I've received training in psychic self-defense and remote psychic healing. Some of my trainers were skilled remote viewers.

This modest book doesn't teach you how to do remote viewing, but if you are interested in learning the discipline, it will serve as a brief introduction. My intention here is to give the reader a reasonable overview of how and why remote viewing works. However, the main reason for this discussion of remote viewing is to make known what RV reveals about the potential of the human mind, as well as how those revelations relate to the issue of extraterrestrial intelligence.

If you have doubts that Unidentified Flying Objects (UFOs) exist, Part Two of this book will address those doubts. Some researchers believe that UFOs are human-made experimental flying craft; others believe they are designed and flown by extraterrestrial beings (ETs). In either case, they are not hallucinations; they are a reality. Numerous reliable witnesses have observed them. These witnesses have seen structured flying craft maneuvering in ways and at speeds beyond the limits of conventional aircraft. And at the very least, these Unidentified Flying Objects represent a super-secret governmental program. However, if this is the case, the time is long overdue for public disclosure. Without a doubt, the governments of the world possess many strange experimental flying craft, the likes of which are kept secret, but I contend that the government's experimental flying craft are themselves based on extraterrestrial designs.

We are not isolated beings trapped on "Earth Island", alone in this dark region of space. We are mentally expansive beings connected to this galaxy and to the cosmos at large. There are other intelligent beings out there in the vast territories among the stars. Some of them despise the human race and would destroy us. But some of them respect us and would see us survive. Some of them have already traveled unseen to our Earth to observe us and to dwell among us in secret.

This is not what we have been told by the authorities of our world, but it is the truth nonetheless. There has been a considerable effort on the part of the authorities to suppress all public awareness of psychic ability and of extraterrestrial intelligence. It's been said that knowledge is power, and this is doubly true when it comes to a knowledge of these subjects. However, an ignorance of many important subjects has been imposed upon the general public. And, as the great strategist Sun Tzu warned, if you are ignorant of yourself and your enemy, you are in peril.

Other books have been written on the subjects of remote viewing and on the UFO phenomenon, but what makes this book unique is Part Three. If you are thoroughly familiar with telepathy, astral projection and remote viewing, you could possibly skip Part One. If you are convinced that the UFO phenomenon is valid, you could possibly skip Part Two. But don't miss Part Three because it is the real heart of this book. In Part Three I share stories and theories conveyed to me by a group of unique Christian psychics. They have intensively used their own advanced methods of remote viewing — as well as telepathic contact with benevolent ETs — to understand the extraterrestrial phenomenon. What they shared with me was — and is — surprising, disturbing and hopeful.

Everyone has heard the phrase New World Order (NWO)declared by many political leaders. New World Order is the political code phrase calling for the creation of an all-powerful, single, world government. But something more than a political or economic program is actually being promoted. It will be revealed that the NWO represents not merely a takeover of the world by wealthy aristocrats, but is in actuality the open occupation of planet Earth by hostile extraterrestrial aliens. You might consider that NWO could stand for NetherWorld Occupation.

However, I contend that this occupation can be survived by the human race — and that it will be survived. Although it appears we are in the darkest of times, a spiritual awakening is beginning to take place. With that awakening, so shall come the defeat of the NWO which has been planned by the hostile alien invaders. With their defeat, a bright new day will dawn for the liberated people of Earth.

. Definitions .

Words are used in different ways by different writers, so let me define some terms as I use them in this book:

- Psyche is the mind and spirit, as opposed to the physical body.
- Psychic is any person or ability that utilizes the psyche beyond the limitations of the physical body.
- Clairvoyance is the clear-minded use of intuition and spiritual awareness, to have a clear knowing.
- Telepathy is psychic communication between two persons who exchange information, beyond sensory limits, using mental images and projected feelings.
- Astral projection is the mindful out-of-body extension of your psyche to a remote location in order to have experiences or make observations there.
- Remote Viewing is a process in which an observer asks himself a series of questions in a specific and structured way, which allows him to make non-sensory observations of a person, place or event that is located elsewhere in space or time. Remote viewing is an entirely different process than telepathy or astral projection.

Cosmic Consciousness Defined

Another concept is essential to this book. This is what I call cosmic consciousness, which is defined here as the belief, realization and continual awareness that the entire universe is a living thing. What I mean by this is that, at a subatomic level of the universe there is an intelligent and conscious energy field out of which the material aspects of the universe are manifested.

This means that consciousness and intelligence are not limited to the human condition.

Consciousness and intelligence are personal, subjective experiences. For the most part, you can only define them according to your own experience of them.

Objective science has difficulty describing consciousness in a purely logical way because it is a personal experience that really can't be scientifically measured.

An intelligence quotient (IQ) test can measure how quickly and accurately you answer questions, but it cannot truly measure the attributes of the intelligence I am speaking of, which is the ability to understand things. Only you know what you understand.

To know something is to have an experience of it, to be aware of it. Awareness is consciousness. When you are conscious of something you can observe it, apply reasoning to your observations and achieve understanding, which is the essence of intelligence.

Your personal experience of consciousness and intelligence is something that only you can perceive within the private realm of your own mind, therefore it is completely subjective and unavailable to objective, scientific proofs.

To some extent, your capacity for empathy allows you to perceive the emotions and feelings of others. If you are aware of your own thoughts, you at least understand consciousness and intelligence from your own individual perspective. Your ability to share in the feelings of others, to have empathy for them, is what proves to you that other people also experience consciousness and thought processes.

If you're actually incapable of feeling empathy for others, you're a total sociopath, but let's not go down that path.

When you extend empathy to animals and other living things, it is because you are aware of the life force shared by the whole of the living ecosystem, of which you are a part. Thereby, through your experience of a shared life force, you know that other life forms also experience some level of consciousness and intelligence. On a subatomic level, this life force essence is within even the apparently inanimate elements of the universe. So in a sense, the entire universe is shimmering with life.

When you are able to extend empathy to the entire living universe, you have achieved cosmic consciousness; this is a way of saying in simple words that God has feelings too.

Psychic power is achieved by developing your own inner consciousness and intelligence, and by extending your sense of emotional connection and empathy to all of creation.

. Part One .STAR GATE REMOTE VIEWING

The Rise and Fall of Project Star Gate

This is how the U. S. government became involved in psychic research. During the Cold War, the government of the United States found out that the Soviet Union was doing paranormal research. Fearing that this might give the USSR a military advantage, the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) started its own classified research, which officially began around 1975. Much of this research was concerned with remote viewing. Remote viewing was described as a type of clairvoyance in which persons and events at a distance could be perceived through extrasensory means. In 1991, this research program was officially named Project Star Gate (Star Gate). In 1995, oversight of the Star Gate program was transferred from the DIA to the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). Soon after this transfer, the CIA hired a research group to analyze the success of Star Gate. One report released by this research group suggested that remote viewing worked, but doubts were expressed about its practical applications.

However, the official disinformation story presently disseminated is that Star Gate had been proven to be a complete failure. The CIA would have the public believe that after approximately twenty years of research performed at an expense of at least twenty million dollars, the government ended Star Gate because it concluded that remote viewing was a pseudoscience. Yet, any honest researcher is forced to conclude that the skeptics are mistaken and that the CIA had lied.

The CIA's History of Lies

> We'll know our disinformation program is complete when everything the American public believes is false. William Casey, CIA Director (first staff meeting in 1981)

One reason you should question the CIA's report condemning the Star Gate program is because the CIA has a long history of telling lies. Here are just a few examples of the many times when the CIA was caught in a bald-faced lie:

- During the Reagan Administration, the CIA denied that it was involved in smuggling cocaine from Central American as a way of funding the Contra War in Nicaragua. Allegations by former DEA agent Celerino Castillo drew the attention of the journalist Gary Webb, who exposed the fact that the CIA was behind the crack epidemic of the 1980s.

- Furthermore, the CIA was involved in creating the false intelligence that led to the 2003 Iraq invasion. Using a questionable source named "Curveball", they ignored warnings from reliable intelligence sources and falsely concluded that Saddam Hussein was creating "weapons of mass destruction" (WMDs).

- In another incident, news sources revealed that information from an unreleased Senate report in 2012 showed the CIA had lied about its post-9/11 torture program, exaggerating its effectiveness and understating its brutality.

- Again, the CIA was caught in a blatant lie following the Boston Marathon bombing of 2013. Directly contradicting previous public statements, the CIA was forced to admit that bombing suspect Tamerlan Tsarnaev was a former CIA asset from Russia —whom they had put on a terrorist watch list before the bombing.

▪ In 2014, CIA Director John Brennan was caught in a lie when he said, "Let me assure you that the CIA was in no way spying on the Senate." In fact, the CIA's own Inspector General completely contradicted that statement by admitting that the CIA had hacked into the computers of Senate staffers.

And these are only a few highlights in the CIA's long history of deliberate disinformation. So it should be no surprise to anyone that the CIA also lied about the effectiveness of Project Star Gate. What actually took place was that the government decided to conceal from the public the alarming effectiveness of psychic ability because Star Gate research had demonstrated the ability to psychically manipulate the minds of unsuspecting persons. Those in power wanted this revelation kept secret. So the government took oversight authority for this program away from the DIA and gave it to the professional liars at the CIA. Thus the cover-up began.

The History of Psychic Research

To understand the Star Gate research program, you have to understand what preceded it.

If we were to go back in time, to when human beings first started using their psychic abilities, we would have to go back into the Neolithic era. We would discover that primitive tribal shamans used rituals to create altered states of consciousness. We would find that tribal peoples went on vision quests and painted their visions onto rock faces and the walls of caves. The fact is, there has never been a time in human history when we did not use our psychic abilities — that is, until relatively recent times.

Although there are those who believe that human civilization existed prior to Sumer, most contemporary historians attribute the beginning of human civilization, some six thousand years ago, to the ancient Sumerians. (No doubt there were highly-organized cultures which preceded Sumer, some of which left behind ruins which still speak to their greatness; for example the "potbelly hill" Gobeklitepe (Gobekli Tepe temple complex) in Turkey dates back to the 10th through 8th millennium BC.) However, the Sumerians had a farming society with many of the features that we today associate with civilization. They had kings, laws, courts, armies, irrigation for crops, and — most importantly — written language. Their cuneiform tablets written on clay have survived to this day.

One thing that we have learned from their writings is that the ancient Sumerians were very concerned with psychic predictions. They practiced a sophisticated form of astrology that seems to have influenced astrological systems throughout the world. And they were concerned with numerous other forms of divination as well.

Throughout the ancient world it's difficult to find a culture that did not use one form of divination or another. The ancient Greeks consulted the famous Oracle of Delphi during the 1700-year period between 1400 BC until the 4th Century AD. If you read and reflect on Bible stories, you will realize they contain description after description of psychic phenomena.

From from the first Century AD, the writings of Greek author Hermes Trismegistus, described alchemy, astrology and theurgy:

- Alchemy was a proto-science concerned particularly with attempts to convert base metals into gold or to find a universal elixir. Alchemy was studied by Isaac Newton and other natural philosophers. It was the forerunner of chemistry and physics, which are still concerned with the supposed transformation of matter.

- Astrology is the study of the movements and relative positions of celestial bodies and their influence on individuals, human events and the natural world. Many cultures throughout history and all over the world have practiced some form of astrology.

- In Greek, theos means "god". Theurgy is the study of the operation or effect of a supernatural or divine agency in human affairs. Among other things, theurgy is the use of ritual to acquire sacred knowledge and to remotely influence world events. Theurgy is distinguished from Goetia, also known as sorcery, which is used to invoke demons.

Hermetic writings were eventually forbidden by the medieval Christian Church. Nevertheless, hermetic teachings were an important aspect of the Renaissance and had an influence on Western civilization. Powerful secret societies, founded on hermetic knowledge, exist to this day.

Spiritualism was a popular movement in England and the United States from the 1840s to the 1920s. Spiritualism was largely concerned with communicating with the spirits of the dead. It was populated mostly by frauds who used tricks to deceive bereaved persons who were mourning the loss of their loved ones. However it did spawn some of the earliest scientific research into psychic abilities.

The Society for Psychical Research, founded in London in 1882, was concerned with thought-transference, mesmerism, mediumship, ghosts, seances and the life force. A similar organization in the United States was the American Society for Psychical Research, founded by William James who is sometimes referred to as the father of American psychology. Although such organizations brought respect to psychic research, they produced little practical results. In some cases they were credited with debunking psychic frauds. And in other cases they endorsed some individuals whom they concluded were legitimately psychic. But this type of early psychic research was largely driven by a desire to study and promote metaphysical philosophy.

In the 1930s and 1940s, Joseph Rhine popularized the idea of parapsychology. He founded the Rhine Research Center as a successor to the Duke University Parapsychology Laboratory. He is largely remembered for using Zener cards, named after American psychologist Karl E. Zener. These cards consisted of geometric symbols such as a square, circle, star and so forth. And although you see the glimmer of a scientific method in his research, little practical application can be drawn from his work.

Christian psychic Edgar Cayce, on the other hand, was primarily concerned with using his psychic powers to benefit others. He was more empathetic and less academic than researchers like Rhine or Zener, and in psychic practice, empathy is more important than academic credentials. Cayce was famous for his remote readings, using psychic abilities to help people in many different ways, but especially with their health issues. He founded the Association for Research and Enlightenment (A.R.E.) in the 1930s. Countless persons were helped by his work and he was a significant influence in the growth of the holistic health movement.

In the post-World War II era, Eastern philosophy became popular in the West, and came to influence psychic research and practice. One example of this is a Japanese healing method known as reiki. The word reiki is translated as universal life force. Reiki healers are known to send healing energy to clients in remote locations.

Other examples of Eastern influence are the Hindu concepts of kundalini and chakras. Kundalini could be simply described as the spiritual energy that rises up from the base of the spine to the crown of the head, resulting in the experience of enlightenment. Chakras are psychic centers in the body which have been described as spinning wheels of energy, located along the spine and at key points in the brain.

The synergy of these new cultural influences, as well as new advanced scientific understandings, took place in the 1950s and 1960s. The fusion of various forms of ancient wisdom, blended with the scientific method, resulted in a highly motivated psychic research environment. There were actually a number of successful research programs taking place during this time. All of this contributed to the emergence of the remote viewing research program at the prestigious Stanford Research Institute in Palo Alto, California.

Stanford Research Institute

Stanford Research Institute (SRI) has been around in one form or another since 1946. It performs client-sponsored research and development for government agencies as well as business interests. SRI is a highly-respected research organization which has received over four thousand patents. It's been involved with environmental issues, science and technology.

During the 1970s, SRI physicists Russell Targ and Harold E. Puthoff conducted experiments into psychic abilities.

A great deal of propaganda claims that these experiments were a dismal failure, but nothing could be further from the truth. Disinformation about the success of the SRI psychic research stems from the fact that the United States government is obsessed with keeping secrets. And the last thing government officials want is for ordinary citizens to use their psychic insights to expose governmental corruption. So it was the U.S. government itself that sponsored both the SRI psychic research program, and the disinformation campaign that attempted to discredit the SRI psychic research. I find it highly ironic and almost amusing that the same government which funded 20 years of psychic research would later fund a propaganda campaign to convince the public that their psychic research had been fraudulent.

SRI is one of the most respected research institutes in the world, and common sense should tell you that it would not have allowed researchers to spend years working on psychic research had such research not proved itself valid, time and time again.

Top physicists in their field, Russell Targ and Harold E. Puthoff understood the significance of quantum physics in the application of psychic technology. And they were well-qualified for developing a new technology because of their backgrounds.

Harold E. Puthoff had worked with tunable lasers and electron-beam devices. He would eventually become the founder of a corporation and several prominent scientific research organizations. Prior to working on psychic research, Russell Targ worked on laser technology for the Technical Research Group and Sylvania Electronic Systems. In the 1970s he joined Puthoff in the SRI Electronics Bioengineering Laboratory as a senior research physicist. Targ and Puthoff performed psychic research there for a number of years. After leaving SRI, Targ worked on electro-optics as a senior staff scientist for Lockheed Missiles Space Company. The impeccable careers of these two research scientists contrast with the criticism of their work for SRI, which is often claimed by skeptics to be "pseudoscience".

Most of the attacks on the scientific credibility of the SRI psychic research seem to be led by the followers of the "Amazing Randi", a Las Vegas stage magician. Although the "Amazing Randi" claims to be a scientific skeptic, he lacks any experience working with authentic scientific research and development. Although his debunking of the more obvious psychic and religious frauds is to be admired, he lacks all discernment when it comes to distinguishing between obvious fakes and the serious scientific research performed at SRI. I consider the possibility that his lack of discernment may be intentional and that he is a well-funded front-man for disinformation agents who hide in the shadows. I would suggest that his attacks on those who do serious psychic research are nothing more than a typical disinformation, propaganda campaign. Perhaps the greatest illusion that the "Amazing Randi" has ever created is to convince the public that he's an objective man of science.

The Physics of Psychic Ability

Let's go back to what actual scientists have to say about the real science involved with remote viewing. I believe that Targ and Puthoff, as well as the nuclear physicist Edwin C. May, have all appreciated the two scientific principles explained below. These pioneers of psychic research have well understood how these principles apply to the subject of psychic research.

There are two concepts from physics, the branch of science concerned with the nature and properties of matter and energy, which specifically relate to the subject of psychic ability. These are:

1. The holographic principle and
2. Quantum nonlocal interconnectedness.

Both of these principles are well substantiated by scientific research. However, it's difficult for the average person to comprehend these principles because they feel so counterintuitive.

In recent years, scientists have greatly progressed in terms of understanding the universe. They have discovered new theories, one of which is called the holographic principle.

Before we go into that, we need to cover the subject of holography. A hologram is a three-dimensional (3-D) photograph, made with a laser.

In holography, two light waves come together to create an interference pattern. To visualize what an interference pattern is, imagine that you are standing by a pond, the surface of which is perfectly calm. You throw a pebble into the pond, causing waves to form in concentric circles. You throw a second pebble into the pond a short distance from the first. Where the wave patterns overlap, you get an interference pattern.

To have wave interference for holography you need at least two light waves. The first wave bounces off an object, thereby taking its shape. We call this first wave the object wave. The second wave of light, that has not bounced off the object, is called the reference wave. When an object wave meets a reference wave, the two waves create a peak, a crest, a standing wave-pattern.

When the standing wave-pattern is captured on film, it creates a photographic record — a hologram — which doesn't look like a typical photo. When you look at this hologram, all you see is an indecipherable image — swirls of light and dark lines. However, when this hologram is exposed to a laser light beam, the result is an image that reproduces the original object in 3-D.

To visualize this, recall the image of the famous holographic princess who said, "You're my only hope."

What's significant about the hologram is that, unlike normal photographs, every part of the hologram contains all the information contained by the whole. You can cut off part of the hologram and use it to project the entire image. Such an image would be less resolute but complete, so you would still see the whole princess but she would seem more ghostly.

The hologram has led to the first concept which says, "All of an object is in every part." This is called the holographic principle. Therefore, if we take something constructed of a hologram apart, we will get a smaller version of the whole rather than just one fragmented piece of the whole.

There are many ways in which you can see the holographic principle in nature. For example, the DNA which is in every cell contains a complete blueprint for the entire body. All of the organism is in every part.

This holographic principle suggests an entirely new understanding of how our universe is made. Scientists use the holographic principle to explain advanced theories for physics:

All of the cosmos is in every part.

What this means in simple terms is that every part of the cosmos contains an encoded, essential description of the entire cosmos. To make this more personal, what this means is that the deepest level of your mind contains a working map and blueprint for the entire cosmos. And the universe could not possibly be constructed in any other way.

The second principle is quantum nonlocal interconnection. A quantum is a subatomic quantity of energy. It is the smallest of measurable particles. The study of subatomic particles is the basis of quantum physics. Quantum physics is the area of physics that deals with what lies beyond the understanding of classical mechanics which describes the material universe.

This term classical mechanics describes the system of physics begun by Isaac Newton and other 17th century natural philosophers. It was built upon earlier astronomical theories. Classical mechanics was developed long before the emergence of quantum physics and Einstein's theory of relativity. Classical mechanics does a good job of explaining the motion of planets or even the movement of balls on a billiard table — but the theories of classical mechanics completely fail to explain the behaviors of subatomic particles.

It's been proven that under certain conditions, twin subatomic particles, when separated by distance, will remain connected in some way. But this connection is not through the sequential motions of cause and effect as described in classical mechanics. To visualize this, imagine a regulation-sized billiard table with two regulation-sized billiard balls on it. In classical mechanics, in order for one billiard ball to influence another, it would have to roll across the table and hit the other. But on the level of quantum mechanics, which deals with subatomic particles, when you wiggle a subatomic-sized "billiard ball" it can influence a another subatomic-sized "billiard ball" at any distance so that it will wiggle too. Hopefully, this visualization helps you picture the difference between classical and quantum mechanics.

In quantum mechanics, it's been observed that two photons or two elementary particles emitted from a common source can remain entangled with one another, even when they travel away from each other at a great distance. If you influence one of them, the other one is instantly influenced as well. So this is the point where classical mechanics fails to apply and quantum mechanics has to take over. This connection can't be through light, which is postulated to be the fastest expression of energy in the material universe. So quantum mechanics only makes sense if there is a deeper level of pure consciousness upon which the entire cosmos is based.

> The universe can be best pictured… as consisting of pure thought.— Sir James Jeans, physicist, astronomer, mathematician

> All matter originates and exists only by virtue of a force ... We must assume behind this force the existence of a conscious and intelligent Mind. This Mind is the matrix of all matter.– Max Planck, Quantum Physicist, winner of the Nobel Prize

In talking with Patricia Robinett, author of Knowledge, The Essence of World Scriptures, who did much of the editing for this book, she shared some of her thoughts on the subject:

> The statements by Sir James Jeans and Max Planck invite us to consider the possibility of a universal Mind which temporarily manifests a seemingly material world, that to our physical senses appears to be solid, but which mystics consider to be more like a "dream in the mind of God." Is it possible that what actually allows subatomic particles to influence one another at a distance is a very subtle form of energy, an energy that some might call "universal Mind" or "cosmic consciousness"?
>
> Everything is energy, an energy wave. Light waves appear as a spectrum of colors in which, for instance, red is a slower, lower vibration, compared to violet. Sound waves occur as a scale of tones in which lower notes are slower, longer frequencies as compared to higher notes which are faster, shorter frequencies. What we think of as a physical world appears at a very gross, slow, base wave form level when compared to the pure white light that all phenomena comes from. Mind, as Max Planck speaks of it, is at the most subtle (higher frequency) end of the spectrum. On the gross plane, things that have a beginning also have an end; they start and stop. But that pure white light had no beginning and will have no end.
>
> Could it be that all of creation is just a thought-form?
>
> Thoughts are subtle things, invisible to the human eye. Yet thoughts have substance, no less than a rock, a human body, or a cloud. Manifestations — people, places and things — are > persistent thought forms. No matter how different they seem to be, everything we see, hear and feel, everything that appears to us to be solid matter, is energy and light, which vibrates at its own unique harmonic frequency. Light, sound, sensation — all are waves or "energy in motion".

>
> A scientific dilemma occurs when physics tries to prove the non-physical cause through physical means. Everything we think of as solid matter is actually shimmering light, energy, vibration, Mind, a cosmic thought form. A voyage into the center of an atom with an electron microscope shows that the lowest common denominator is shimmering light. And scriptures everywhere proclaim, "God is Light."

All these exciting new findings make it clear that we live in an intelligent universe, a universe based on something other than physical matter: Mind. Each human mind is a microcosm of the universal Mind. The same consciousness we each experience subjectively is manifested on a subatomic level throughout the entire cosmos. Our minds are connected to all other minds by cosmic consciousness: Mind. Disconnection is an illusion; in reality all is interconnected.

Quantum physicist David Baum, author of the classic textbook, Quantum Theory (1951), called this phenomenon "quantum interconnectedness". Nonlocal connection may be the most important discovery in all of science because it demonstrates the extent to which classical mechanics has missed the deeper reality of our living universe.

Classical mechanics and quantum mechanics are the two major aspects of physics. Classical mechanics is a set of physical laws defining the motion of bodies under the influence of a system of measurable, physical forces. Classical mechanics does a good job of explaining the motion of objects, such as projectiles or machinery. It also describes the movement of astronomical objects, such as galaxies, planets, moons or stars, as well as the spacecraft that fly among them. It deals quite well with the motions of solids, liquids and gases. However, classical mechanics only provides accurate results when applied to objects in the material world. And it also fails to apply if the object in motion begins to approach the speed of light.

When the object of your study is sufficiently small, as in the subatomic realm, then you need to turn to quantum mechanics. As you go into the subatomic realm, the laws of physics seem to change. Until quantum physics came along, scientists tended to think of the universe as a giant machine. They conceived of the universe as being without awareness or intelligence. Now the most advanced scientists realize that the actual building block of the universe is consciousness, the Mind — but not the human mind, the universal Mind.

So ask yourself this: "What is the size of a thought? Can you measure it? How large is a unit of mental conception?"

If the basic building blocks of mental energy are subatomic, then the rules of classical mechanics don't apply to them. So the human mind actually operates along the lines of quantum mechanics. The physical body may be limited by the rules of classical mechanics but the mind is not. The brain may be subject to the laws of classical mechanics, but the mind is consciousness; it is the informational aspect of the brain's functions. The mind is made up of subatomic energies which transcend classical mechanics and obey the laws of quantum mechanics. Hence, quantum nonlocal interconnectedness applies to the mind. And this realization changes everything.

The significance of all this to psychic research is that it explains why human minds are intertwined and it explains why mental telepathy (communication of thoughts or ideas by means other than the known senses) is possible. And, in fact, on a subconscious level of mind, telepathy is unavoidable. You are subconsciously and telepathically connected to everyone else. There is no way that you could not be. Minds are joined. The universe is designed this way. The people we call telepaths are simply people who bring subconscious information into conscious awareness.

Quantum nonlocal connection explains why mental abilities are not limited by these barriers of space and time, that limit the physical world. The physical laws that govern space and time in classical mechanics do not apply to thought. Space and time are barriers to electromagnetic energy and matter, but quantum nonlocal connections do not respect these barriers. Space and time do limit the physical body, but not the mind. The arrow of time governs the laws of classical mechanics. Time only flows sequentially from the past to the future in classical mechanics. But time exists as a holistic continuum on the deepest subatomic level. Time and space do not restrict thought forms the way they do objects in classical physics.

The physical body is always stuck in the present time, always moving from the past to the future. Yet the mind is not imprisoned by this arrow of time. The mind can run free in any direction, past or future, to any time period and to any place in space. Thoughts do not have to move sequentially; they can pop around from one time period to another, instantaneously. You may in an instant remember a faraway event that occurred in your past. So time and space are not limitations for trained psychics who know how the mind really works.

What the holographic principle explains is how, from your present position in space and time, you can have knowledge of what happened — or will happen — in a remote location in the universe, in the past or future. Within a deep level of your mind's consciousness is a complete mental blueprint of the entire cosmos. If you can access this deep level of Mind, you gain access to an accurate model of the entire universe. And with mental concentration, through a nonlocal connection, you can access any location in any time period in the cosmos.

The holographic principle and quantum nonlocal interconnection are revolutionary concepts, but they are nonetheless scientifically valid. They are well proven scientific principles. Not only do they explain why remote viewing works, RV is an application of them as a, proven, working technology.

My Book on Psychic Development

The above principles of physics explain why psychic abilities work and how they are possible. Remote viewing is only one form of psychic practice that takes advantage of these new revelations. In my book, Psychic Development for Prosperity, Self Defense & Political Influence, I describe some techniques for psychic development that were created by a Christian think tank of psychic researchers. Some of these researchers had studied ancient hermetic teachings, some of them had studied A.R.E. materials and some of them had studied remote viewing as well as other psychic practices which were explored in the government's psychic research programs. These Christian think tank researchers have not trained me in remote viewing, but they have trained me in psychic practices based on the same principles. Everything I learned from them is in my Psychic Development book. Although the psychic researchers were Christians, this book was written not just for Christians, but for everyone; you don't have to be a Christian to use these methods. The techniques in my book are much easier to learn than remote viewing and they are safer to practice. Furthermore, they have a wider scope of applications than does remote viewing.

To find out more about my book on psychic development, visit this site: www.psychicThreshold.com

The Emergence of Remote Viewing Tech

Skilled remote viewers are very impressive. With RV training, ordinary persons produce consistently accurate information at a level that only exceptionally talented psychics can produced through techniques such as telepathy, astral projection, automatic writing or divination. Truly, remote viewing is a mental technology created by skilled research scientists.

When physicists at SRI got together with a psychic named Ingo Swann, a reliable set of protocols emerged. These protocols comprise a structured methodology, a precise set of procedures which make for an exacting scientific process. This is a technology of the mind rather than a machine technology, but the development of any technology requires the same type of conscientious, ongoing investigation and experimentation.

The scientific method involves trial and error. For example, the first electrical light is usually attributed to Humphry Davy, created in 1809, but it was impractical for general use. However, the idea of a practical electric light never died. Seventy years later, Thomas Edison, after thousands of experiments, came up with a light bulb that could shine for 1500 hours. This is how real science works. It takes years of research and development as well as many experiments.

Many skeptics of remote viewing are stage magicians with no real training in science, or lazy scientists who fail to do the work it takes to honestly find out if remote viewing is valid. They may even be afraid to discover it works, for if stepping outside time and space is possible, then it threatens their mechanical worldview. If these small-minded skeptics had been in charge of inventing the light bulb, they would have stopped their research after one or two failed experiments. They would have formed a consensus that the electric light bulb was scientifically impossible. Thereafter, they would have accused anyone who believed in the possibility of the electric light bulb of being mentally ill or a fraud. The skeptics would have agreed upon the impossibility of the electric light bulb because they had proven (in their own eyes) its impossibility through one or two failed experiments. Edison experienced a thousand failed experiments, but he persisted, and because of his endeavors, electric lighting is everywhere in the modern world.

Real science involves continual experimentation and improvement which takes place a little at a time over a period of years. And that's how the mental technology of remote viewing came to be. Some remote viewing experiments were unsuccessful and poorly conceived. And when compelled to demonstrate remote viewing under stressful conditions, remote viewers do often fail to perform well. But in spite of failed experiments and other setbacks, the SRI and DIA continued their work on remote viewing techniques. Over time, a workable methodology for remote viewing emerged.

Remote Viewing (RV) Described

In defining remote viewing, we should first understand what it is not:

- It isn't a clairvoyant stream of mental image pictures in the mind.
- It isn't astral projection.
- It isn't automatic writing.
- It isn't divination.
- It isn't channeling.
- And it isn't an out-of-body experience (OBE).

Although these other psychic disciplines are possible (and some can be trained) remote viewing is a unique system which arose originally from the SRI and DIA research.

This is the Defense Intelligence Agency's official definition for remote viewing as found in a document from 1986:

> The acquisition and description, by mental means, of information blocked from ordinary perception by distance, shielding or time.

According to the late Lt. Colonel Gabrielle Pettingell, the DIA and the CIA ran a number of remote viewing programs under a variety of names such as Sun Streak, Scanate, Grill Flame, Gondola Wish and others, which were once classified. But the public still tends to think of all of this remote viewing research as Star Gate because Star Gate was the name used for the remote viewing program at the time of its media exposure.

Although there are a number of different ways in which remote viewing may be performed, all of them have these things in common:

- They are teachable.
- Their results can be reproduced by others.
- They each have a structured set of protocols (procedures).

One thing that most remote viewers have in common is a desire to reduce what they call mental noise. Mental noise is anything that interferes with the perception of accurate information through a mental means. Jumping to conclusions gets in the way. Substituting imagination for mental perception gets in the way. And an analytical overlay can contaminate information.

Sometimes the analytical mind will automatically fill in gaps and overlay a psychic perception with what seems like a reasonable conclusion. This will prevent information from coming in through a purely nonlocal connection. In other words, the information will come from the intellect rather than from a psychic process. Analytical overlay is similar to what remote viewers call data-fitting.

Sometimes a remote viewer will receive a little bit of information and then try to fit in data to complete the picture. Suppose he generated an image that looked something like the tail of a cat. It might be a snake, it might be a garden hose, but he doesn't really know what it is. Let's say he then receives an audio impression — perhaps it could be a cat's meow. So he tries to fit the two pieces of data together: cat's tail plus cat's meow equals cat. Although his conclusion may seem logical, it may also be untrue. Instead of a cat it might be a garden hose with a leaky valve. This sort of logical analysis distracts him from pure psychic perception. So analytical overlay or data-fitting is another form of mental noise which gets in the way of pure extrasensory perception.

In any system of psychic perception, you want to avoid logic, imagination and memory. All of these cause mental noise. In the pure mental silence of nonlocal connection, you perceive reality by looking inward to the source of deep, intuitive knowledge. Even a telepathic connection to another person's mind can pollute information about a remote environment. Therefore, all remote viewing systems have strategies to eliminate these types of mental noise.

In remote viewing, the viewer receives little packets of information. These are like pieces of a puzzle. When the viewer is able to put these puzzle pieces together using the prescribed remote viewing methodology, he or she comes up with an accurate picture or accurate information. And the way that the remote viewer comes up with these puzzle pieces is by asking himself questions.

Protocols in Psychic Training

All forms of successful psychic practices involve protocols: a set of exact procedures to applied during the psychic process. You don't just wing it; you train yourself to use patterns of thought, spoken affirmations and physical actions in a systematic fashion.

This remote viewing practice involves the precise wording of questions and a standard operating procedure which gives the remote viewer an exact set of actions to take, no matter what happens. And that's where Ingo Swann's protocols come in. Ingo Swann was a psychic who worked with SRI's Russell Targ.

Basically, Swann's approach to remote viewing involved the asking of questions. The remote viewer follows a strict set of procedures. He asks himself questions about the target and then answers those questions by consulting his own mental sensitivity. This type of remote viewing is a mind-body practice. The remote viewer keeps his eyes open and is physically active while doing the remote viewing. He's looking for clues that will reveal subconscious mental perceptions of a remote environment. He consults his own inner connection to the universe by asking questions about a target, and then he physically feels his own intuitive responses as he writes them down.

The remote viewer is not hypnotized in the process of using the protocols. He is wide awake and is programing his own thoughts and consciousness the way that a computer programer might operate a computer. And when these protocols are followed exactly, remote viewing works well. It accomplishes the goal of information gathering.

Remote Viewing Teams

In some forms of psychic practice there is a monitor who assists the psychic. I've acted as a monitor in remote healing, assisting a remote healer by asking him questions and directing his attention. This can be useful in complex psychic practices because it helps the psychic to fully direct his or her attention upon the person who is being remotely healed or remotely viewed. The remote viewers I've personally known have an overseer who manages the remote viewers and any monitors the remote viewers might work with.

Because the monitor can potentially get in the way of the remote viewing process, he or she also has to have been trained in remote viewing techniques. I've never worked as a monitor in remote viewing, but a couple of times I have observed a monitor working with a remote viewer. During the times when I personally witnessed this, the monitor was asking questions and directing the remote viewer's attention. But not all remote viewers work with monitors.

In all scientific work, it's best to use a double-blind procedure. What this means is that the remote viewer is not informed in advance about the nature of his target. The viewer doesn't know at first what he is working on. And any monitor who might work with the remote viewer is also kept in the dark. So it is a double-blind procedure. This is to say that you avoid what they call front-loading. If you give the remote viewer or his monitor information up front, this will bias the remote viewing. Let's say you want a remote viewer to observe an enemy army base. If you tell him beforehand what he's observing, he'll subconsciously try to recall everything he knows about the enemy and about army bases in general. So when he consults his inner knowing, his impressions will be from his memory rather than his psychic observations, and this will pollute the remote viewing process. This type of front-loading creates mental noise.

Therefore, many overseers use non-suggestive cueing targets when tasking a remote viewer. What that means is that you might describe the target with a set of randomly chosen numbers, but not with a name that would suggest any meaning. Instead of saying that you want the remote viewer to view an enemy base, you would tell the remote viewer that you want him to view something like, "target 815497". And only you would know what the target really is. The viewer would only know the target as "815497". As the overseer, only you would know that this stands for “Semipalatinsk nuclear test base, April 27th, 1973”. But the monitor who assists the remote viewer might not even know the target number. So everyone involved is given information on a strict need-to-know basis. By using non-suggestive cues, you avoid front-loading.

Also, there is the use of multiple viewers. The remote viewers I’ve known had an advanced training system that allowed them to be accurate, on average, 80% of the time. Normally, really good remote viewers are correct perhaps only 70% of the time. And many skilled viewers are correct only 50% of the time. But if you have multiple viewers tasked with the same target, the majority viewpoint is likely to be accurate. If this process is structured correctly, and you have enough multiple viewers, it’s possible to produce information that is 100% correct. But it’s important that the viewers and their monitors do not know who the other viewers are, because if they do they might subconsciously and telepathically read the minds of the other viewers rather than reading the target itself.

A Christian Remote-Viewing Team Described

I knew of a group of Christian psychics who created a think tank for psychic research. The think tank leaders asked a man trained in remote viewing to create and oversee an elite RV unit to do remote viewing in an advanced way. This think tank was independent of the SRI and the DIA, so how they organized their remote viewing unit may not have been the same as the Star Gate RV units.

The development of this elite RV unit was preceded by years of experience and experiments by dozens of remote viewers in the think tank, who all knew each other. I personally met with some of the remote viewers in the think tank, but never with anyone in the elite RV unit. The overseer who managed this new, elite RV unit spent more than a year recruiting and training its members. Within the unit there were ten remote viewers. Each remote viewer had a monitor and together the pair formed a two-person team. To communicate between the overseer and the leaders of the think tank, there was a go-between, a liaison. So altogether this 22 person unit consisted of ten remote viewers, ten monitors, an overseer and a liaison.

The same overseer recruited and trained all of the team members. Each one was a serious Christian, mentally healthy, physically healthy, exceptionally intelligent, honest, reliable and sober. Each individual in the unit was trained separately from the others. The more talented psychics became the remote viewers and the less talented psychics became the monitors. None of the monitors or remote viewers knew the real names of anyone else in the unit. They maintained the discipline of anonymous separation.

Once trained, a remote viewer never again met with the overseer or anyone else in the unit — only with his or her respective monitor. Each monitor met only with his or her remote-viewer and the overseer. The monitors met alone with the overseer, one at a time, never together. The liaison met only with the overseer and the think tank leaders.

Think Tank <> Liaison <> Overseer <> 10 Monitors <> 10 Remote Viewers

Each think tank assignment specified a well defined target (usually with geographic coordinates and a date). The overseer designated a unique code for the target, usually a combination of random numbers. He wrote the code on a piece of paper and placed it into a sealed envelope, which the monitor picked up and took to the remote viewer at the scheduled RV session. Therefore, only the overseer and the remote viewer knew the code for the target. After each RV session, the remote viewer and monitor would together write up a report, which the monitor then delivered to the overseer. When all the two-person team reports were in, the overseer compiled a final report for the think tank.

As each assignment was completed, the liaison would take the overseer's final report back to the think tank. In return, the think tank would give the liaison a locked case that only the overseer could open. The locked case contained: 1) cash for the unit's funding and 2) the next assignment's target, which was to be kept secret. The liaison would deliver the locked case to the overseer and the cycle would repeat.

The twenty-two person remote-viewing unit maintained a strict discipline designed to minimize the mental noise in the RV sessions and to maximize the group's privacy. Each two-person teams was kept separate from the other teams. The remote viewers and their monitors met only when working. Each two-person team had access to a special room in a remote location which was used only for the RV sessions. Information was given only on a need-to-know basis. The unit's members lived normal lives and never talked about their remote-viewing work with anybody outside of the unit. When they met, they dressed in plain, ordinary, street clothes. The remote viewers and monitors kept nothing in writing to connect them to the unit, and they were always paid in cash. The remote viewers and monitors were extremely well paid for their work.

I don't know if any other remote viewing units are organized in this way or not. But this unit was incredibly effective in gathering data. And once this elite RV unit proved itself, the think tank may have created other RV units based on it.

These Christian psychic researchers had certain political motivations and desired to covertly influence profound social changes. They still exist but I am no longer in communication with them. They wanted me to write this book so that their legacy would not be entirely unknown to society.

As well as having an RV team, the Christian psychic researchers also have teams of psychics trained in structured forms of telepathy and astral projection. Anyone who is mentally healthy, sober and self determined can be trained to perform RV and will have some success. But skill in telepathy and astral projection is a matter of inborn talents, and persons born with such talents can be trained to more effectively utilize them. This Christian think tank uses the psychics trained in telepathy and astral projection to enhance the information gathered by their RV teams.

Remote Viewing Techniques

An assigned RV target must be something known to exist and it must be something specific. You don't task a viewer with something vague like, "Any enemy spy you can find." The target must be a specific person, place or thing. Furthermore, it must be specific in time.

Remote viewing (RV) information is best used as a primary source that can be paired with other sources of information. For example, in 1973, the DIA's RV specialist Pat Price was tasked with observing the Soviet military research facility at the Semipalatinsk nuclear test area. Pat's data was paired with data from another information source and his drawings of a gantry for moving rockets was later confirmed by CIA satellite photos.

Some remote viewers actually draw pictures of what they see, and many remote viewers train their drawing skills using the book Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain by Betty Edwards. When I was studying art history at the university, I used this book and was impressed by it. Whether you have natural talent or not, anyone can effectively learn to draw by using Edwards' methods, and the book also reveals something of the nature of the mind.

It's best to practice RV in an environment free of distractors. Distractors can be noises, electronic equipment, bright colors, hot or cold drinks, wall paintings, picture books, written materials, food, pets, unnecessary people or anything that demands attention. Even an unread book can attract the subconscious mind and thus become a distractor. So the more things you can clear out of the room you're working in, the better.

The ideal environment would be a windowless, soundproof room where everything is colored middle gray. It might contain only a comfortable chair, table, writing implements, paper and perhaps a glass of room-temperature water. It is best if the temperature of the room is not too hot, nor too cold. Even something like a background sound of traffic outside can distort remote viewing because, subconsciously, the viewer might add the idea of automobiles to a target where there are no cars.

Some remote viewers train themselves in environments freed from distractors, but because they want to be able to access their abilities under normal circumstances, they eventually learn to do remote viewing even in environments that contain distractors.

The remote viewer should not be in a bad mood when doing the RV practice. This is called inclemencies. The internal emotions of the viewer might overlay the target and distort it. In short, the viewer should be in good spirits, sober, healthy, well rested and clearheaded.

During the training process, the remote viewer should be given prompt feedback. After the remote viewer has completed a task, he or she should be told what the target really was and all other information about the target. This way the student will stay interested and be able to judge his or her progress. And not all remote viewing targets are as easy to view as others. A good trainer knows which targets are easy and which are difficult and he matches the targets to the skill level of the student.

However, once a remote viewer becomes more confident, immediate feedback becomes less important. Ingo Swann did an RV session of the planet Jupiter in 1973. In this session, he drew Jupiter with rings around it. At that time, Jupiter's rings had never been observed. However, six years later in 1979, space probe Voyager 1 flew by Jupiter and confirmed there were indeed rings around Jupiter. With experience, confidence becomes possible.

Types of Remote Viewing

Outbounder or Beacon

In this practice, one person (a scout) goes out to a randomly chosen target, and the remote viewer remains behind and remotely views the target being observed by the scout. The remote viewer in such a case would have a telepathic connection with the scout, or would use the scout as a type of psychic touchstone to indicate what the viewing target is. My understanding of this type of remote viewing is that it was used in some of the earlier experiments on remote viewing, and it seems to be currently used mostly in training. If there are practical applications for this, I don't know what they are. A skilled remote viewer doesn't need a scout.

Extended Remote Viewing (ERV)

Extended Remote Viewing is usually done lying down in a deep meditative state. The only person I've known who used this type of remote viewing was extremely psychic to begin with and used only some of the recommended remote viewing protocols. She was actually more of a telepath who used angel spirit-guides to acquire information, and she wasn't a member of the elite RV unit. She would recline, stare at a blank ceiling and answer questions asked by her monitor assistant. He would ask questions about the objects, persons, ideas, time, images and sensory perceptions related to the target. She would answer the questions and he would write down what she said. This could go on for twenty to forty minutes. When the session was over, they would write up a report and perform certain mental exercises to clean up any mental debris left over from this type of remote viewing.

This clean up process is important because if the mind of the remote viewer becomes entangled with the mind of the subject being viewed, mental debris can be left behind in the subconscious mind of the viewer. Let's say a viewer is viewing the mind of a criminal. If the remote viewer doesn't clean out the mental debris from the session by clearing his own subconscious mind, he might retain thoughts of criminality on a subconscious level. Skilled remote viewers have techniques for clearing their minds after a session and this is one reason why you shouldn't experiment with remote viewing techniques unless you are properly trained by a knowledgable expert.

Associative Remote Viewing (ARV)

Remote viewers have difficulty viewing numbers and written language. Math skills and language are connected with the brain functions of the left hemisphere. Intuition and visualization are connected with the brain functions of the right hemisphere. Psychic insights are first brought in through the right-brain and then they are translated into left-brain thinking. (At least this is the theory.) For whatever reason, very few remote viewers can view written language or numbers. It's much easier to remote view pictures or a physical sensation, like taste or smell. So in order to have a precognitive knowledge of an event involving numbers, let me explain how you can use a picture to indicate a number.

For example: Let's say you want to use remote viewing to predict whether a stock is going to go up or down in value. This means you will be remote viewing an event which takes place in the future. Remember, when remote viewing, time is not a barrier. You can't change the past but you can remote view it. And not everything about the future is predictable, but you can preview probable future events.

Since it is not usually possible to remote view numbers and writing, you won't try to read the numbers on a stock market report. Instead, you will use pictures to indicate the stock's performance. For instance, you may decide to hang a picture of a smiling baby to indicate the stock has gone up or to hang a picture of a sad hobo to indicate the stock has gone down. You choose pictures such as a smiling baby or a frowning hobo because it's easier to remote view a target that contains strong emotion.

Then, having decided which pictures to use, in the present you remote view your office as it will appear on a specific date in the future. When you remote view your office, targeting the future date of your choice, you will see one of two pictures hanging on the wall: either the happy baby or the sad hobo. Which picture you see hanging on the wall when you remote view your "future" office indicates whether the stock has gone up or down by that date. In the present time you then make an informed decision whether to buy the stock or not.

To make this point clear: you are not remote viewing the stock market report. You are remote viewing the picture hanging on the wall. And of course, you need to remember to hang the appropriate picture on that future date. So on that future date, you will read the stock market report, and depending upon what it says, you will hang the appropriate picture. I have known some persons trained in remote viewing who have made themselves wealthy using Associative Remote Viewing practices similar to what I've described here. You have to judge for yourself whether or not this is ethical.

If you were to be serious about applying this type of precognitive prediction to the stock market, you would actually want other remote viewers to also observe the picture hanging in your office. This is because your own feelings about the stocks might subconsciously pollute the RV session. Because you want the other viewers to operate on a double-blind basis, you would not tell them anything about the pictures or the stock market. And you would not use the same picture twice.

There are other ways to use Associative Remote Viewing. Basically, it's the form of remote viewing that to use when you need to acquire precognitive information involving language, symbols or numbers. And some ARV techniques can be quite sophisticated and complex. So this is for persons with considerable training and experience.

Controlled Remote Viewing (CRV)

The type of remote viewing that seems to be most reliable and useful is Controlled Remote Viewing. This is done sitting up, using a pen and paper to systematically describe a target. This is done usually in at least four stages:

- Stage One: Describe the major gestalt: the overall whole, rather than its parts. For instance, is your target land, water, a compound, a structure or a person?
- Stage Two: Describe the sensory data. What are the tastes, smells, colors, textures and sounds?
- Stage Three: Describe the dimensional characteristics. How big is it, how wide and what is the mass?
- Stage Four: Describe the intangible, qualitative nature of the target. What is it? How old?

Questions, similar to those above, help the remote viewer to create the pieces of the puzzle and then put them together.

Some controlled remote viewers use six stages. After the first four stages, they break down the information and question why they wrote down what they did. They recognize mental noise, acknowledge it and reject it. At some point they go into a fourth-dimensional assessment. The fourth dimension is time. They might position parts of the puzzle that relate to one another and move them around in time to get a more complete picture.

Most practical remote viewing is done with Controlled Remote Viewing (CRV) and Associative Remote Viewing (ARV). In order to learn CRV or ARV, you really need to work with an experienced remote viewer. You might learn the basics in four to nine days of training, and you might spend months mastering the techniques. This is not something you can just pick up by reading a book or looking at a video. Some RV trainers are very skilled and some are hacks. Skilled trainers often tend to be expensive. And to be honest, some of the hack trainers are expensive as well. So if you wish to learn remote viewing, you have to choose your trainer carefully.

Individuals who worked in and retired from the DIA's remote viewing program have made RV trainings available to the public. Expert training is extremely important. A number of skilled remote viewers have warned of the dangers of remote viewing if it is done incorrectly. When remote viewing people, the remote viewer's mind can become entangled with the target's mind, and this could lead to an unfortunate result if the target happens to be mentally unstable. If the remote viewer were to view the mind of a murderer, and failed to properly deprogram the RV session afterward, he might find himself thinking murderous thoughts that he had subconsciously picked up from the target. Furthermore, if a remote viewer was to remote view a violent crime scene, he could possibly become emotionally overwhelmed by the psychic vibrations left there.

I can tell you that any professional remote viewing trainers expect their students to take the subject seriously. So this is not something to be entered into lightly. But I can't advise you about this in any way; you are responsible for your own choices if you decide to go down this path. Here are a few remote viewing groups that have good reputations:

- IRVA, International Remote Viewer Association is a non-profit organization which seems to provide reliable information.
- The Hawaii Remote Viewer's Guild is a non-commercial group that has a positive reputation.
- Remote Viewing Instructional Services, Inc.

Remote Viewing Mind Theory

Much psychic training has to do with the interaction of the analytical conscious mind with the intuitive subconscious mind. All sensory and extrasensory information comes in below the level of consciousness. There is a mental barrier which acts to filter out most of this information before it reaches the level of consciousness. Less than one percent (1%) of this information makes it through to conscious awareness. You would be overwhelmed with information if this were not so. It seems that the brain's primary function is to filter out information that is not of value to the analytical conscious mind.

Think about the vast array of all of the sensory and extrasensory information that is coming into your subconscious mind at any given moment in time. At your deepest subconscious level of mind, you are connected to the entire cosmos and to all beings in it. There are millions of data points coming into your mind at any time. So the process of remote viewing is to reduce all of those data points down to only one data point which can be accessed only through nonlocal perception.

Information consists of patterns of meaning. With any form of psychic training, you learn to become aware of these patterns. In remote viewing, you dedicate a portion of your subconscious awareness to focus on a target. But that target must be specifically defined in order to reduce the all these data points down to one datum point.

For example, if you ask your psychic awareness for general information about an enemy army base, you would be open to an overwhelming amount of data. So the overseer of the remote viewing process must think very carefully about defining the target. The remote viewer will have a nonlocal connection to the overseer and to the target. So if the overseer of the process has defined the target precisely, and the only cue that the remote viewer receives is a non-suggestive target number, all the data points reduce down to only one piece of information that can be observed through a strictly mental process. Then it becomes a matter of teasing out this information through a set of exact protocols. In this way, the information that had been in the subconscious becomes conscious.

The human brain and nervous system is a neurological portal between the psyche and physical body; as such it is a bridge between the two realities of the perceivable material universe and the unseen subatomic realm.

The analytical mind deals with numbers and language, and its function is necessary for daily survival. But the analytical mind hinders psychic insight. The less you have analyzed a target, the more likely you are to use a purely psychic means to observe and therefore acquire accurate information about it. Our culture overrates intellectualization and verbalization and in doing so, it suppresses intuitive abilities. With training and practice, the psychic learns to let go of analysis and to act almost completely on intuition and trained-in habits. At the point in the training where everything becomes purely habitual, psychic practices such as remote viewing, become possible.

Other Relevant Psychic Research

Coupled consciousness is research that is being done which demonstrates the nonlocal connection between persons. A number of studies from around the world have found similar results. Two persons in different rooms (which are shielded from electromagnetic influences) are each hooked up to an EEG machine. Their readings begin to synchronize when they are asked to think of one another. This is not a telepathic exchange but rather an extension of empathy through a nonlocal connection which proves nonlocality.

But think of the significance of this coupled consciousness research. The word noetic means inner mind or inner knowing. There are more than seven billion people on our planet now. And on a deep level of mind, your consciousness is coupled with all of them. Minds are joined. This represents a vast collective mind which if tapped into through a noetic process could yield profound knowledge.

Between August 1982 and May of 1983, a controlled study was performed in San Francisco General Hospital's Coronary Unit. 393 patients participated in a double blind study to determine the influence of prayer on health. They were divided into two groups. One group was prayed for by volunteers and the other was not. Neither doctors nor patients knew which patients were in which group. The study showed that the prayed-for group had higher recovery rates. They needed less CPR and had less need for mechanical ventilators. There have been other, similar studies which have shown that prayer can lower blood pressure in prayed-for persons. And prayer has been shown to have other positive health outcomes for the prayed-for person. All of this shows that people can remotely influence the health of other persons.

The Dark Side of Remote Influencing

Remote viewing research was only about receiving information through a psychic means, but it soon led to remote influencing. This practice involved using some of the methods for remote viewing to contact a human target and to manipulate that person on a subconscious level of mind. So remote influencing is about using a psychic connection to manipulate the thoughts, behavior or health of another person. This can be done without the other person's knowledge or permission.

How much the US government knows about remote influencing is unknown to the public because such information remains classified. Remote viewer Joe McMoneagle, CW2, US Army (Retired), has said that probably less than two percent of all of the information obtained over the twenty-years of RV research has been released to the public. That means that the CIA is keeping more than 98% of this research from the public.

So consider this: if the CIA and its handlers have access to a technology by which they can covertly manipulate the health, thoughts and behaviors of others, isn't it possible that this mental technology is in use and can be abused?

Lyn Buchanan is a well known RV trainer who once worked in the military's remote viewing unit. Since that time, he has lectured about how remote influencing works. He was involved in the Cornell Hypertension Project, a controlled study designed to see if patients with high blood pressure could be remotely influenced to improve their health. The patients had agreed to participate in a study, and although the study accomplished temporary changes in blood pressure, permanent changes were not achieved.

And, if you can use remote influencing to heal, then it's reasonable to assume that you can also use it to harm.

When attempting to remotely influence a human target, thoughts or attitudes in the target's subconscious mind may infect the subconscious mind of the remote influencer. So the remote influencer may become the one who is manipulated, against his will. Therefore, remote viewing and remote influencing are not disciplines which you should undertake lightly. As I have pointed out before, if you haven't been properly trained with remote viewing technology, you are at risk if you experiment with it.

But if you are a skilled remote viewer, you could also practice remote influencing. Through visualization and other processes, the subconscious mind of the remote influencer is programmed to send out psychic messages. These psychic messages remotely contact the subconscious mind of the targeted human being, influencing his thoughts and behavior. The targeted person is influenced through a purely psychic contact, but would not be consciously aware of the fact that he had been manipulated.

Remote influencing can be used to heal or to harm. The methodology itself is morally neutral; it can be used either for ethical or for immoral purposes. The target of remote influencing might be mentally programmed to become healthier or to quit a bad habit. On the other hand, he might be influenced to commit suicide or to betray his country. Remote influencing turns the target into a puppet. Remote influencing of this sort has been performed time and time again. It is a proven technology. And as I said before, it's a technology that can also be abused.

The CIA, as well as those who have access to the CIA's research, know a great deal more about this technology than anyone else. I believe it's reasonable to assume that this technology is being abused. The public can be manipulated like sheep through a combination of propaganda and structured remote influencing. And as long as the public is naive about the existence of psychic abilities, it's possible for unethical persons with this training to manipulate individuals and even social trends by using remote influencing technology.

Therefore, it's no wonder that so much disinformation has been disseminated about remote viewing. A great deal of effort has been used to ensure that the general public thinks of remote viewing as a pseudoscience. However, the more you research remote viewing and remote influencing, the more you realize that these disciplines do work. So you should realize that the disinformation denying the validity of remote viewing is deliberate, well organized and malevolent.

Legitimate Criticisms about RV

The biggest criticisms of remote viewing are:

1. It can take a long time to learn.
2. It can be expensive to learn.
3. If learned incorrectly, it can be dangerous to the practitioner.
4. A military, covert intelligence community first developed the remote viewing system.

One significant problem with RV is that it was developed by military intelligence for military purposes. Military goals involve fear and aggression. RV was originally designed for the purpose of defeating the Soviet Union and all other enemies of the United States. Those who think of psychic abilities as tools for attacking enemies, start out on the wrong foot.

The best goals for psychic abilities are to attain self realization, as well as to heal oneself and others. Psychic abilities work best in an environment of openness, relaxation, a sense of loving acceptance, and a desire for health and well-being for all. Love-based psychic powers are much more powerful than fear-based psychic powers. The Heart Math Institute has performed scientific, peer-reviewed studies that suggest that love is more than just a nice idea, it's a powerful energetic force. For one thing, the electromagnetic field generated by the heart is 5000 times more powerful than the field generated by the brain. Research shows that directed, loving thoughts influence the double helix strands of DNA. Persons are measurably more intelligent when they are in a loving mood than when they are fearful or angry. Loving energy has even been shown to influence matter, such as the molecular structure of water crystals. Put simply, the vibrational level of psychic energy — when it is based on love — is far greater than the vibrational energies of fear, anger or hatred.

As mentioned earlier, I'm the author of Psychic Development for Prosperity, Self Defense and Political Influence. In it, I describe a series of techniques for psychic development which were developed by this secret Christian think-tank. The proof that this think tank exists is that if you use its techniques, you will develop psychic abilities.

But even though devout Christians developed the techniques, you don't have to be a Christian to use them. These techniques can be used by anyone who has faith in a loving, spiritual, Higher Power. These techniques for psychic development are designed for people who live their lives with an attitude of love. Some of the anonymous members of this Christian think tank are skilled remote viewers. And some of them were originally trained in the government's psychic research program. They say that once you have trained yourself in psychic self defense, you are less likely to be the victim of hostile remote influencing. The methods of psychic development described in my book are much easier to learn than RV and have no potentially dangerous sides effects, as does RV. What most people want, is to make their lives better, to be healthier and to help make the world a better place. These methods of psychic training are less complex than RV and can be used to achieve similar goals.

Extraterrestrial Contact with Remote Viewing

After all is said and done, I can't deny the value of RV. The advantage of RV is that when you have a group of well-trained remote viewers who are directed by a leader who knows exactly what RV can do, there is an excellent potential to receive a sort of information that no other presently available psychic discipline can. And because of the sophisticated nature of RV, some researchers are using it as a way of contacting advanced extraterrestrials.

Retired US Army Major Edward Dames was the head of training and operations in the DIA's psychic intelligence unit. He has spoken on the radio show Coast to Coast and elsewhere about the nature of intelligent extraterrestrials. Additionally, a number of advanced remote viewers have used this discipline to contact at least some intelligent extraterrestrials. So the organized psychic contact between humanity and extraterrestrials has already begun — and RV is leading the way.

Just to be clear, I'm not claiming that Ed Dames or any other remote viewers I've mentioned in this book would necessarily endorse my theories about extraterrestrial intelligence. Nor, in their training of remote viewers would they necessarily describe the process in the way I have. So you must understand that I am not speaking for them in any of these matters. But I do hope that I have made the case that RV works, and that I've given you a reasonable explanation of why it works.

Also, I believe that it's reasonable to say that among the most skilled of remote viewers, there is an agreement that ETs do exist and that humanity's relationship with them is of vital concern.

Once you understand the significance of nonlocal interconnection, and once you understand about the size of the universe, you must realize two things:

1. Intelligent ETs undoubtably do exist somewhere else in the universe.
2. Some ETs probably have the ability to remotely view and to remotely influence, humanity.

Therefore, psychic abilities — rather than being a fringe topic — are actually quite significant to society. This is because it's possible that extraterrestrial beings, located far from Earth, are actually influencing human affairs by using their psychic powers. And more disturbing than this, it's also possible that some of these psychic aliens aren't located on other worlds but are here, in and on our planet Earth.

. Part Two .UFOLOGY

My Radio Broadcasts

A few years back, I was a co-host of a radio program in the Midwestern United States. Whenever I could, I tried to do shows on ETs and ufology. These shows were very well received by the listening audience. I told some local stories because here in Missouri, there have been a number of memorable UFO sightings:

- In 1973, Piedmont police received 500 reports of UFO sightings. Citizens reported that their cars stalled when a mysterious light sped above them.

- The same year, in Ellsinore, people saw strange lights in the sky. One witness reported the landing of a disk-shaped craft with landing gears and portholes. When it took off, it left scorch marks on the ground, which were later seen by others.

- Preceding the famous Roswell, New Mexico crash, in the Spring of 1941, between Sikeston and Cape Giradeau at around 9:00 to 9:30 PM, it is said that a Roswell-like UFO crash occurred. At the time it took place it didn't reach the news media, but it did eventually become a part of the folklore of the region.

The story was that a Baptist Minister, William Huffman, received a telephone call in which he was asked to come and pray for the pilots and passengers of a crashed aircraft. When he got there he found police, fire officials, military officers and the FBI. The wreckage did not look like that of a conventional aircraft. It was disk-shaped and inside it were hieroglyphic-like symbols. He also witnessed the dead bodies of little people with large black eyes. The Reverend and the other witnesses were all sworn to secrecy by the attending military personnel.

But when he came home, mildly shocked by the experience, he recounted the story to his wife Floy and his sons. Many years later, on her death bed, Floy told the entire story to her daughter Charlette. And since then, Charlette has told others. Her sister has confirmed this story. Clarance Schade, the brother of the local county sheriff who witnessed some of these events, recalls hearing this story about the crash of a "spaceship with little people."

Rev. William Huffman was a man of good reputation. His integrity was such that it was unlikely that he would lie about such a thing, and he was not known for practical jokes or flights of fancy. So those who knew him believed that his character was such that he would not have made up this story — and Rev. Huffman's good reputation also applies to his wife and daughter.

Fire department files seem to confirm some aspects of the story. There are other interesting facts that relate to this story. The more you look into it, the more it has the ring of truth about it. Some serious UFO investigators have researched this, but with little confirmation. So it remains an interesting hearsay story that many Missourians believe, in spite of such thin evidence.

These are just a few of the UFO incidents I talked about on the radio. We evoked more audience response from this topic than from any other. Although the good Rev. Huffman's story is based mostly upon hearsay, there are many other similar stories from around the world which are backed up with much more conclusive evidence.

Highly Credible UFO Sightings

There have been reports of flying objects in the skies since ancient times. A number of incidents in medieval Europe sound like UFO visitations and classic medieval paintings contain images of what appear to be flying saucers. Although most historic reports are dismissed as myths, an honest analysis indicates that at least some of them are highly credible. Some examples:

- Above Nuremberg, Germany, in 1568, UFOs were seen in the sky by dozens of witnesses. The incident was seen throughout the town and was reported in the local newspaper. A local artist documented the event by making a woodcut depicting the saucer-shaped flying objects, which had been seen flying in and out of cylindrical-shaped motherships.

- In 1952, Kelly Johnson (a famous aeronautical engineer), was walking on a beach in California with his wife when the couple observed a UFO. This sighting was independently confirmed by the crew of an airplane that was flying along the coast at the same time. The shape and behavior of that UFO was unlike any flying craft known to have been made by the U.S. or any other government to that date.

- What makes this observation so credible is that Kelly Johnson was one of the most respected designers of advanced aircraft living at that time. And he wasn't the only expert to have observed a UFO...

▪ In July of 1957, the six-man crew of an American spy plane, consisting of some of the top pilots in the Air Force at that time, was on a training flight over Texas when they noticed they were being followed by a brightly lit object, a flying craft that was clearly being directed by an intelligent pilot. The crew made visual observations of the craft, which they validated using advanced electronic devices. Radar on the ground independently confirmed that a UFO was following them. The multiple observations confirmed that the object could not have been a conventional flying craft of any kind.

▪ In September of 1973, three highly-trained astronauts aboard the Skylab visually observed and photographed a bright red flashing craft in space with them. It was 25 to 30 miles away and had a diameter of 800 feet. It was observed clearly for ten minutes. What's really unusual about this incident is that it was reported to the public. Many astronauts have observed and photographed UFOs, but usually these reports are completely censored by the government and all photographic evidence is confiscated.

▪ In 1980, in England, near the Suffolk coast, a sighting was made in Rendleham Forest near a Royal Airforce Base. Over a two-night period, three different servicemen made several UFO observations. Some of the observations were made up close. One service man even touched the side of a landed craft. There was both visual and radar confirmation.

▪ In 1989 and 1990, a series of incidents occurred in Belgium, in which literally thousands of people observed triangular shaped UFOs. They were frequently photographed from the ground. NATO radar and jet interceptors also observed them.

- In 1997, around Phoenix, Arizona, thousands of persons witnessed both triangular and stationary UFOs. A V-shaped craft larger than several football fields was also observed.

In fact, if you look for them, you will find hundreds of UFO observations from around the world going back to the 1800s. Often they were made by credible persons. Often there were numerous independent witnesses. And in modern times, there is ample photographic evidence as well.

UFO-Truth

I've personally studied this subject off and on for decades, and anyone doing honest research must conclude that at least some of these UFO stories are true. Yet the mainstream media ignores UFO-truth as if it were of no importance. Anyone who tries to treat the subject in a serious manner is marginalized.

UFO-truth deniers claim that aliens couldn't travel to Earth from other star systems because of the great distances. The closest solar system to ours is Alpha Centauri, which is more than four light years away. It is true that we human beings do not presently have the technology which would allow us to come anywhere near the speed of light in a space craft, but perhaps ETs do. Traveling close to the speed of light, it would take approximately five years to travel from that solar system to our solar system. However, for long-living spacefaring aliens, that might not be a problem. Also, according Einstein's theory, as you travel close to the speed of light, subjective time slows down. Years might only seem like months. Furthermore, advanced ETs might have technologies, beyond our comprehension, which allow them to bypass the light-speed barrier. So, in short, interstellar space travel is a realistic possibility.

Even some US Presidents have given credibility to the idea that UFOs from other worlds might be real.

- President Harry S. Truman didn't publicly admit to the existence of UFOs, but he did publicly state that if they did in fact exist, they were from other worlds. He said, "I can assure you that flying saucers, given that they exist, are not constructed by any power on Earth."
- President Jimmy Carter said, "I don't laugh at people anymore when they say they've seen UFOs. I've seen one myself."
- When he was the House Minority Leader, Gerald Ford wrote a letter to the Armed Services Committee saying, "I strongly recommend that there be a committee investigation of the UFO phenomena. I think we owe it to the people to establish credibility regarding UFOs and to produce the greatest enlightenment on this subject."
- When before the United Nations, President Ronald Reagan said, "I occasionally think how quickly our differences worldwide would vanish if we were facing an alien threat from outside this world."

And here is a partial list of astronauts and political leaders who have admitted to witnessing UFOs or having knowledge of UFO phenomena:

- Mercury Astronauts: Donald Slayton, Joseph A. Walker, Scott Carpenter and Gordon Cooper.

- Gemini Astronauts: Ed White, James McDivitt and Frank Borman.
- Apollo Astronauts: Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin and Eugene Cernan.
- Astronaut Scott Carpenter has said, “At no time, when the astronauts were in space were they alone: there was constant surveillance by UFOs.”
- Mikhail Gorbachev, Nobel Peace Prize winner and former leader of the Soviet Union said, “The phenomenon of UFOs does exist and it must be treated seriously.”
- Paul Hellyer, former Canadian Minister of Defense said, “UFOs are as real as the airplanes that fly over your head.”

Ancient Alien Contact

In his book Chariots of the Gods, Erich von Däniken popularized the idea that aliens may have been visiting the Earth since prehistoric times. Author Zecharia Sitchin has studied ancient Sumerian writings and has concluded that extraterrestrials, called t h e Anunnaki, have periodically visited the Earth since prehistoric times. Anunnaki is sometimes translated as meaning, “Those who from the heavens come.”

In fact there are many ancient mythological stories, carvings and paintings that suggest extraterrestrial visitation. Skeptics often brush off modern UFO sightings and make light of them, as if they are just mythological stories, claiming that humans are gullible and psychologically predisposed to such mythologies. However, alien abductions and UFO reports tend to be consistent throughout different regions and time periods, suggesting that they are observations of a real phenomenon rather than imaginary flights of fancy.

Also, there are many examples of ancient engineering feats that modern engineers cannot easily explain. For example, many top engineers have admitted that it would be impossible for contemporary human engineers to build the pyramids at Giza. But the skeptics would have us believe that without any help, using primitive tools, the ancient Egyptians could do what we cannot do with our contemporary technology. Some ancient buildings have been constructed with stone blocks so large and heavy that no existing technology could move them, and yet in ancient times this type of construction did take place. And if you look for them, there are many examples in archeology which suggest that a belief in ancient extraterrestrial visitors is not only reasonable, but it's perhaps the only rational explanation for such extraordinary feats of construction. All of this suggests that there has never been a time in the history of human civilization when we did not have UFOs with us, in the skies above. In ancient times, they may have been thought of as sky gods. It is only in modern times that we may finally understand science well enough to grasp something of their true nature.

The History of Modern Ufology

Some ufologists believe that the dropping of atomic bombs on two Japanese cities in 1945 may have triggered a response from the extraterrestrial community. This event may have created a heightened level of interest in humanity by ETs who may fear that our warring species — if able to attain the ability to space travel — might become a threat to Pax Galaxias, the peace of the galaxy. This may have been what caused an increase of UFO activity on Earth following the second World War.

In 1945, the atomic bombing of Japan had been conducted by the 509th Composite Group of the US Air Force. By 1947, the 509th was the host organization at the airfield in Roswell, New Mexico.

The UFO phenomenon was introduced to the U.S. media in June 1947, when civilian pilot Ken Arnold observed five to nine flying disks near Mount Rainier, Washington, traveling at an estimated speed of 1800 mph. After this, newspapers across the country reported dozens of sightings.

At Wright Davis Air Force Base, Air Material Command, General Nathan Twining wrote a memo stating, “The phenomena is something real and not visionary or fictitious.”

On July 8, 1947, Roswell Army base commander and head of the 509th Bomb Wing, Col. William Blanchard, gave his public relations officer Lt. Walter Haut orders to distribute a press release stating, “Roswell Army Airfield Captures Flying Saucer on Ranch in Roswell Region.”

This press release made the headline of the local paper and was immediately picked up by numerous news outlets, but later the same day, Brigadier General Roger Ramey of the Eighth Air Force in Fort Worth, Texas, publicly denied the statement, saying that it had merely been a fallen weather balloon. Within weeks, President Harry Truman signed the National Security Act, and the Cold War officially began.

In November of 1947, Truman created a top secret research and development intelligence operation to study the UFO issue. It was designed to be directly responsible only to the President of the United States. Its code name was Majestic 12 (Majic 12) later to be known simply as MJ 12. Admiral Roscoe Hillenkoetter may have been the only MJ 12 founding member who believed that the public should be kept in the loop about UFOs.

There's no indication that this group has ever been disbanded, and its findings have always remained classified. Presently the covert governmental research into UFOs is still being performed by secret intelligence groups. They may not call themselves MJ 12 anymore, and since 9/11 they may report to a shadow government rather than the U.S. President, but they don't share what they learn with the public, and that is the legacy of MJ 12.

In groups like this, the flow of information only goes in one direction. All of the information acquired by Project Sign and Project Grudge was made available to MJ 12, but MJ 12 only shared its information with President Truman.

At first it was believed that the flying saucers were of Soviet design and the US Air Force began Project Sign in 1948, to study the phenomenon. Project Sign was replaced in 1949 by Project Grudge and the official coverup began. The news media and the government worked together to discredit and ridicule people who reported sightings.

Project Grudge was eventually replaced in 1952 by Project Blue Book. Air Force Captain Edward Ruppelt headed the Blue Book team and led the investigations. It was Ruppelt who coined the phrase, Unidentified Flying Object (UFO). Blue Book divided sightings into one of two categories:

- In the first category, the easily dismissed cases were made public. These were instances in which an observer mistook some mundane phenomenon for a flying saucer. This type of confusion might be caused by a weather balloon, a flock of birds or the planet Venus. And the people who made these mistaken observations were ridiculed by the news media.

- In the second category, any sighting that demonstrated any possibility of being valid was kept secret and investigated. The Blue Book investigators took their work seriously. Project Blue Book was such a successful disinformation tool that public belief in UFOs did decrease as a result of it.

When I was young I would often hear naysayers ask, “If the UFOs are real, why don’t they just land on the lawn of the White House?”

In fact, in July of 1952, there was an incident 15 miles from the White House. Numerous flying saucers were directly visually observed — as well as being witnessed as solid blips on radar screens. Lt. William Patterson was one of the jet pilots who chased these flying disks and he gave an interview about the incident to the Washington Times Herald. General John Samford referred to Patterson’s statements as “credible observations”.

This incident in Washington, DC had been preceded by hundreds of UFO sightings earlier that year along the East Coast. When the phenomenon reached the Washington, DC area, Al Chop, a public relations man for the Pentagon, was in the tower at the nearby air field. He saw for himself that the radar blips were solid, and he heard the pilots making radio reports. They described the saucers as making seemingly impossible maneuvers before flying away at fantastic speeds. After witnessing all this, Al Chop went from being a skeptic to a believer. The Washington DC incident was reported nationally. Al Chop helped make a movie about all this, which was titled UFO. It was released in 1956. But by then, continual disinformation by the government and media had successfully suppressed the public's belief in UFO phenomena.

As explained before, when the government wants to cover-up something, they hire the professional liars at the CIA. After the UFO incident in Washington, DC, the government began to plan its official coverup. The CIA's Robertson Panel was commissioned in December of 1952, and official meetings were planned for the following year.

In the years preceding the Robertson Panel, Ruppelt and Blue Book team had performed serious investigations into UFOs. Ruppelt was known to be fair and open-minded, but the CIA Robertson Panel concluded that the government should mount a campaign to discredit all UFO reports and to infiltrate all civilian UFO groups. Due to the new direction of the Robertson Panel, Blue Book's only real function became disinformation and Ruppelt was reassigned. After that, any real government research into UFOs was kept completely classified, and Blue Book became nothing but a disinformation scam which was eventually disbanded. Ruppelt died of a heart attack in 1960 at the age of 37.

But the official CIA position didn't end UFO investigations by concerned citizens; they weren't fooled by the coverup. Major Donald Keyhoe (Retired) co-founded the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena (NICAP). He continually spoke out against the government coverup and gave credibility to UFO research. But the government did everything it could to interfere with his work. When speaking on a live television show, the Armstrong Circle Theatre, the audio was deliberately cut off and he was effectively censored.

In 1966, the government attempted another disinformation campaign using the University of Colorado, which was paid $313,000 for its cooperation. Edward Condon headed a committee that was supposed to do an objective investigation. However, in August of 1966, Condon wrote a memo to two university administrators that was later intercepted and made public. This memo made it clear that he intended that his report would find that, "UFOs have no basis in reality."

Originally Donald Keyhoe and NICAP had cooperated with the Condon Committee. But when it became clear that this so-called study was nothing but a coverup, Keyhoe resigned.

Condon never really performed any objective scientific research. However, Keyhoe's actions did much to inspire the continuation of UFO research by concerned citizens. The original NICAP existed until the 1980s. By then, other groups had been created and were continuing the work. Such research is presently being conducted by the Mutual UFO Network (MUFON), the Center for UFO Studies (CUFOS), and others.

SETI

In order to suppress the information that was being put out by legitimate UFO research organizations since the 1960s, the government used yet another disinformation tactic to distract public attention. By giving relatively modest amounts of funding money to radio astronomy projects, the government's UFO-truth deniers pretended to take the search for extraterrestrial intelligence seriously.

Some radio astronomy projects are referred to collectively as SETI, the Search for ExtraTerrestrial Intelligence. In all fairness,

I can't characterize SETI in a negative way. Many SETI groups have gone beyond radio astronomy in their research, and the use of radio astronomy to analyze possible extraterrestrial activity does make sense. However, my concern is that radio astronomy has been illogically promoted as the only way to look for extraterrestrial intelligence. The UFO-truth deniers have created a disinformation story in which they claim that all UFO reports based here on Earth have been discredited — which they haven't been. This disinformation-based story of theirs would leave radio astronomy (which only looks for radio signals from far away solar systems) as the only valid method to search for extraterrestrial intelligence.

The idea that radio astronomy is the best way to search for extraterrestrial intelligence was popularized due to the work of the skeptic and cosmologist Carl Sagan. I have mixed feelings about Sagan's public stance on the UFO phenomena. Although he was an affable public speaker and author who did much to make the subject of astronomy interesting, he never publicly acknowledged the credibility of UFO research. He often seemed to dismiss or ignore the serious work being done by UFO investigators who realized that alien visitors have already come to Earth. But he did show integrity when he criticized the Condon Committee report for being too narrow-minded. He risked his career when he protested against the war in Vietnam and spoke out against nuclear war. And I have to admit that Sagan was in a difficult position. If he had acknowledged the credibility of UFO research, he would have lost his standing with the news media and the government. So he took a diplomatic position — acknowledging some truths about the possibility of extraterrestrial intelligent life, while dismissing the UFO phenomena in general.

Some Important Researchers

The truth is that radio astronomy is only one method in a wide variety of research systems. There have been researchers who analyze photographs of UFOs, researchers who study the trace materials left behind by UFOs and researchers who interview witnesses. And there are other ways to analyze data relating to this subject. There have been some very competent and well-educated ufologists who have studied this phenomena in a serious way, and their work deserves more respect than it has received to date. To name just a few:

- Jacques Vallee, computer scientist
- Nick Pope, former British Defense Ministry Head of the UFO Desk
- Paul Hellyer, Canadian engineer, politician, writer, and commentator
- Stanton Friedman, nuclear physicist
- J. Allen Hyneck, astronomer and former Bluebook investigator
- Allan Hendry, astronomer
- James E. McDonald, physicist
- John F. Schuessler, NASA and aerospace administrator
- Lt. Col. Wendelle Stevens, photographic analysis expert

In spite of such serious research, many civilians continue to accept the past 70 years of government propaganda and join the official position — to ridicule anyone who tries to promote UFO Truth. This inability to think for themselves and to objectively read research, yet to ridicule and obsessively embrace denial — is an expression of excessive and irrational fear: neurosis.

Others tell themselves that perhaps ETs exist, but because they are light years away, we are separated by the vast ocean of space which can never be crossed except by radio waves. This seems to comfort them, but there is also a psychological component to this "impossibility" scenario: denialism.

Action movies that feature hostile, warlike aliens feed the public's fears to the extent that many people find it difficult to entertain the possibility of intelligent, compassionate ETs from outer space. Because of imaginative depictions in movies and books, they are afraid to find out more — facts that might actually comfort and reassure them. They prefer to live in ignorance and unnecessary fear. Their beliefs are based on imaginary stories told to sell theater tickets, to entertain audiences and stir up strong emotions; in short, to feed the adrenaline addiction that is common in our modern world.

The motto in Hollywood is, "Be afraid; be very afraid!" Why? Because horror stories sell. The content of most stories, books movies and games that people expose themselves to are fiction, not based on reason or evidence. Emotion, peer pressure and a fear of authority are the primary motivators for most people's belief systems. Also, some skeptics hold to their disbelief, simply because of an inability to face their fear of the unknown. It takes a lot of courage to do a reality check, to reach out, turn on the light, and find out that the "ghost" is just a cobweb.

Carl Sagan's enthusiastic search for distant extraterrestrials was psychologically safe for people; it allowed them to get used to the idea that ETs exist without triggering their fears. So I have to admit that Sagan's SETI approach did have certain virtues. To date, he has been one of the most notable scientists involved with research involving extraterrestrial intelligence. He died in 1996.

The Limits of Radio Astronomy

I can't say that the theory behind radio astronomy research is without scientific merit, however there is something about the actual research method which many people fail to understand. The truth is that any radio or television signal broadcast from Earth would degrade long before it came close to the nearest solar system. There is a principle of science known as the inverse square law. In terms of radio astronomy, this means that a radio signal degrades at an exponential rate the further it travels. At twice the distance it's 1/4 as great. At ten times the distance it's 1/100th as great. And the signal degrades rapidly in this manner until it disappears from any ordinary detection system.

So radio signals aren't really the most logical way to search for intelligent extraterrestrial life. However, some radio astronomers argue that advanced extraterrestrials might have developed technologies that can detect faint radio signals. But if you understand quantum nonlocal interconnection, remote viewing, telepathy and the fact that the aliens are already here — it's absurd to assume that radio astronomy is the only method for detecting extraterrestrial intelligence.

The only radio signal of significance that has ever been publicly announced is something called the "Wow! Signal". This is because after witnessing the signal, a scientist wrote the word "Wow!" on the side of the printout that recorded it. This was in 1977, and if any other significant signals have been captured by radio astronomy, knowledge of their existence has been suppressed by the government.

However, the periodic and modest government funding of radio astronomy is not a waste. This science has shown that radio signals can be aimed, focused, amplified, and used for communication in long-distance space travel. And radio astronomy has produced quite a bit of other valid scientific data. There can be no doubt that most SETI members are competent and sincere. And some SETI members do believe in ufology. But it's unlikely that advanced ET civilizations in far away solar systems would use radio signals as a way of contacting us. And if radio astronomers have detected UFO activities within our own solar system (which may be what they're actually looking for), this information has been withheld from the public.

However, the modest government funding will likely continue even without any announcements made by radio astronomers of intelligent extraterrestrial contact. This is because, insofar as the government is concerned, radio astronomy's real job is to discourage all public awareness of the fact that flying saucers from outer space are already here.

The Nature of Flying Saucers

In spite of all the disinformation, enough honest research has been done by ufologists to conclude some things about these flying saucers which do, in fact, exist. Some of the UFO sightings are experimental flying craft built by the government in classified programs. Bob Lazar worked as a scientist at the Area 51 Air Force Groom Lake test range site. He has talked about the back-engineering of alien flying saucers that went on there. Other researchers have looked into this as well. There's no doubt that these experimental human-made craft are based on technologies of extraterrestrial origins. Therefore, it's difficult for civilian observers to know if what they are seeing is authentically alien or merely derived-from-alien technology. Based on landing gear imprints, some of these craft must weigh several tons and repeated observations indicate that they are sometimes seen coming out of larger, cigar-shaped motherships that can be up to a thousand feet long. At night, halos of light have been seen surrounding such craft. Speeds of up to 9,000 mph and altitudes of up to 60,000 feet have been observed on radar.

Respected aerodynamicist Paul H. Hill was a former NASA engineer who wrote about flying saucers in his 1995 book, Unconventional Flying Objects. He suggested that elementary particles such as electrons or protons are ejected to form a plasma cone beneath the craft. Most of the thrust is used to allow the craft to hover. When it tilts, that moves the cone of plasma back so that it pushes the craft forward. It can slow down or stop by tilting in the opposite direction, and the craft can take off at fantastic speeds by tilting on its side, to fly like a jet. It can make sudden reversals by flipping over. All of these maneuvers have been observed by people witnessing UFOs.

Some UFO investigators specialize in the physical evidence that is left behind by UFOs, such as burn marks and crop circles. Some of the burn marks, crop circles and other physical evidence researched by ufologists can't be explained by any type of human activity. Although there can be no doubt that some crop circles are made by human beings, not all crop circles can be so easily dismissed. It may even be that some of the groups of humans who create crop circles may be telepathically influenced by ETs.

Many people believe that crop circles are somehow created by flying saucers in stealth mode or even by aliens hiding beneath the Earth. Crop circles have been seen in England going all the way back to medieval times, but documenting crop circles only began in earnest during the 1980s.

Crop circles have become increasingly intricate and sophisticated over time. Whether constructed by extraterrestrials or by Earthlings, many of the most complex crop circles seem to represent a sacred geometry expressed in the form of mandalas intended to heal humanity and the Earth. And the messages contained in them sometimes suggests that humanity is approaching a crisis of great magnitude.

The Impact of The Roswell Incident

There can be no doubt that UFO activity is reshaping our world. Many reliable persons with insider information have acknowledged this. Apollo 14 Astronaut Edgar Mitchell said,

> And the evidence points to the fact that Roswell was a real incident, and that indeed an alien craft did crash, and that material was recovered from that crash site.

Consider some of the revelations that were made by Col. Philip J. Corso (Retired) in his 1998 book The Day After Roswell. Corso was a special assistant to Lt. General Arthur Trudeau who headed Army Research and Development. Corso was the Chief of the Foreign Technology Desk in the Pentagon. This office was in charge of taking technology artifacts so that they could be reverse-engineered. The reverse-engineering process involves scientific analysis of crashed flying craft to see what technological secrets can be learned from the wreckage. Corso revealed that they not only had recovered technology from Russian crashed aircraft and that of other countries, but they also had the recovered technology from the crash in Roswell, New Mexico. Corso was instructed to distribute recovered materials from the Roswell crash to certain corporate research labs. This resulted in the development of fiber optics, integrated circuits, particle beams, advanced lasers, Kevlar bulletproof vests, velcro and other new technologies. Consider all the ways in which these new technologies have altered human civilization.

There have been those who have tried to attack Corso's credibility, but that's difficult to do. Corso's career suggests integrity and competence. Corso was Chief of the Counter Intelligence Corps in Rome. Later he was on the staff of President Eisenhower's National Security Council as well as other important posts before becoming the Chief of the Pentagon's Foreign Technology Desk. Because his career was in military intelligence, it's probable that he had quiet permission from those in authority to make public these facts about the back-engineered Roswell technology.

At the first release of The Day After Roswell, the head of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Strom Thurmond, endorsed Corso's integrity in the book's preface. Although Senator Thurmond would later say that he knew nothing of any government cover-up, it's likely that Thurmond and others in positions of authority actually wanted the release of this information. After all, this release was done in such a way so that those in authority could maintain credible deniability.

Corso's Roswell book helped to promote support for the project that had started in 1984 as Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative. In 1993, under Clinton, Reagan's program was renamed Star Wars and public enthusiasm for it was waning. Corso's book made the Strategic Defense Initiative seem important again. He made the case that this program was never really about protection from human enemies; it was about protection from alien invaders.

. Part Three .SURVIVING THEALIEN NWO INVASION

My Sources for This Section

As I pointed out in the Introduction, most of the information covered in Parts One and Two of this book can be found elsewhere. What is unique about this section, Part Three, is that all the information here comes from a group of anonymous Christian researchers trained in advanced psychic practices. These Christian psychic researchers may very well be the most accomplished psychics presently living in the world today. But they feel a need to protect themselves and their families by remaining anonymous, so they're using me as the outlet for their beliefs and insights.

This group consists of remote viewing (RV) specialists, as well as talented psychics trained in telepathy and astral projection. In the first section of this book I wrote extensively about the remote viewers, so I think I should explain a little more about the group's other psychics — the ones who trained primarily in telepathy and astral projection.

Telepaths are not channelers. Each of these telepaths mastered telepathic communication with other Earthlings, before making telepathic contact with ETs. Once a telepath has reached a high level of skill, he or she can communicate with other telepaths located remotely, anywhere else in space or time. So a telepath can communicate with extraterrestrials on other planets. They can also communicate with telepaths who live in the future as well as telepaths who lived on Earth in ancient times. Telepathic communication doesn't use words to communicate ideas, it uses mental images and projected feelings as a language. So this can be challenging, and some people are naturally talented at telepathy just as some people are naturally talented at art.

Not everyone has a natural talent for astral projection, but if they do, it will eventually emerge on its own with only a little encouragement. Persons who want to improve their natural talent for astral projection often start their training by practicing deep meditation, dream analysis and lucid dreaming.

The movement of the astral body is governed by visualization and strong intentions. The person practicing astral projection reclines on a sofa or bed in a darkened room in which anything distracting has been removed. He or she goes into a sleep-like trance state. Once a serene, out-of-body state has been achieved, he or she projects the astral body to a remote location. This can be anywhere in the universe and at any time period. Then this psychic will make observations of the environment before returning to the physical body and wakefulness. Once awakened, the psychic describes the experience in writing or by using a voice recorder. The point should be made that it's best to not astral project to environments that are frightening to behold, at least not until one is a true master of this talent. And such mastery only comes with much experience.

Psychics using astral projection and telepathy take this information generated by RV specialists to do further research, which then creates a more complete picture than could be achieved by remote viewing alone. Also targets that are assigned to RV specialists often do come from information first generated by telepaths and astral projection experts.

These anonymous Christian RV specialists and trained psychics have demonstrated to me a high degree of skill and accuracy, so I consider it probable that what they have shared with me about other matters is true as well. You can decide for yourself how credible you find this information to be. Perhaps you will at least find it to be of interest.

The information in this section was presented to me gradually, over a period of many years. I actually completed the first draft of this book more than two years ago, but I found the information in it to be so personally challenging that I couldn't bring myself to publish it right away. This Part III describes a radically different history of the world than I was taught in public school. In fact, it presents an entirely different way of thinking about the world. This book comes last in my seven-book series because the concepts were so difficult for me to integrate into my worldview.

It's likely that some people reading this section will find the ideas a bit bizarre and perhaps even offensive; some may find them laughable. I've decided to be unconcerned with how readers react to the material. These ideas about the existence of ETs did not originate from me, but I have come to believe that these descriptions of extraterrestrial life may very well be the way things are. What I've written here is based on my conversations with various members of this group of psychic Christians, and my only goal has been to relay their philosophy and perspective accurately, a goal that I feel confident I have achieved because of feedback they've given me.

There are many sources for information about extraterrestrial existence, such as ufologists, ET channelers and ancient astronaut theorists. And some of the ideas presented in this section may sound similar to those put forward by some of these other sources, but the information here was generated in a much different way. I have come to see this view of reality presented to me by these psychic Christians as a helpful tool that allows me to discern reliable ET facts from those theories that are merely flights of fantasy.

Christ's Life Revealed by RV & Telepathic Contact

When the leaders of the Christian remote viewers group decided to start looking into the human history of Earth, they expected to find confirmation of what they had been taught in school: primitive tribes of brute cavemen morphing into agricultural societies, followed by the industrial revolution and finally our present-day era of advanced technology.

But the remote viewers, who gathered the information I'll be sharing, were given double-blind targets, and as such had no preconceived ideas. As I already explained in Part One of this book, the double-blind RV process screens out any preconceptions of the remote viewer, thus eliminating false information. Some of the information revealed in this double-blind process confirmed the expectations of the group. But much of what they discovered was completely unanticipated.

Because they are Christians, the first thing they remote viewed was the life of Jesus Christ. They were particularly concerned with his crucifixion.

Their conclusion was that the description of the crucifixion as found in the Gospels is extremely accurate. All of the events — before, during and after the crucifixion — took place as described in the Bible.

Something they described in their reports, which was not in the Bible, was the presence of benevolent extraterrestrials. They also observed ETs disguised as Earthlings, present in the crowds. In addition, there were extraterrestrial flying craft in full stealth mode, hovering over Jerusalem at this time. The crucifixion of Jesus Christ was an event of galactic significance.

At this point I should explain again how the Christian remote viewers worked. They used an enhanced version of controlled remote viewing (CRV). They were assigned to make observations about a target — a person, object or event, in a particular location and at a specific time. This was all done in a double blind way; the remote viewers and their immediate helpers were only given a target code — a random set of numbers.

In their training, each RV specialist would first prove his or her skill level by acquiring data on targets that exist in the present time, so their accuracy could readily be established. Then they would be tested on targets that existed only a few decades earlier, so it would still be possible to verify information about the target. Only then were they tasked with making observations about the life of Jesus Christ.

None of them knew in advance that they had been assigned to observe the life of Jesus Christ. And the last events they observed about him were the crucifixion and the ascension.

Once all of the RV information about the life of Jesus Christ was acquired, this information was further explored, using telepathy and astral projection. Because benevolent ETs living at the time of Jesus periodically observed his life, they were contacted telepathically. And the psychics who used astral projection would drop in on various periods of his life to observe events and situations.

What was described to me was a story based on data collected with these advanced forms of psychic perception. What the remote viewers told me is so controversial that I've been reluctant to share it, but I feel I must.

What they observed in Jesus' early years was the life of an ordinary man born outside of a small city in Roman-occupied Judea. As a child, his family moved to a Jewish community in or near Alexandria, Egypt. His family eventually moved back to Judea where he grew up to become a merchant and religious teacher. When he came of age, he married a woman, had children and lived an ordinary life. They became prosperous and moved to a Greek city in the region of what is today is known as Turkey.

In his late twenties, Jesus left his wife and his children, never to see them again. This was not abandonment; he left his wife and children well provided for, and they all understood that he had a higher calling that could not be denied. After leaving, he lived a life of continual travel, prayer and celibacy.

He became involved with a religious group in Judea lead by John the Baptist. The Christian psychics who observed Jesus' baptism said that it changed his character completely. The psychics who observed him before his baptism described him as an ordinary man. After his baptism, they described him as "godlike" and "more extraterrestrial than human". Following John the Baptist's death, Jesus eventually became the leader of John's group.

I need to point out that the psychics who observed this period of Jesus' life described John's followers as being cult-like. However, this cult-like group turned into a more widespread movement after Jesus took it over.

He traveled with a group of men who were described as his students, bodyguards and assistants. He spoke to crowds of people, performed miracles and healed people. He had friends among both wealthy Jewish community leaders and members of the Roman Army. He was respected by both Jews and gentiles. He met in secret with certain Roman authorities who privately approved of his ministry because they saw it as no threat to Roman political power. Some of the miracles ascribed to Jesus in the Bible were observed by pagan Roman spies who came to think of him as a god.

But many Jewish religious leaders felt an intense hatred for Jesus because he rejected their authority, disobeyed their religious laws and made them look foolish in public. Because of this, numerous assassination attempts were made against him. Finally, supported by crowds of followers, he entered into Jerusalem on what we now call Palm Sunday — and the rest is history.

The remote viewers only detected the presence of extraterrestrials during his birth, ministry, crucifixion and ascension. During the period of his ministry, some of the remote viewers described him as being a human-like extraterrestrial living among Earthling humans. Several remote viewers described their target — unknown to them as Jesus Christ — as having an intense quality of divinity about him. One remote viewer said that his target was filled by and surrounded with "divine love".

I should explain that this group of Christian psychics have enough highly-trained remote viewers that different teams could be tasked with different areas of the life of Jesus.

The remote viewers who were tasked with observing the more mundane periods of his life had no idea they were observing Jesus Christ, because before his baptism his life was that of an ordinary, married Jewish merchant. I was told that his wife was not Mary Magdalene. Apparently, his wife and children have no place in written history. This would mean that his unknown descendents may still live among us. If indeed Jesus Christ was some type of extraterrestrial visitor to Earth, his present day descendents would not be the only humans who have some type of extraterrestrial ancestry. I was also told that in that mundane period of his life, he had no miraculous powers and was not charismatic.

But as I said earlier, in the period after his baptism he was completely different. The Christian psychics observing this period of his life, described him as being like the head of a small army, fighting a psychic war against demons. “Demons” were described as being the astral bodies of hostile aliens, powerful expressions of negative psychic energy. Jesus and his followers cast out demons wherever they went, and in doing so, they completely transformed spiritual life in the villages they visited.

Remote viewers tasked with observing the life of Jesus were themselves affected in a number of interesting ways. Some who viewed his ministry and crucifixion received spontaneous healing. For example, a remote viewer who was partially blind, suddenly could see clearly again. Crippled limbs and chronic health problems were cured in others.

But there were also some surprising philosophical changes that this group of Christian psychics experienced as a result of their research.

One philosophical change had to do with their tolerance of gay Christians. The psychics who looked at Jesus' pre-baptism life (not knowing it was Jesus Christ they were observing) described him as a married (straight) Jewish merchant who had some gentile friends who were gay men. In the period after his baptism, they described situations that indicated a small number of his students and followers were gay men, whose lifestyle was accepted by Jesus. He even defended them before crowds and religious leaders.

An incident was psychically viewed in which Jesus Christ freed a wealthy homosexual man from a demon and that man immediately stopped dressing in women's clothing and abandoned his homosexual lifestyle. But basically, what was described to me was that Jesus was a gay-friendly straight man. If this seems unlikely, consider the fact that Greek and Roman culture from this time period was fairly accepting of homosexuality, and Jesus may have been comfortable with gentile culture. The group of Christians psychics who were observing the life of Jesus had previously been homophobic to the extent that they wouldn't let gays join their group. After looking at the life of Jesus, they decided to let some Christian gays join it.

Also, the remote viewers who observed the ascension of Jesus had a variety of reactions. They described overwhelming feelings of joy after these particular remote viewing sessions. They described Jesus as disappearing into another dimension. One remote viewer who attempted to peer into this dimension fell asleep when he tried. After fifteen minutes of sleep he woke up and babbled on about being in a "heaven-like" environment, after which he passed out for a minute... and when he awoke, he couldn't remember what had happened. After this incident, the remote viewing leaders decided to move on, into other areas of research.

The Early Solar System History

The story told to us by contemporary scientists about how the solar system was formed in no way agrees with what these Christian psychics have come to believe. When remote viewing the history of the world, what these Christian psychics discovered, surprised them in many ways. They observed that human civilization goes back far more than a hundred thousand years. During the past ages, that we contemporary humans think of as prehistoric times, remote viewers found advanced civilizations, some of which were highly technological.

In talking about extraterrestrial aliens, I am going to use the names given to me by my psychic Christian friends. Other sources have talked about the same ETs, and their worlds, but sometimes the other sources have used different names from the ones I'm going to use.

I should mention again that in their study of the ET phenomena, this group of Christian psychics used more than remote viewing. Some of the information about extraterrestrials comes from remote viewing and from telepathic contact with benevolent ETs. As I said before, it's possible for current-day telepaths to communicate with telepaths living in the present, as well as telepaths living in other time periods. And a telepathic human can communicate with a telepathic ET.

Not only was the real history of Earth quite different from what we were taught, but the history of the entire solar system was quite different. Our present-day "astroid belt" is in the same orbit that once held a large planet with a living ecosystem. This planet was destroyed long ago, leaving behind only large pieces of space rubble. This planet (the psychics called it Elysium) had been the home of the former rulers of this solar system known as the Elohim, an advanced species of human-like beings who fled the planet Elysium just prior to its destruction.

According to what I was told, if you go back far enough, long before the time when the Elohim first came here, the solar system was organized differently. The planets were actually in a different orbital order than they are now and some of the planets we now know did not yet exist. In that long-ago, long-forgotten age, Mars was a living planet with a molten core, an atmosphere, an ecosystem and inhabitants. Mars may have been located in what is presently the Earth's orbit, as planet Earth did not exist back then. The beings who lived on Mars when it was a living planet, disappeared long ago — along with the Martian atmosphere and ecosystem.

Long after that time, hundreds of thousands of years ago, when a colony of the Elohim first came to this solar system, they reorganized it, making many changes, including — as incredible as it sounds — moving the dead planet of Mars to a whole new orbital slot. With their amazingly advanced telekinetic powers, they reordered the location of the planets and created two new, living planets: Earth and Elysium. They seeded these two planets with beautiful life forms to create functioning ecosystems. They populated the Earth with the original form of humans, which had been designed and somehow manifested by the Elohim.

There were other friendly ET cultures coming and going after the arrival of the Elohim to this solar system. For more than a hundred thousand years, our solar system was a place of space travel and other wonders.

If you go back only about sixty thousand years ago, the planet Mars, in its new orbital slot, was again inhabited, but this time by human beings whose ancestors had come from Earth. The human beings who went to Mars had been recruited into becoming a spacefaring people by the Elohim. The Elohim ETs selected the most intelligent members from tribes of hunter gatherers on Earth, and brought them together in giant space stations above the Earth. There, they were reeducated, given a new language, and trained to deal with spacefaring technologies. Then, they were sent to colonize the dead planet of Mars as well as to colonize space stations that, in that time period, surrounded Jupiter.

Through this colonization, Mars became home to many domed communities, each spanning miles of territory, with living ecosystems, complete with plants and animals — much like those on Earth. The planet Mars, in that era, did not have an atmosphere, but there were fields, forests and farms covered by gigantic, clear domes that held breathable air. There were massive cities whose walls sealed in breathable air. There were giant space stations above Mars, and the spacefaring human residents of Mars had their own space fleet.

For thousands of years, spacefaring humans whose ancestors had come from Earth, experienced a golden age of space travel in which they explored and colonized this solar system and even traveled to other solar systems.

The human-Martians, along with the spacefaring humans who occupied Jupiter space stations, were eventually forced to flee this solar system before their space stations, domed cities and Martian surface areas were destroyed by invading aliens. These spacefaring humans migrated to a solar system in the Pleiades star system to become known as the Pleiadians.

Ancient artifacts and writings provide ample evidence of space travel in ancient times. They describe and depict pilots in astronaut gear, flying crafts, and life forms, all quite different from humans. These artifacts are found all over the world: Egypt, Mesopotamia, India, China, Europe, the Middle East, Australia and the Americas. Hindu texts tell many tales of flying chariots and sky wars. Medieval religious paintings sometimes feature objects in the sky that appear to be UFOs.

The Interstellar Battle for Earth

There is a Galactic Authority, a galaxy-wide government, that rules over spacefaring cultures who have developed the technological capacity for interstellar travel. The advanced extraterrestrials, the Elohim, some of whom once had a colony in this solar system, are the top representatives of the Galactic Authority. This alliance consists of many different types of ETs, most of which will not be described in this book.

The word Archon means ruler, and the Archon Confederacy has been in an interstellar war with the Galactic Authority, vying for power over planets in this galaxy for many thousands of years. Reptoids are only one of the species that are members of this Archon axis of hostile aliens. Another alien species, the ones thought to have been captured at Roswell in 1947, are the ones we call Gray Aliens or simply Grays. Gray Aliens can be identified by their large, all black, almond-shaped eyes that have no pupils. The Reptoids are the military arm of the confederacy and the Gray Aliens are the technicians. The Archons are the alien overlords of many conquered worlds.

Roughly twenty-six thousand years ago, a fleet of Archon spaceships attacked our solar system, leaving behind great destruction. This may have been the final battle in a series of battles and invasions that had gone on for millennia. I was told that this final battle for conquest was short and brutal. Only a relatively small number of spacefaring humans from the Martian colony remained behind to fight to the death against this overwhelming invasion force.

Immediately before the final battle took place, the Elohim colonists on the planet Elysium, as well as most of the spacefaring humans who once lived in this solar system, abandoned their homes. They all escaped and found refuge on other planets, in other solar systems. The Elohim occupy countless other worlds in the Milky Way, as well as in Andromeda. So the destruction of the planet Elysium was not tragic for them.

But the Reptoid conquest of this solar system was tragic for the human Earthlings left behind. The conquering Reptoids were cruel in their treatment of those humans, incapable of space travel, who remained on Earth after the space battle was over. By the time the invasion was complete, the only human presence in this solar system was the more primitive Earthlings living as simple tribal peoples. And they could offer no resistance to their new alien overlords.

Before the Reptoid conquest, our aboriginal human ancestors were naturally spiritual. They knew they were connected with God; they walked and talked with the Elohim. They were natural psychics, connected with one another. They were more intelligent than present-day humans, but that intelligence involved no science and no mechanical or electronic technology. They lived in harmony with the ecosystem. Their intuitive understanding of the universe exceeded our present-day intellectual understanding. Their unit of social organization was the tribe, which was a small, intimate collection of extended families. They had no use for, and no tolerance of, hierarchy. They were natural anarchists. They were free of government, religion, warfare and business. They were simple tribes of people, living in peace with one another and in harmony with Eden, the natural world.

When the conquering Reptoids came to Earth, they interacted with these tribal human beings. Reptoid aliens are symbolically represented by the snake in the Garden of Eden story. They took some human beings to live with them in space stations. Reptoids and Gray Aliens worked together as a team, to perform genetic alterations. Over many generations, the human race was altered through controlled breeding, and in some cases, genetic engineering.

The Reptoid-Gray Alien breeding program caused humanity to fall from its natural state of grace and to lose its Garden of Eden. It lost its easy connection with the Creator, its harmonious relationship with nature, its innate psychic powers and its freedom. What humanity gained was an intellectual capacity to understand science and technology, and the ability to organize in larger, more complex societies. This is also why some humans today have a tendency to be obedient to hierarchical leadership.

The difference between the Galactic Authority and the Archon Alliance is the difference between a democratic republic and a dictatorship. The Galactic Authority is an interstellar system of governance that provides the support and guidance necessary to allow spacefaring nations to function as democracies, forbidding slavery and granting basic rights for citizens. The Archon Confederacy is an axis of spacefaring aliens who use dictatorships and slavery to impose their will upon conquered worlds.

Following the Archon conquest of this solar system, the Archons occupied Earth for something like fourteen thousand years, and during that time significantly altered the nature of humanity. The Archons seemed to take a perverse enjoyment in seeing how radically they could alter human beings through intensive breeding programs. What humans have done by engineering many distinct breeds of dogs, is similar to what the Archons did with humans. Every culture on this planet, has legends which tell of the “Sons of Heaven” having sexual relations with the “Daughters of Earth”. Chapter 6 in Genesis speaks of this interbreeding just before the world was covered with water by the “Great Flood”.

The Archon-altered Earth was disturbing in many ways. There were tribes of human beings who were abnormally large — ten feet tall and even taller. There were tribes of humans who were perfectly formed, but tiny — as little as two and a half feet tall. Some tribes were made up of genetic monsters, mutated beyond any recognition as human. And under Archon influence, many tribes became decadent beyond reform. Many tribes consisted of inbred humans, and cannibalism became commonplace. Many of the humans on Earth at that time were sickly, and drug addiction became common. Every form of sexual perversion became the norm. The Archons bred humans for their fighting ability and enjoyed pitting them against one another in blood sports, for entertainment.

But even at that time, there were still tribes who remained genetically human. The Archons wanted some humans to be able to function well enough that they could work as slaves, performing mining and other useful tasks. The breeding program for the "more normal" humans had made them submissive to hierarchy and to have technological facility, but otherwise they were similar to our aboriginal human ancestors and very much like present-day humans.

From the first Archon invasion that took place about twenty-six thousand years ago until approximately twelve thousand years ago, the Archons imposed their cruel tyranny upon the human race, while the interstellar war between the Archons and the Galactic Authority was fought elsewhere in this galaxy.

The Pleiadian Space Command

After the first Archon invasion of this solar system, the Pleiadian humans eventually allied themselves with a technologically advanced group of Blue Pleiadian ETs, called so because of their blue skin. This alliance gave both species an advantage over the Archons, and the Archons began to lose the interstellar war in space.

About twelve thousand years ago, the Galactic Authority gave permission for alliance Pleiadian warships to come to this solar system, to drive the Archons away. The Pleiadian attack force had overwhelming success and easily defeated all Archon resistance.

After the Archon survivors fled the solar system in their spacecraft, the Galactic Authority appraised what remained on Earth. They were displeased with the changes that had taken place in the human species over the millennia. There were about twenty million human beings living on planet Earth at that time, but the Galactic Authority considered that most of these Earthlings were actually subhuman. So they passed a harsh judgement against the subhuman beings who remained. From Genesis 6:5-7,11-12:

> And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. And it repented the Lord that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart.
>
> And the Lord said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them.
>
> The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence. And God looked upon the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth.

The Galactic Authority allowed the Pleiadians to kill off more than eighteen million human beings who were considered to be "overly altered" by the Archons. Tribes that were deemed to be too tall, too small, too mutated, too inbred, too stupid, too decadent, or too loyal to the Archons were killed off in a series of massive disasters. Tribes that were considered worthy, were spared. Some of the genocide was performed with energy beam weapons fired from spacecraft; some of it was accomplished by intentionally engineered, massive floods. And it did not all happen at once. It took place over a period of hundreds of years, in a series of contrived events.

This genocide was motivated and justified by a system of galactic politics which now seems incomprehensible to mortal Earthlings such as ourselves. All of this took place about twelve thousand years ago under remarkable circumstances, so perhaps we present-day Earthlings are not in a position to find fault with the Galactic Authority or the Pleiadians for this massive global genocide.

What the Christian psychics who observed this period from the past told me is that the Pleiadians used various methods to help the tribes of humans who were selected for survival. In some cases, human tribal leaders were instructed to build big boats and were directed in their construction. I've been told that large boats of various sizes were built in different places around the world. In some cases, human leaders were told to guide their people to safer territories inland, in massive migrations. In other cases, Pleiadian spacecraft ferried whole tribes from unsafe regions to safer locations. Additional forms of support were given to the chosen survivors. But the tribes deemed unworthy of survival did not receive warnings or help, and they died in the deliberate flooding. Less than two million survived and they were our ancestors.

The Bible tells of humanity's fall from grace in the Garden of Eden story and it also tells of the massive depopulation event with the Great Flood story in which Noah's ark protected a small group of survivors. These myths tell the early history of a people and explain a natural phenomenon, but such events are still occluded in a shroud of forgotten history. These Bible stories are not just parables, but descriptions in fable form, of events that actually took place.

After the Flood

After the Pleiadians liberated the people of Earth from the Archons, the human race was thrown back into a pre-technological state. During the Archon occupation, the human race had enjoyed varying degrees of access to Archon technology. But with the Great Flood genocide, a cultural amnesia was imposed upon the surviving tribes. They forgot the true history of the world and all of the sciences and knowledge that the Archons had brought to Earth. A couple of strongholds of Archon science were preserved, but most human beings living on the Earth at that time, went back to a primitive day-to-day struggle for survival. Some had always been nomadic hunter gatherers, even during the Archon occupation. Others were forced to revert to that lifestyle simply to stay alive.

The Galactic Authority ordered a "noninterference" policy for the human race. Although, from time to time, there were some Pleiadians who occasionally interacted with some Earthlings, most ETs in this quadrant of the galaxy left the human race alone, as instructed by galactic law.

For the most part, the non-interference policy was successfully enforced for thousands of years. In a sense, the reset button had been pushed on the development of human culture. We, as a species, were forced to go back to square one. Culturally speaking, we had to start all over again. This period of noninterference had a healing influence on the genetic nature of the human race, returning us to a closer approximation of the genetic condition of our most ancient aboriginal ancestors.

So for approximately six thousand years after the Pleiadian liberation of this solar system, humanity survived in a primitive state. But then, about six thousand years ago, the tables turned yet again.

Return of the Archons

The galactic war between the Galactic Authority and the Archon Confederacy has been a long one. It has gone on for many millennia. And the success of one side against the other has also gone back and forth. Overall, the Archon Confederacy has been losing this war. But approximately six thousand years ago, a massive Archon warship returned to this solar system, and by then there was no Pleiadian presence here. With a noninterference order on the planet Earth, there would not have been any significant reason for the Galactic Authority to maintain a military presence here.

Apparently, even though this solar system is a kind of galactic backwater, the Galactic Authority does place some value upon the human race. The Archons who returned built bases in caverns deep under the crust of the Earth. They adapted the tactic of using the unsuspecting Earthlings on the surface of this planet as hostages. Hence, the Archon occupiers are protected from future attacks by the Pleiadian Space Fleet. The Galactic Authority doesn't want the Archons or the Pleiadians to kill off the human race, and in order to attack the Archons in their deep underground cities, the Pleiadians would have to use powerful energy weapons, but such weapons would destroy our planet and end human life on Earth. So the Galactic Authority forged a peace treaty in which the Pleiadians leave the Archons in this solar system alone, and in return, the Archons spare the lives of we Earthling humans.

We are living in the second Archon occupation of this solar system. After the end of the first Archon invasion and occupation of Earth, it was about six thousand years before the Archons returned. Now they have been hiding under the surface of the planet for the past six thousand years, using humanity as a living shield on the surface to protect them from the powerful Pleiadian Space Command.

After establishing underground bases on Earth, the Archons began to manipulate human culture again. In the six thousand years preceding the Archon's return, humanity had grown from less than two million survivors at the end of the Great Flood to about seven million people spread around the world. Once the Archons returned, they began to use psychic influencing and direct interference with human culture, to take control over Earth's human civilizations. Among other things, this resulted in an increase in the size of the human population. The Archons re-engineered human society. They brought about agriculture, metalworking, written languages and new social structures. Within a thousand years after the Archon's return, the Earth's population had doubled from seven million to about fourteen million.

During the time of the early civilizations, such as Sumerian, ancient Egyptian, Mayan, Aztec, Persian, Minoan and Chaldean, the Archons would appear to the leaders of all of these ancient cultures in person, in their alien form. If you look at the art from many ancient civilizations you see depictions of gods who look alien; some appear to have flying craft.

However, over time the Archons decided that it would be easier to manipulate humanity if they concealed their presence, so they engineered breeds of Archon aliens who outwardly appeared to be human beings. The brains and internal organs of such aliens are completely different than ours; their physiology isn't human at all, but outwardly they seem to be human. They look like, talk and act like humans. Unless you were psychic, you probably wouldn't be able to tell the difference. In fact you may have sat next to an Archon alien imposter on a bus, walked by one in the mall or asked for directions from one you encountered on the road. They walk among us even to this day.

Some early kings and rulers were actually Archon alien agents who looked human. But these days, the Archon imposters, who pretended to be human, maintain a low profile and although some world leaders and celebrities may seem alien, apparently none of them actually are Archon aliens.

There is the so-called "men in black" phenomenon that is often mischaracterized. In addition to Archons who are genetically engineered to look human, the Archons can also wear elaborate technological masks, that can give them human features, as well as the ability to sound human. In the 1950s and 1960s when UFO sightings began to rise into human consciousness, some of these Archon agents appeared to people who had reported sightings. They often dressed in black suits and their speech and mannerisms were hostile. This was intended to intimidate persons who had reported UFO sighting so they would keep quiet about what they had seen. That tactic is still sometimes used, but these days, Archon agents usually dress and behave like ordinary human beings.

Archons cannot live on the surface of the Earth for long periods of time. When on the planet, they have to take special drugs that allow them to survive the atmosphere and conditions of the surface environment. Periodically, they have to return to their underground environments beneath the surface.

Archon aliens live underground in cities carved out of the Earth's crust. If this seems infeasible, realize that they have very advanced technologies compared to ours. At times, human-looking Archon aliens travel through a system of caves and elevators from underground cities up to the surface of the planet. When they've completed their missions on the surface they return to their underground world again. To humans, this underground world would be a type of hell, but to the Archons it is home.

Human Earthlings, Genetic Cattle

Galactic politics and galactic economics are probably incomprehensible to present-day humans. I believe that the Galactic Authority ultimately holds authentic good will toward humanity, while on the other hand, the Archons want to exploit us, degrade us and eventually destroy us. But the Christian psychics who informed me of all of this seemed to feel that the political dynamics between the Pleiadians and the Archons are much more complex. The Galactic Authority's war with the Archon Confederacy is not merely a battle of good versus evil

The Archons have long been surreptitiously harvesting human genetic materials and selling them to the Pleiadians. And the Pleiadians use the harvested human genetic materials to make new human populations which are then used to colonize conquered Archon worlds.

The Archons who presently occupy Earth, secretly study the human race. They locate the men and women who are the best, the brightest, the strongest, the healthiest and the most psychic. Then the Archon engineers acquire genetic materials from these exceptional persons through covert means, and they trade the genetic materials to the Pleiadians in exchange for certain political favors. With the genetic materials harvested from Earthlings, the Pleiadians are able to create and populate new worlds in faraway solar systems elsewhere in this galaxy.

So both the Archons and the Pleiadians view Earthlings as cattle whose genetic materials are to be harvested. The Galactic Authority believes that this harvesting serves the greater galactic good, and according to galactic law, we Earthlings have no say in any of this.

When the Pleiadians liberate an Archon solar system, they eliminate the Archons by killing them all off. In some cases, the Pleidaians spare the lives of Archons who are willing to betray other Archons, and the turncoats are allowed to live out their lives as servants to the Pleiadian Interstellar Republic.

The Pleiadians terraform conquer worlds which can then support Earth-type animals, plants and human beings. These worlds have Pleiadian cultures yet are populated, in part, by human beings created from stolen genetic materials, taken by the Archons who secretly occupy Earth.

According to galactic law, it's illegal for the Pleiadians to directly harvest human genetic materials from Earth. But it's not illegal for them to buy human genetic materials from the Archons. What the Pleiadians seem to be trading in exchange for these genetic materials is favoritism. Certain Archon worlds are spared destruction, or at least their destruction is postponed, while other Archon worlds are destroyed and colonized by the Pleiadians.

In addition to being obsessed with deceiving others, Archons are capable of self deception, so the surviving Archons still believe they will turn this interstellar war around. Were they able to accomplish this ambition, they would destroy the human beings living on Earth, destroy the Earth's ecosystem, and make this planet an Archon world. However, I've been assured that their wishful thinking is absurd. Archons are, at this point, being rapidly defeated by the Pleiadians.

The Pleiadian political leaders also see most Earthlings as genetic cattle, and they consider planet Earth to be a prison world for souls with bad karma. Since the political world leaders of Earth are psychically manipulated by the Archons from deep beneath the surface in their hell-like cities, the Pleiadian government makes no real attempt to establish diplomatic relations with the political leaders of Earth. Still, some individual Pleiadians feel compassion for the people of Earth, and they make some efforts to contact receptive Earthlings who are open to psychic communication.

Contactees

A person who has had friendly communication with an ET is called a contactee. Quite a few people have claimed to be contactees. Some claims are clearly fraudulent, but some are legitimate.

Some SETI groups have gone from using radio astronomy to using remote viewing as a way of contacting extra-terrestrials — and really, this is a better way.

If a psychic is disciplined enough, telepathy can be used to make contact with benevolent ETs, but this is not the same thing as channeling. The Christian telepathic contactees whose insights informed this book, don't use channeling. Instead, they first gain skill in using their telepathic ability to communicate with other Earthlings, and only then do they use telepathy to communicate with benevolent ETs. These Christians psychics also use remote viewing techniques and astral projection to observe extraterrestrial environments. This is quite different than those who claim to have made contact with ETs through channeling, because the entity being channeled may just be a figment of the channeler's imagination. In addition, in some cases, the channeler may be channeling Archon aliens. But in truth, some channelers are contacting benevolent ETs such as the Pleiadians. So some ET channeled material is quite authentic.

Not all Pleiadians are happy with the idea of human Earthlings being used as "genetic cattle" and being subjected to cold-blooded genetic harvesting by the Archons. According to galactic law, Pleiadians are not allowed to physically come to Earth to make physical contact with Earthling humans. (Although in fact some have been known to occasionally break the rules and make rare visits.) But they can make telepathic contact with human Earthling contactees. This is allowed by galactic law and treaties. So any human on Earth who desires to make telepathic contact with Pleiadians will be able to find ETs who are receptive. If you desire to become a telepathic contactee, it is possible, as long as you do the work necessary to develop your telepathic skills. But you have to be careful that you don't wind up channelling Archon aliens, because they are hostile to us.

Because human genetic materials are being used to create human Pleiadian citizens, you may unknowingly have relatives, descendents or clones who live on Pleiadian worlds. Genetic similarity increases telepathic rapport. For example, identical twins are often telepathically connected. So it may be possible for you to make telepathic contact with Pleiadians who are genetically related to you.

The problem with making contact in this way is that the Archon aliens are also telepathic and may pretend to be benevolent when they are not. So you need to have a high level of psychic skill to discern the difference between the Pleiadians and the Archons. If you want to attempt this, it's best to have some expert training. This is one reason why the psychic Christians who informed this book first had me produce my Psychic Development book which describes their basic psychic training course.

Four Categories of ETs

Just as the people of Earth have varying degrees of interest and awareness when it comes to the subject of ETs, extraterrestrials have varying degrees of interest and awareness when it comes to the subject of our human species, as well. These are the four levels of awareness and interest among intelligent extraterrestrial beings concerning our human civilization:

1. Unaware of us
2. Uninterested in us (although they know we exist)
3. Benevolent toward us
4. Hostile toward us

1. First, there are the extraterrestrial beings who are unaware of the human race on Earth and who, for various reasons, will never have anything to do with us. This is the majority of extraterrestrials in the cosmos.

2. Second, there are extraterrestrials who are aware of the human race on Earth but who are unconcerned about what happens to us. Their position is neutral. This neutral position describes how most of the extraterrestrials who are aware of us actually feel about us.

3. Third, there are the benevolent extraterrestrials who are aware of the human race and who have kindly feelings toward us. The good news is, far more extraterrestrials wish us well than hostile aliens who would destroy us.

4. And that leaves the fourth group, which is hostile aliens who desire to eradicate the human species. Although they are a minority of all intelligent extraterrestrial life forms, these hostile aliens presently dominate our planet. And, unfortunately for our human race, these hostile aliens have a very strong desire to destroy us so they can take over our world.

Apparently there is a peace treaty of sorts between the Pleiadians and the Archons in the Earth. This treaty prevents the Archons from killing us outright. We will probably survive these hostile aliens, but we should not assume that some group of benevolent ETs is going to swoop down from the heavens to save us. Most benevolent ETs believe that humanity is primarily responsible to save itself. And many ETs have a low opinion of the human race as a whole.

We are at risk because our species has so far been unwilling to develop and use its God-given psychic abilities. Psychic powers are standard in the worlds of advanced living creatures. We consider animals to be sometimes cute, sometimes dangerous, but not necessarily intelligent, because they do not speak our language and we do not understand theirs. Similarly, ETs assume we are not intelligent or interesting because we do not communicate with them, in their way. We expect them to learn our language. But they may feel that our communication modes — writing words on paper, even on computers, or making various sounds with our mouths, using telephones — are primitive and tedious compared to instantaneous telepathic communication. When the dog barks, we do not try to understand it or learn to speak its language. We just pat it on the head and say, “Good boy! Here’s a bone to chew on.” When we try to speak to the ETs, maybe they just hear us say, “Arf! Arf!”

Without communication, there is no equality. Telepathy is the standard mode of communication in highly evolved, spiritually aware, civilized worlds. The development of telepathic skills has been intentionally discouraged by Archon-controlled leaders on planet Earth because if we were to become aware of the thoughts of the Archons, who intend to do us harm, then they would not be able to fool us any longer. Equality and transparency are not what the Archons want. They want to remain off the radar, so to speak, so they can control us without detection. They live secretly under the ground precisely because they need us to be oblivious of their presence, their motives and plans. They desperately need to keep their presence secret. If we were to develop our psychic abilities, it would be like pulling back the curtain on the Wizard of Oz. Loss of secrecy means an end to manipulation and the abuse of power.

Although there are individuals with significant psychic abilities and small groups of organized psychics on Earth, the human race as a whole is culturally sub-psychic. That means that most human beings deny and willingly suppress their own natural, innate, psychic senses. They have been taught to scoff and dismiss accurate intuitive perception as “coincidence”. Significant effort has been made to convince us that psychic abilities can be dangerous, are non-existent or are “just our imagination”. That discouraging attitude is reinforced by our peers with scorn, contempt, disbelief, derision and marginalization. People who dare to share their psychic observations are in danger of being told they are insane. We are taught to stay silent at an early age... to censor ourselves.

Citizens of the most enlightened, influential extraterrestrial societies naturally develop their psychic powers. And because they know that others know what they are thinking, they are honest with themselves and therefore with others. However, we Earthlings imagine our thoughts are private and so we develop our verbal abilities in a way that allows us to disguise our less than honorable thoughts. We imagine our thoughts are unknown to others, and we let them run wild. An Earthling may hold one opinion, but will lie to others about it, believing they will never know the truth. An Earthling may even lie to himself or herself. Few of us go the extra mile to purify our inner thoughts. ETs know that thoughts can be shared and communicated more readily than spoken words. They hear our fears, our angers, our hostility, our plans and even our good will. We are deaf to their thoughts and imagine that most ETs are hostile. The Archons are grateful we are deaf to their thoughts because they are pulling our strings.

Most advanced ETs, have little or no patience or respect for otherwise intelligent beings who do not use their psychic abilities. And if we continue to neglect to exercise our psychic muscles, we Earthlings will be at risk of destruction because the Archon leaders who live beneath the surface of our planet really do wish to destroy us. Sadly, most humans are psychically unaware of the Archon presence and of their intentions, so they cannot protect themselves from the Archons psychic influence and psychic attacks.

The True Nature of the NWO

How the phrase New World Order (NWO) is most often defined is:

> The attempt to create a world government that would unify all of the nations of the world into a single global government.

This may sound like a reasonable and innocent goal, but in reality, given the intentions of the Archons, it is highly malevolent. What "NWO" actually refers to is the creation of a world that is radically different from the one we live on now. "NWO" is really the code word for an open alien occupation that is to bring about an Alien New World Order (Alien NWO).

How would things be different if the Alien NWO was to be achieved? The word "order" refers to a biological classification. Cold-blooded reptiles belong to a different biological order than warm-blooded mammalian primates (which includes humans). So the phrase New World "Order" can be taken much more literally than most people suspect, because an Alien NWO would be ruled by a different class and order of vertebrate. Were the Alien NWO to succeed, we would go from a world populated by intelligent, warm-blooded primates to a world populated by intelligent but cold-blooded reptiles. The human race would cease to be, replaced by a genetically-engineered species of alien design.

There would be a radical physical transformation of the planet Earth. Were an Alien NWO to be fully implemented, the fertile grounds, trees, grasses, plants, animals, fishes, birds, oceans, forests and jungles of Earth would be replaced with a hot, dry, arid, rocky environment, much like a desert and more suited to reptilian than mammalian life.

How Space Travel is Possible

Now that you realize our planet is already occupied by hostile aliens, you may begin to wonder where they came from and how they got here.

Countless eons ago, the material universe emerged from the consciousness of some type of powerful spiritual source which could be called (among many other possibilities) the Universal Life Force, the Holy Spirit, God the Creator, the Source of Creation, the Father or The Forever. From this ultimate source arose a class of spiritual beings who are called the Transcendents. They are called Transcendents because they are not limited by a physical form and therefore their abilities far surpass those of any physical beings. Transcendents are the most powerful of all extraterrestrial beings. They are aware of their oneness with the Universal Life Force. They are the invisible architects of space, matter and time. They are beings of pure energy and intelligence. To think about this religiously, they are the most powerful of angels, able to give shape to aspects of God's creation.

The Transcendents were God's first "children", and as the creation unfolded into existence over countless eons, they created pathways around the cosmos. These pathways could be called space-time portals. Extraterrestrial beings, who are limited by the need for physical bodies, can use these space-time portals if they have enough advanced science and technology. They can pass through these portals to pop around the universe in spaceships.

Einstein pointed out that space and time are interconnected. When a spaceship travels close to the speed of light, subjective time is slowed down so that so that it goes out of sync with the timeline of the planet it came from. When that spaceship returns from its long journey, the people on the ship appear to be younger than their contemporaries on the home planet. However, by using a space-time portal, this problem is solved. Although, a spaceship that utilizes a space-time portal can't travel backward or forward on the timeline, it can nonetheless travel back and forth across vast areas of space while remaining within its normal timeline. So vast distances can be covered in relatively short periods of time.

These space-time portals can be found at certain locations in deep space or within large planets, but also highly advanced spaceships can create their own space-time portals at will, in any location. I can't pretend to understand this, so I can't pretend to explain it. But apparently there are ways — using advanced science and technology — to bypass the limitations of normal space travel.

The Transcendents have given shape to the galaxies, solar systems and the space-time portals. But the Transcendents don't use the space-time portals themselves because they don't dwell in the material universe, and therefore don't need them. Transcendents can appear anywhere in the material universe, at will. They only visit the material plane from time to time before returning to their home in the hyper-dimensional reality where God the Creator dwells. Although in a philosophical sense, God the Creator is everywhere at all times, including within our hearts.

Transcendents are apparently unconcerned with the politics and wars of spacefaring cultures who use the space-time portals and inhabit various solar systems. Apparently, the Transcendents merely observe with amusement what lesser beings do with Transcendent Technology. Transcendent Technology was developed by powerful non-physical extraterrestrials but can be used by physical beings who are intelligent enough to understand it. Transcendents have no diplomatic relationship with any species of physical ETs. They are invisible watchers who, for the most part, remain emotionally detached from the trials and tribulations that accompany life in physical bodies.

Different Types of Extraterrestrials

Throughout the cosmos there are countless numbers of classifications for different types of intelligent extraterrestrial species. The ETs that I am going to discuss here have been talked about before by others. There is a lot of discussion on the internet about them. Some of the information on the internet is accurate, but quite a bit of it is intentionally or unintentionally misleading. Although there are many types of ETs, I'm only going to talk about the ones that are relevant to humanity's ongoing struggle on Earth.

The Elohim

We have already mentioned the Elohim. They are first in importance. The word Elohim is a name for God that is both singular and plural. And the Elohim themselves are both one and many. If any group of ETs understands the Transcendents, it is the Elohim. The Transcendents are non-physical beings who are extensions of the will of God the Creator. Similarly, the Elohim are physical beings who are extensions of the will of God the Creator.

The Elohim bestow benevolence to humanity on Earth as we exist in our present-day form. Physically they look similar to human beings. They originally terraformed the planet Earth, seeded it with life, then populated it with human beings. This was done ages ago, and I don't know how long it took them to do it. Our physical form is roughly based on theirs, but we don't have their level of psychic skill. Because of galactic laws and treaties, they do not appear on Earth at this time, but someday they intend to return.

The Elohim are superhuman beings living in paradise-like environments. They are fully precognitive, telepathic, clairvoyant and telekinetic. Their intelligence significantly exceeds human intelligence. The Elohim consider God to be the essential creative force of the universe which is spirit, wisdom and consciousness. They see themselves as extensions of God's loving will — God's essence perfectly projected into physical forms.

The Elohim are telepathically linked with one another and act in perfect unity with one another. If you talk with one member of the Elohim, you have talked with all of them because anything known to one is known to all.

Any member of the Elohim can change his or her physical form at will and look any way that he or she chooses. They can look older, younger or have different facial features, as they choose.

The Elohim aren't limited by material barriers. An Elohim could walk through a wall, then sit down at a table and eat a meal. They are capable of experiencing every type of physical pleasure that we humans experience, but they are perfectly moral and transcend our human limitations. In their culture there is no greed, no crime, no corruption and no insanity. For all practical purposes, wherever they live, they live in Heaven, for they take Heaven with them, wherever they go.

The Elohim don't need spaceships. They can instantly teleport themselves anywhere — in this or any other galaxy. They are the most powerful intergalactic and interstellar force in our galaxy. They are also the leaders of the Galactic Authority. Their species is ancient. They have been called the Ancient of Days. Their culture began in the Andromeda Galaxy and spread to our Milky Way Galaxy.

Let me repeat what I said at the beginning of this chapter: hundreds of thousands of years ago, some members of the Elohim came to our solar system and organized the inner planets. Mars, the Earth and Elysium were living planets, inhabited by intelligent beings. Their orbits were located between the Sun and Jupiter. The Elohim dwelt on Elysium.

Elysium was one of the original planets of our reorganized solar system. Old legends may refer to it as Maldek. Elysium itself was destroyed in the Archon invasion, described earlier. All that remains of Elysium is an astroid belt. The Elohim were not harmed by this alien attack. They simply teleported themselves and their pets to other Elohim worlds located elsewhere in this galaxy. For them, the invasion was a minor inconvenience.

With their great powers, the Elohim could have easily defeated the Archon Confederacy. But the Elohim operate under moral rules of conflict which prevent them from directly harming any sentient being. The Elohim are the leaders of the Galactic Authority and they guide their allies in the fighting of battles against the Archons. But the Elohim don't do any of the fighting themselves. The Pleiadians, spacefaring human beings who once lived in this solar system, are allies with the Elohim.

The Elohim originated the first human beings on Earth. They designed the human race to look similar to them. Some of these first human beings were eventually recruited by the Elohim to leave the planet Earth and become technologically advanced, spacefaring peoples. These spacefaring humans migrated off Earth to settle on the planet Mars and on large space stations around Jupiter. But due to the Archon invasion, Earth is now the only living planet with a functioning ecosystem in this solar system.

The Blue Pleiadians & Human Pleiadians

After the Archon invasion, spacefaring humans migrated to another world in a solar system whose sun is one of the stars in what we call the Pleiades star cluster. Now we refer to these spacefaring humans as the Pleiadians.

The human Pleiadians are the second group of benevolent extraterrestrials who have an interest in Earth and humanity. They are genetically pure human beings who left the Earth and solar system long ago in a sequence of space migrations. Although the human Pleiadians have bodies like ours, apparently they prefer a slightly lesser gravity than exists on Earth. In the past, when they have visited Earth, they have felt uncomfortable here because of the heavier gravity.

Some of the Pleiadians are tall, with blond hair and blue eyes. They are called Nordics. But among all of the human Pleiadians in this galaxy, you would find as much variety of skin, eye and hair color as you would in our own race of human Earthlings. However, because of location and circumstances, the Nordics happen to have had more interactions with Earthling humans than the human Pleiadians who have other skin colors. The Nordics are just one branch of the Pleiadian Interstellar Republic. To the Pleiadians, skin, eye and hair color are of little cultural significance. But all of these human Pleiadians are allies with another ET species who originated from the Pleiades star cluster: the Blue Pleiadians.

Blue-Krishna ETs

Allies with the human Pleiadians are the Blue-Krishna ETs. They are smaller, child-sized extraterrestrials with light blue skin. They are hairless except for dark hair on their heads, yet in some cases, they are bald. They have kind, dark eyes. They have human-like faces and are humanoid in form. They tend to be extremely intelligent, psychic and adept with advanced technology, yet are completely incapable of violence. The Hindu myths of the god Krishna have their origins in the visitations of these blue-skinned ET beings.

Blue-Krishna ETs have a symbiotic relationship with the human Pleiadians. They provide advanced technology to the human Pleiadians in exchange for defense from the Archon invaders. This alliance has allowed both the Blue-ETs and the human Pleiadians to survive many Archon attacks.

Both Blue-Krishna ETs and spacefaring humans can be referred to as Pleiadians. And their symbiotic culture, which consists of Blue Pleiadians and Human Pleiadians, has spread out over the millennia so that they dwell in many space stations and planets located far outside the Pleiades star cluster. They are called Pleiadians because a solar system in the Pleiades was the starting point of their culture.

The early history of Earth involves extremely long periods of time that are difficult to intellectually comprehend. And our early history has long since been forgotten, existing now only as remnants of truth, passed along as ancient myths.

The Archons — Reptoids & Grays

At some point, perhaps hundreds of thousands of years ago, a war broke out in the galaxy. An alliance of aliens known as the Archon Confederacy formed a rebellion against the Galactic Authority. When the galactic war broke out, a majority of interstellar cultures remained loyal to the Galactic Authority but perhaps as much as a third of the interstellar cultures in this galaxy joined the Archon rebellion. This galactic civil war still goes on in some form, even today.

The Greek word arkhōn referred to leaders, rulers. The alien Archons are the leaders of their confederacy, as well as being the present-day alien overlords of Earth.

Across the galaxy, the Archon Confederacy consists of many types of intelligent beings. Some of them are mechanical; some of them are cyborgs; some of them have resulted from extreme genetic engineering; some have multiple eyes, insect-like legs and tentacle arms; some are beyond human imagining. But two main types of Archon aliens are involved with our solar system and Earth: the Reptoids and the Grays. They are the leaders of the Archon Confederacy. The two have a symbiotic relationship: Reptoids are warrior-soldiers, and Grays are masters of technology.

Apparently, the history of the galaxy is tremendously old. Long ago, when spacefaring societies of intelligent extraterrestrials first emerged in this galaxy, there was no galactic government to organize them. There were constant interstellar wars, and chaos reigned.

Then some of the Elohim migrated to this galaxy from the Andromeda Galaxy. The most advanced of the Elohim, who live in the Andromeda Galaxy, have a type of intergalactic government. They rarely appear in physical form, preferring to stay invisible, as pure spirit energy. But when they choose to do so, they telekinetically produce temporary physical bodies at will for the purpose of performing ceremonies or services — or just for their own amusement.

The Elohim who migrated from the Andromeda Galaxy to this Milky Way Galaxy organized a galactic government, called the Galactic Authority, in which all of the spacefaring cultures in our galaxy eventually agreed to join. The law of the Galactic Authority ruled throughout the Milky Way Galaxy during a long, golden age of peace. I've heard this era referred to as Pax Galaxias.

But eventually the first age of Pax Galaxias came to an end when a civil war broke out between the Archon Confederacy and the Galactic Authority. Fighting has gone on since then in various places; although presently most of the galaxy is at peace under the rule of one or the other of these galactic rivals. In the present galactic civil war, actual fighting is rare, because there are numerous interstellar peace treaties and temporary cease fires in which most of the spacefaring cultures maintain a state of truce with one another.

Although the Galactic Authority and the Archons are officially in a state of war with one another, because of the treaties, you can find situations where, for example, Nordics, Reptoids and Grays work together on the same space station. And although there is a strange type of interstellar civil war taking place, a second age of Pax Galaxias has been reestablished, a sort of "galactic cold war" in which most of the galaxy experiences a type of temporary peace. When the Pleiadians destroy an Archon world, often this is done with the cooperation and consent of the citizens of that world because the Archon leaders are cruel, and death is preferable to life under Archon rule.

Texts from ancient Sumer refer to the Anunnaki a name for the sky gods. The Anunnaki were the Reptoids, who are intelligent, humanoid, reptilian aliens. Basically they could be described as genetically-engineered dinosaurs. I don't know where they originally came from. They were engineered for an interstellar war that took place countless hundreds of thousands of years ago. This ancient war preceded the first age of Pax Galaxias. Some Reptoids survived these early interstellar wars and escaped their original masters. They eventually became allies with the Gray Aliens.

There are three types of Grays. The standard Grays have child-sized bodies and large, black, almond-shaped eyes. They are controlled by taller Grays who look like praying mantis. Smaller, rotund Grays do menial work.

The Archons seek to destroy humanity and the living ecosystem of the Earth so they can occupy the planet with Hybrid Gray Aliens — human-like genetically-engineered beings. The ecosystem of Earth is presently being slowly transformed to suit the needs of the Hybrid Gray Aliens. Covert programs such as chemtrails sprayed in the sky, massive deforestation, fracking and widespread pollution are all being employed by the alien overlords. They aim to transform the ecosystem of Earth to produce an environment that suits the Archon aliens rather than the human race. Hybrid Gray Aliens have human-like physical traits, but are essentially non-human. And the world that they would make for themselves would be an arid desert filled with chemical pollution, bizarre mutated plants and mutant animals. Their paradise would look like hell to us.

So, vying for the future of planet Earth, we have three forces in this quadrant of the Milky Way:

- The Galactic Authority, headed by the Elohim, who are guiding the Pleiadian spacefaring human beings (some of whom are called Nordics), and their Pleiadian partners, the Blue-Krishna ETs,
- The Archon Confederacy, which consists of the Reptoids, Gray Aliens and Hybrid Gray Aliens,
- And then, of course, there are the non-spacefaring human Earthlings, who are caught in the middle of this galactic conflict. We human Earthlings are not members of the Galactic Authority, nor are we members of the Archon Confederacy.

Surrounded by clues from ancient cultures, but programmed to imagine we are alone in this world, we are, for the most part, the unsuspecting victims and hostages of the Archons. And most of humanity is completely unaware of the bigger, wider, extraterrestrial conflict that has been occurring.

Abductees

The ultimate question we have to deal with is whether or not the ETs are friendly or hostile to humans. So some discernment is required. I believe that certain aliens are hostile while other extraterrestrials are friendly. Someone who has been abducted by aliens against his or her will is called an abductee. And some reports of the alien abduction phenomenon suggests that at least some aliens behave in ways that are callous and even hostile toward abductees.

In a well-known incident which took place in the 1960s, Betty and Barney Hill experienced "missing time" when they were driving home one night. Later, under hypnosis they recalled being abducted by aliens and subjected to a terrifying, painful, humiliating examination. And they are not the only ones. Many others have shared similar experiences. In the late 20th Century, these authors popularized the abduction phenomenon:

- Budd Hopkins wrote Intruders, Sight Unseen, Missing Time, Witnessed —The True Story of the Brooklyn Bridge Abductions and Art, Life and UFOs
- Whitley Strieber wrote dozens of books about the subject, including Communion, Transformation and Breakthrough.
- Travis Walton told of his own abduction in the book, Fire In the Sky (made into a 1993 movie), which brought the alien abduction phenomenon into public awareness.
- John Mack, M.D. Professor of Psychiatry at the Harvard Medical School, published his book Abduction in 1994.

In reports that have been made by abductees, aliens are described as having three different forms. Abductees describe the short Gray Aliens with huge, black, almond-shaped eyes; similar but taller Gray Aliens resembling praying mantis, who seem to be in charge; and humanoid aliens with a reptilian appearance. They all may be referred to as Reptoids. But although the Gray Aliens and the Reptoids receive much of the media's attention, abductees as well as contactees have described many other types of extraterrestrial beings. Some abductees have seen Nordics in the presence of Grays, seeming to work in cooperation with them. But in our contemporary times, Grays appear to be the primary actors in the abduction event. Grays sometimes seem to have a sadistic desire to make the abductions as frightening and as painful as possible.

Many researchers who have studied abductions have concluded that hostile aliens invaders are gathering genetic materials from humans so that they can create a hybrid race of alien-humans. Some abductees have recalled seeing part human, part alien, hybrids. The aliens are apparently doing this as part of a plan to take over our world through a depopulation agenda directed at the human race. (See more on the depopulation agenda on Page 140.)

Abductees who are able to recall their experiences are probably a minority of those who have been abducted. Those who report their abductions agree with Betty and Barney Hill, that the experience is: terrifying, painful and humiliating. Abductees are taken without their conscious consent. They are made to feel powerless. They are taken from automobiles or from their homes at night. Abduction is done with a flagrant disregard for the feelings of the abductees. Once abducted, they are often subjected to painful medical exams. Genetic materials are taken without consent. Victims are sometimes painfully disassociated from the experience through the use of high-tech energy devices; they often only recall such experiences under hypnosis. Once returned, the victims often find that they have scars — both emotional and physical. Implants have also often been discovered in the bodies of abductees — devices implanted without consent. When you consider the cruelty of the treatment that abducted human beings are subjected to, there can be no doubt that at least some of these aliens are hostile to humanity and that they clearly intend us harm.

Even so, some abductees try to see something positive in their abduction experiences. Some feel that the Gray Aliens are trying to convey a positive message to humanity. However, consider how some battered wives say that they love their abusive husbands and make up excuses for their husbands' behavior. The phenomenon of victims defending their abusers is called the Stockholm Syndrome.

The Stockholm Syndrome is a psychological coping mechanism that abused persons use to defend their abusers. The Stockholm Syndrome is based on an incident that took place in Stockholm, Sweden, during a bank robbery in 1973. Some people were taken hostage and during their ordeal, they developed feelings of compassion for their abductors. This is also known as capture-bonding, in which an abused hostage comes to identify with — and even admire — an abductor. But in reality, capture-bonding is an irrational response to a terrifying experience.

The simple truth is, there is nothing positive about being abducted by aliens. Abduction is a hostile act which is morally unjustifiable. It is an act of contempt. It is disrespectful, frightening, and suggests an intention to harm.

Alien Invasion Strategy

When viewed in light of other political developments from around the world, one might reasonably conclude that the alien invasion of Earth is already well underway, being conducted under a cloak of invisibility. The tactic of secrecy makes sense, because human beings can't organize a resistance movement against alien invaders whose very existence is ignored.

There is a pattern of awakening that takes place as a person becomes more and more aware of what is really going on in the world. Many political activists of all kinds are slowly becoming aware that something is terribly wrong. A "truther movement" has arisen that addresses some of the issues the mainstream media ignores. Most people who are a part of the truther movement have yet to reach the point of awareness where they are willing to consider the possibility that hostile aliens are the ultimate source of political oppression around the globe. Yet for some truthers, an awareness of the issue of hostile aliens is beginning to arise.

Here is a brief outline of some these basic truther issues as I see them:

The Consolidation of The Mainstream News Media

> You can fool all of the people some of the time, you can fool some of the people all of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time.

In spite of this popular maxim, the news media does continually seek to fool all of the people all of the time. Presently, the control of 90% of the news is in the hands of only a few corporations such as Time Warner, Disney, Murdoch's News Corporation, Bertelsmann of Germany and Viacom. These various corporations are controlled by the stockholders — and the controlling stockholders consist of the same small group of individuals and families. Many of the news broadcasts produced by this corporate cabal are distorted and misleading. Journalists who attempt to reveal honest and factual information tend to be marginalized and kept out of the view of the public, fired — or even killed. Even the internet, which for a time allowed journalistic freedom, is presently being systematically compromised and deconstructed. If this trend continues, it will eventually result in the total control of our formerly free and open media by a very small group of wealthy aristocrats.

9/11

There is a great deal of evidence that the attacks of September 11, 2001 on the Pentagon and the World Trade Center complex were not committed by terrorists from foreign countries, but by traitors within the U.S. government.(See also the discussion of “false flags” on page 148.)

The fact that 9/11 was set up far in advance is most clearly illustrated by the collapse of (7 World Trade Center) Building 7. It was not hit by an airplane that day. It was not burnt by jet fuel. And yet after only a few hours of ordinary fire, it collapsed at the speed of gravity directly and neatly onto its own foundation — just like WTC Buildings 1 and 2 had, that morning. Modern steel-framed buildings are over-engineered, to withstand massive assaults such as being hit by two 747s simultaneously, earthquakes, storms and fires. Therefore, the collapse of Building 7 is something that could only have happened through controlled demolition. There were important — possibly incriminating — records in federal government offices housed in the building. To prepare for the demolition, the security of Building 7 could only have been bypassed by-high-ranking members of the U.S.

government. So the planting of the necessary explosive charges had to have been engineered by insiders, within the U.S. government — yet the entire attack was blamed on a few foreigners, armed with box cutters.

What has followed in the wake of 9/11 has been unending war and the complete suppression of U.S. citizens' constitutional rights. It is reasonable to conclude that any government willing to manipulate its own people into wars in the Middle East by murdering nearly 3,000 of its own innocent citizens, is not really working on the side of the American people. Did traitors within the U.S. government blame the attack on foreigners so we would think that outsiders were guilty and that the internal traitors were innocent? The question is, who is this government ultimately working for?

The Depopulation Agenda

> In early times, it was easier to control a million people than physically to kill a million people. Today, it is infinitely easier to kill a million people than to control a million people. — Zbigniew Brzezinski

Death fills our skies, water and food, compliments of non-government organizations (NGOs) and international corporations. But even a blind quest for profits can't explain the extent to and manner in which they are polluting this beautiful planet. Some of these depopulation weapons are presented as weapons to use against our enemies. Yet, considering the alien agenda, you must know that all Earthlings are considered to be "the enemy" by Archons who ultimately control these weapons.

CBRN is the military acronym for Chemical, Biological, Radiological and Nuclear defense. Let's take them one at a time:

Chemical...

Chemtrails are presently sprayed in many locations all over the world. Long trails of chemical clouds are laid by unmarked planes which sometimes fly in a grid pattern, sometimes make "X" patterns, and leave circular trails — all of which commercial airliners clearly do not do. They spread out and fill our formerly clear, deep blue skies with a white haze. It is said that the land and bodies of water below the chemtrail spray areas contain abnormally high levels of aluminum, barium and strontium. One large corporation has already patented special seeds specifically designed to grow in soils with a high-aluminum content.

Fluoride is added to drinking water in the forms of fluorosilicic acid, sodium fluorosilicate, and sodium fluoride. These chemicals are not pharmaceutical grade quality. They are hazardous waste collected from the air pollution control systems of aluminum, nuclear, uranium, steel and phosphate fertilizer industries. Hazardous waste disposal is expensive, so fluoride residue from various industries is sold to the American people under the guise of strengthening teeth. However, hazmat suits are required by waterworks employees who handle the substance, it has no benefit when ingested, and studies prove that where it is added to the water, teeth are no stronger. Fluoride is a cumulative poison. It has been claimed that during World War II, fluoride was added to the drinking water in concentration camps, to keep the inmates from rebelling against their captors. Fluoride is in rat poison, pesticides, toothpaste and anti-depressants such as Prozac and Paxil. But do we really need rat poison and anti-depressants in our drinking water?

> If you control the oil you control the country; if you control food, you control the population. — Henry Kissinger

Genetically modified organisms (GMOs) and pesticides in processed foods degrade health and sicken humanity.

Medical practices are often unnecessary and put patients at needless risk. The medical industry is the third leading cause of death in the USA. See Barbara Starfield's article of July 26, 2000, "Is US Health Really the Best in the World?" in the Journal of the American Medical Association, JAMA.

Pharmaceutical drug labels display long lists of detrimental effects, even death. Psychiatric drugs confuse and sicken the population. Every mass shooter has been on psychiatric drugs — which are known by the pharmaceutical industry to create suicidal and murderous ideation, but that information has been carefully hidden from the public. Pharmaceutical companies cannot be sued for vaccine damage but the U.S. . government's secret vaccine courts can be, so it is ultimately the American taxpayer who pays for damages caused by the flawed products of the companies with the highest profit margins in the world: pharmaceutical corporations.

Biological...

Biological warfare (also known as germ warfare) is the use of biological toxins or infectious agents such as bacteria, viruses, fungi and yes even vaccines; this is done with the intent to kill or incapacitate humans, animals or plants as an act of war. Biological weapons are living organisms or viruses that reproduce or replicate within their host victims. Entomological (insect) warfare is also considered a type of biological weapon. These agents may be lethal or non-lethal, and may be targeted against a single individual, a group of people, or even an entire population. If a nation-state uses it secretly, it may also be considered bioterrorism.

Radiological...

Electromagnetic radiation from cell phone towers and wifi adversely influence our physical and mental health. The High Frequency Active Auroral Research Program (HAARP) is used to electronically attack humanity by amping up destructive weather patterns. The next step on the radiation agenda is 5G. The U.S. patent office has registered several forms of directed energy weapons for the military.

Nuclear...

Nuclear Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD), are capable of eliminating millions or even billions of humans in short order. Decades ago, world governments already had amassed enough nuclear weapons to destroy the entire planet 800 times over. And every nuclear power plant in the world can be caused to melt down, thus killing off the local population. All of these power plants are weaponized energy sources.

Control by the Global Plutocracy

In any honest statistical analysis, it becomes obvious that more than forty percent (40%) of the true wealth in the world is controlled by less than one percent (1%) of the population. And the more you analyze the situation, the more you realize that it is actually worse than statistics indicate. A small group of people are running a majority of the world's financial institutions. Furthermore, if you do enough research, it becomes obvious that the world's financial institutions are in control of the world's governments. Governments don't regulate financial institutions; large financial institutions regulate the governments.

The United Nations (UN) has created Agenda 21 and Agenda 2030 with which it openly intends to put all of the world's resources under the control of those wealthy aristocrats who are the secret powers behind the UN.

The Federal Reserve System (the Fed) is the central banking system of the United States. But contrary to its name,"the Fed" is not a federal agency. It is a secretive, privately-owned, closely-held, non-stock corporation. The public doesn't know who the owners are or how much they profit from it because the Fed has never been audited. The Fed is neither part of the federal government nor does it operate on the basis of reserves.

The Fed creates paper currency out of thin air, which it then charges us interest on, thereby creating an enormous debt for the American people. It exchanges pieces of paper for valuable natural resources, leaving the U.S. and other countries with piles of paper, but no real wealth. This scam can be found everywhere around the world in the international central banking system.

Through toxic trade agreements like the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), the independence of nation states is systematically undermined.

Endless Wars

All wars are bankers' wars. International bankers profit from wars in which human beings kill other human beings, so wars are by design.

> If my sons did not want wars, there would be none.— Gutle Schnaper Rothschild, matriarch of the banking family

After the U.S. Civil War, Confederate General Albert Pike — 33rd Degree Mason and head of the Southern Masonic Jurisdiction of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry — planned three world wars. World Wars I and II have already been accomplished and the banking powers are working hard to build up enthusiasm for WWIII, which is intended to be a global civil war of endless turmoil, driving all peoples of the world into submission to the global New World Order.

Wars do not occur because human beings are warlike, for they are not. We are peaceful by nature. But behind the scenes, ruthless schemers, with no military qualifications, stir up governments and their citizens with fear and loathing until countries destroy one another. Loans are made to each side for armies and armaments. After the war, loans are extended to rebuild infrastructure. Handsome profits are made by arms manufacturers and construction companies. The loans plus interest are collected by the banks. The debt falls on the shoulders of the citizens of the warring countries, who didn't want to go to war in the first place.

Wars are instigated for wealth and depopulation. The common people want to live in peace, but they find themselves skillfully railroaded into wars that they don't understand and never asked for.

Rule by Secret Societies

General Albert Pike's plan for three world wars has been championed by secret societies because they revere him as a leader of the Freemasons. His book Morals and Dogma of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry is a classic instruction in secret rituals, rites and blood oaths. Secret organizations made up of wealthy, powerful men, and publicly known organizations that act in secretive ways, control most of the major world events.

The Grand Illusion sold to the American people is that a naturally occurring, democratic process determines the fate of our nation. But when you pull back the curtain, and make a deep analysis of information, you find that most political events are merely theater, part of a matrix of illusion, and the will of the people rarely determines how important political decisions are actually made. Although, this is something we could change at any time.

Powerful groups like the Bilderbergers and Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) make major decisions years ahead of time, and because they own the media and can dictate talking points (see the first point in this section: The Consolidation of The Mainstream News Media), they manipulate the political system into going along with what they have already decided in private. The name Bilderberger means town builder and their hidden agenda is to turn the world into a global "village" over which they have complete control. Eventually, they plan to control their global township openly and without any consent from the people they rule over. The famous Illuminati leader Adam Weishaupt encouraged aristocrats to act in secret until they were so powerful that no one could resist their intentions.

Suppression of Spiritual Awareness

Going back to the most ancient of times, there has been a systematic suppression of humanity's natural state: peace of mind, spiritual awareness and psychic sensitivity. Early religions, such as those in the ancient societies of Sumer, recruited members of the population who demonstrated a high degree of natural psychic talent. Talented psychics became priests and priestesses and their talents were controlled through religious indoctrination. In Medieval Europe, the Catholic Church held witch-hunts and made other attacks against female spiritual healers and anyone else who demonstrated psychic powers.

In the modern world, people with psychic abilities have been ridiculed and persecuted. And because psychic abilities require emotional serenity and sensitivity, the human population as a whole is kept in a state of emotional distress and disassociation. People are kept in a state of almost continual turmoil throughout their lives, and this trauma suppresses their natural psychic powers.

The assault on the human psyche begins early in life. Mothers and babies are drugged and medically abused during the birthing process; fathers are usually excluded at this important time. A majority of male infants are emotionally traumatized by unnecessary, excruciating genital surgery — circumcision. Sexual obsession, drug and alcohol addiction are encouraged. Movies are overwhelmingly hard hitting. Television programming is mind-numbing and thought-controlling. News and social scandals are emotionally upsetting and morally degrading. The public stays disturbed and distracted. People are kept in constant debt. Workplaces are needlessly stressful. All of this squelches our natural spirituality and the awareness of our subtle, psychic powers.

All of the wars and rumors of wars, all of the poverty and unemployment, all of the chronic illness, all of the organized crime and political corruption, all of the social and individual unrest — all are created through covert social engineering. The most serious problems that the human race faces are being deliberately produced. If you do enough research, and are able to tackle the truth of an evil presence in the world, you will realize that this is the case. None of our major world problems are accidental — they have all been intentional.

At first you may blame the wealthy aristocrats and the secret societies that serve them. But as you go deeper into the rabbit hole, you reach the final truth: our planet Earth is occupied by an alien presence and we are being covertly mentally manipulated. They don't have to blast us with laser cannons from outer space if they can trick us into killing each other — and that's exactly what they're doing.

Alien False Flag War

The term "false flag" originates with naval warfare. For centuries, ships sailed the seas, flying the flags of their home countries. To fool other ships during wartime, ships would sometimes change the flag they flew, and impersonate other countries. They would fly, in other words, a "false flag". The term has been broadened to mean an operation undertaken by a person or organization pretending to be something else.

For instance, U.S. involvement in the war in Vietnam began as the result of a false flag incident which we were told took place on August 4, 1964, in the Gulf of Tonkin. The Lyndon Baines Johnson (LBJ) presidential tapes (declassified and released in 2001) prove that LBJ knew the Tonkin incident never even happened — yet the lie provided ample justification for a long and bloody war. There are many other examples throughout history. Once you realize that 9-11 was a false flag operation, designed to provide a public excuse for the looting of Iraq's gold and takeover of its oil fields — and that virtually every major modern war has occurred following a false flag (or other deception) — you have to also realize that the ultimate false flag operation would be a fake alien invasion.

It has been thousands of years since aliens overtly attacked humans But a plethora of evidence indicates that our planet has, at various times, been violently attacked by aliens. Ancient Sanskrit texts from India speak of wars involving highly advanced flying vehicles, nuclear and energy-beam weapons. Presently, the alien invaders are making a more subtle, slow-motion attack, spread out over generations. The Archon aliens are attacking us psychically and through abductions. They also attack us covertly by manipulating world governments and corporations until harmful policies and practices are official instituted. Using psychological warfare, they slowly destroy our authentic spiritual nature and turn us into mindless puppets. Alien invaders have to observe certain rules which place limits on their attacks. They can't use open military force anymore, but they can manipulate us into destroying ourselves and each other... and that they do quite well.

The elite have long planned to use hologram technology to stage an alien false flag invasion as a way of introducing martial law. This program is called Project Blue Beam. The globalist NWO wants to create a worldwide emergency which would allow them to take away all our human rights. The typical alien-invasion movie plot produced by Hollywood does not tell the whole story. If giant UFOs appear in the skies and begin to fire upon Earth's occupants with laser cannons, they will most likely not be operated by aliens but by our fellow human beings. It would be ironic if the final false flag operation that brings humanity under the complete control of the NWO is a faked alien invasion. The violence in this war won't be directly implemented by alien overlords but rather by the human collaborators who serve them.

Alien Collaborators

When the Nazis invaded France, patriotic French citizens fought against them in the French Resistance. But there were other French citizens who became Nazi collaborators and betrayed their country. So the question is, if the hostile aliens are in the process of invading us, would there be humans who would betray the people of Earth and work as alien collaborators?

The answer to that question is "yes" because alien collaborators already exist. They are well-known, highly organized and well-funded. Alien collaborators exist among the wealthy elite: international bankers, international corporate leaders, powerful political figures and the heads of international non-profit corporations.

There is also an openly known movement of people who are deliberately planning the end of humanity. They call themselves the transhumanists.

The word transhumanism was coined by Julian Huxley who was a leader in the United Nations and a eugenicist. In 1957, he wrote about this subject, claiming that humanity should take control of the process of evolution and transcend itself. But the transhumanist movement did not become popular until the 1990s. Contemporary transhumanists publicly state that their goal is to put an end to humanity. They openly plan the extinction of our species. They plan to replace human beings with a "new improved" species. They plan to do this with genetic engineering, cyborg technology, nanotechnology and supercomputers. They even suggest a timeline for the replacement of humanity by the newly designed intelligent non-humans. Transhumanist leader, Ray Kurzweil, has said there will be a global government by the year 2020. And he seems to have an insider track on all this.

So ask this question, is the global government to be run by human figureheads or by the alien invaders themselves?

Furthermore, you might consider that the alien invaders already have a secret, shadow government in place. There have always been powerful, wealthy aristocrats behind the scenes, influencing government activities to their advantage. Through secret societies, powerful nonprofit organizations and financial institutions, the governments of the world are obviously being manipulated by something other than the democratic process. And collectively, these influences may be thought of as a global shadow government of the wealthy elite. But when you take into consideration what is revealed by a knowledge of remote influencing and ufology, it becomes feasible to consider that this shadow government is itself only a puppet of the hostile alien invaders.

At times, this alien takeover is brazenly revealed. The transhumanist Singularity University was a prominent feature of the NASA Ames Research Center. The word singularity foresees an event in which the human race will be transformed by developing technologies into something new. But there are those of us who doubt that the intentions behind this singularity movement are benevolent. The process of alien conquest was begun by the reptoid Anunnaki aliens thousands of years ago in the times of ancient Sumer. Now it is approaching a point of no return with a singularity event in which it is planned that all of humanity will be merged and consumed by alien technology, to allow the implementation of the alien New World Order.

This transhumanist movement seems to have been perfectly designed to serve the intentions of the alien invaders. Knowingly or unwittingly, the transhumanists are doing exactly what the alien invaders want them to do. When you combine a knowledge of the Gray Alien Hybrid experiments with the goals of the transhumanists, it paints a picture of a group of alien collaborators — no better than the Nazi collaborators of WWII — who plan to betray the human race. So the world is beginning to divide into those who will serve the alien invaders and those who will defend humanity.

I stand with those who oppose the hostile alien invaders. I believe that the galactic community is watching us and that we live in the time of judgement. Benevolent ETs are prepared to help us when we open our minds and communicate with them through the positive development of our natural, innate, psychic abilities.

Occultism Versus Legitimate Psychic Development

The word occult means hidden and occultists hide their misuse of psychic practices because they know that they are doing something wrong. All legitimate psychic practices can be practiced openly and taught openly.

There are two contrasting systems of psychic ability on our planet today:

1. The occult practices favored by the ruling aristocrats, all of whom are being manipulated by the hostile, demonic, aliens.
2. An emerging system of psychic ability that is love-based, divinely influenced and liberating.

The present-day planet Earth is a psychic battlefield. And this battle for the soul of our planet Earth is reaching a crisis point. The Remote Viewing movement represents a breakthrough in humanity's awaking to its positive psychic powers. And in addition to RV, many other systems of psychic awakening are being offered, all around the world. At its roots, the divinely inspired, loving, liberating form of spirituality is encouraged by benevolent ETs.

The foundation of virtually all spacefaring ET civilizations is planted in extrasensory functions. The nature of ET civilizations vary, and the detailed uses of their psychic abilities vary as well, but all spacefaring ET civilizations make full use of their psychic powers. Therefore it should not be a surprise that the invasion of our planet Earth is first and foremost a psychic invasion.

> For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. — Ephesians 6:12

Presently, humanity is still psychically dominated and manipulated by hostile aliens. Some of these hostile aliens are the Gray Aliens and the Reptoids. When they astral project their psyches outside of their bodies to contact humans, they are known as daemons, demons or the jinn.

Some ETs are benevolent toward humanity. Some of them look human but are slightly different in their genetic structure and heritage. Some benevolent ETs are extraterrestrial human beings whose ancestors left Earth many thousands of years ago in the first space migration. And some of these benevolent ETs are humanoid in appearance with slightly bluish skin. Some of these humanlike benevolent ETs are associated with the Pleiadian star system. Some benevolent ETs come from other star systems within this galaxy, as well as other galaxies and even other dimensions of reality. Benevolent ETs have in the past visited Earth and have attempted to put humanity on the right path. And when the benevolent ETs project themselves outside of their bodies in a spiritual form, they are known as angels.

All forms of occultism are ultimately directed toward a state of submission to demons who are actually hostile aliens. Occult practices often involve drug use, animal or human sacrifice, and deviant sexual behavior. Occult rituals are usually surrounded by an aura of fear, anger and hatred. Occultism makes the occultist into a mind-controlled slave who can be manipulated easily by the demonic alien overlords.

On the other hand, legitimate psychic practices tend to bring out the self-determinism of the individual. And this type of psychic development is done with respect for the Creator of all things. Legitimate psychic practices are based on feelings of spiritual love. They are not egocentric or based on negative emotions such as fear, anger or hatred. Legitimate psychic practices never use human or animal sacrifice, and they never depend on sexual rituals. Legitimate psychic practices also don't require drug use.

When benevolent extraterrestrials make psychic contact, it is not out of a desire to manipulate or control. Most contactee experiences begin with the establishment of a psychic contact with a benevolent ET. This psychic contact with angelic ETs is a sharing of information by equals, in an attitude of mutual respect. When the angels appear, they never ask you to worship them; they only wish for you to worship God, the Good, the Creator of all.

Certain places on Earth contain what might be called a positive spiritual energy. These may be good places to attempt psychic contact with benevolent ETs. Going out into nature to a pleasant location can be conducive to making positive psychic contact with ETs.

The City of Jerusalem is the spiritual capital of the world and it is the focus point of positive psychic energies directed there by the extraterrestrial Elohim. I've been told that soon there will be a mass conversion event in which many Jewish atheists, Torah-believing Jews and Muslims will convert to some form of Christianity, thus transforming the Middle East.

And there are also locations that are associated with occult energies — places where occult practitioners make psychic contact with Archon aliens. The so-called "Meditation Room" in the United Nations building in New York City is one such location. There are many occult symbols in and around the UN building. And many UN leaders are little more than psychically-controlled puppets used by Archon aliens in an attempt to better control humanity.

Two large underground Archon psychic-control centers lie beneath the cities of Mecca and Medina in Saudi Arabia. An underground Archon base also lies beneath Vatican City. There used to be a tunnel leading from this Archon base to the catacombs beneath St. Peter's Basilica, but I've been told that it was sealed off because the Archons don't need it any longer. Now that the Jesuit Order has taken over the papacy, Archons can more easily and directly access the Vatican.

Some underground Archon cities can be accessed by Archon flying saucers in full stealth mode. In stealth mode, they are invisible and can't be detected by radar. Often, the underground landing bays for these flying saucers are found underwater. The flying saucer goes underwater and then floats up into an air pocket where the landing bay is located.

The large Archon underground city located in the Los Angeles area has an underwater entrance. Many Hollywood actors, writers, producers and directors are occult practitioners. By psychically manipulating the leaders of Hollywood, Archons are able to influence the movies, TV shows and music produced in the USA. Archon-controlled Hollywood and its related music industry are used to mind-control American and international audiences.

Around the world in many countries there are Deep Underground Military Bases (DUMBs). These DUMBs are sometimes connected to tunnels that lead down into Archon bases. Although most military leaders around the world are loyal to their countries, some high-ranking members of the military in various countries are covertly working for the Archons, and they are in contact with Archon aliens through these DUMBs and their connecting tunnels.

In the Midwestern United States, in the Ozark region, there are many caves, DUMBs and Archon underground settlements. And this type of underground complex exists in many places around the world. There are perhaps several million Archon aliens living beneath the Earth's surface.

And yet with all this, we human Earthlings are clueless for the most part, wandering around on the surface of this planet, oblivious to the Archon occupation. Human Earthlings are the unwitting prisoners of a galactic war.

Wars in the Heavens

There is a religious myth that says a war was fought in the heavens between those loyal to the Creator God and a faction that rebelled against him. One third of the angels rebelled and became "fallen angels" or "demons". The other two thirds remained loyal and are the "benevolent angels" and "archangels". Whether or not this mythological war between the angels and the fallen angels is literally true, it certainly may symbolically represent a literal war that took place in outer space between benevolent ETs and hostile aliens. There seems to have been an interstellar war fought thousands of years ago which impacted our solar system. And there is some evidence that can be observed today which suggests this galaxy-wide space war did take place, leaving massive scars of destruction throughout our solar system.

Let's review some stories we've already mentioned, in light of this galactic war.

The myths of many cultures have told the tale of a worldwide flood, and a number of modern scholars believe there is evidence that a cataclysm took place here on Earth, possibly around 9500 BC. There is evidence of massive earthquakes, flooding, volcanic explosions and the upheaval of mountain ranges. Iron ore from approximately 11,000 years ago has reversed magnetic polarity, suggesting the possibility of a massive alien attack with energy weapons.

As mentioned earlier, advanced psychics have told me that what we call the asteroid belt is all that is left of a giant water-bearing planet with a living ecosystem similar to that of Earth's. The Christian psychics called that planet Elysium and some myths refer to a destroyed planet called Maldek, which may be the planet Elysium under a different name. I've been told that some of the Elohim once lived there. They were displaced when the planet was torn to pieces in an alien attack of phenomenal destructive force. On Earth, various mythological stories eventually arose to explain the planet's demise.

On the planet Mars, there is a feature known as the Valles Marineris, which could be a massive scar left behind by an alien energy weapon that tore away the planet's massive domed living environments. In doing so, it left behind a dead planet where once there had been domed ecosystems that supported intelligent life. Now, Mars is a dead planet. If anyone lives there, it is beneath the surface. On its surface is a suggestion of pyramidal structures, and a giant, mountain-sized face, which stares lifelessly out into space.

At some point there have been counterattacks. Honestly, I'm not certain about the timeline for all the attacks and counterattacks. Even trained psychics have difficulty discerning what really happened, when and by whom. But it does seem that a series of space wars has left scars on our solar system and our planet.

Although Earth was not completely destroyed by these alien attacks, a type of cultural amnesia set in whereupon any historical memory of humanity's culture before the Great Flood was wiped clean. All that was left after the last major counterattack were a few barbaric societies of survivors who retained mythological stories of a Great Flood. This is how it came to be, that the antediluvian era — the time before the Great Flood — eventually became a mystery.

I realize that what I've described does not fit in with what some ancient astronaut theorists believe. Many such researchers rely heavily on ancient Sumerian writings which also speak to some of these issues. Although ancient Sumerian writings are impressive and reveal many important truths, there is a problem with them. These writings were recorded by a class of priests in Sumer who served the Reptoid alien invaders. And these priests worshipped the Reptoid aliens as sky gods. So the writings tell the story the Reptoids want humanity to believe.

Think about this: what if the Nazis had won WWII? What would their propaganda history be like? It might contain some accurate information, but it would also contain falsehoods that conceal the greater truth. And this is the case with the historical writings found in Sumer. In the wake of any war, the victors write the history of that war. But these so-called histories are often merely propaganda. Many have pointed out that truth itself is a casualty of war. So you can't completely rely on post-war propaganda stories if you are on a sincere quest for the facts.

In the Sumerian writings, all of the destruction to our planet and solar system that occurred during the Reptoid invasion is attributed to a planet called Nibiru, "the planet of the crossing". According to the Sumarian writings, Nibiru was a planet that comes around every 3,600 years or so and wreaks havoc in our solar system. In this telling of what happened to our world, the Annunaki (Reptoids) were absolved of any wrongdoing, whereas in fact, the Reptoids have already made much of this planet a wasteland. Nibiru may not be a planet so much as a metaphor for the periodic cycle of destruction that the Reptoids have imposed upon the people of Earth during their long occupation of our world and their many invasions.

The Occupation Parameters

To recap: about twenty-six thousand years ago the leaders of the Galactic Authority became displeased with the first Archon invasion because of the inconvenience it had caused them. The Archon had destroyed Elysium, the planet an Elohim colony had once lived on. Although the offended Elohim did not retaliate directly, they brought the spacefaring humans who had once lived on Mars and the Blue-Krishna ETs together in an alliance; this done to create a space fleet that turned the tide of war against the Archons.

The humans who remained on Earth as simple tribal peoples were not combatants in this interstellar war; therefore the Archons decided that they would allow earthbound human beings and Earth's ecosystem to be retained for a time. The Archon leadership saw some strategic advantage in doing this. It's possible that a temporary treaty was reached between the Archons and the Galactic Authority which demanded that the Earth and its human inhabitants be spared.

About twelve thousand years ago, the Archons were driven from Earth by a Pleiadian space fleet under the guidance of the Elohim. About six thousand years ago, some Archons returned to Earth and hid in underground cities, where they still remain to this day. After this, the Pleiadians reached another agreement with the Archons who occupy this solar system. A treaty was made that allowed the Archons to acquire genetic materials from the human race on Earth and trade them with the Pleiadians for favors. The Archons also experimented with human genetic materials in an attempt to engineer hybrid Gray Aliens. Because of this treaty, the occupation of the Earth by the Grays and the Reptoids is presently allowed by the Galactic Authority — but only within certain parameters, of which there are two:

1. The first parameter has to do with humanity's passive consent to the alien occupation. Although it may seem that the Reptoids have never asked for our permission, in a sense we have consented to their rulership. Throughout history, human beings have openly accepted the rule of warlords and tyrants — warlords and tyrants who have been under the psychic influence of — some directly guided by — Gray Aliens and their Reptoid confederates. So in an unwitting way, humanity has indirectly accepted the Archon occupation. There is a saying that for evil to prevail, all that is required is for good men to do nothing to stop it. Humanity has passively accepted the rule of evil men.
2. The second parameter, and the more important one, is that we will not be considered for helpful intervention from the Galactic Authority until we fully embrace our natural psychic abilities. The galactic community considers Earthling humans to be a sub-psychic species.

What can we do to reclaim our planet and our lives?

1. The rest of the universe is watching and waiting for us to issue a declaration of independence and withdraw our consent to an agreement that was made long ago, by others, without our fully informed consent. When each of us withdraws our personal permission to be ruled by the Archons, Earth's occupation will be put to an end by the Elohim's intergalactic council in Andromeda.

2. Humanity could put an end to this Alien occupation at any time by embracing a cultural paradigm of psychic ability. Although it is tempting to think of humanity as the innocent victim of an interstellar war, the truth is that we made our species vulnerable to alien domination through our unwillingness to fully embrace our natural psychic powers. After the Great Flood genocide and before the second Archon invasion about six thousand years ago, there was a period of thousands of years in which humanity was freed from the Archon occupation. Because human beings living at that time failed to deliberately develop a system for psychic training, we have come to be thought of as a sub-psychic culture. It appears that any intelligent beings who are sub-psychic are considered to be nothing more than cattle by the galactic community. This is why the Archons are allowed to treat humanity in the cold blooded way they do.

The rest of the universe uses a universal, telepathic communication mode. They also use written and spoken languages, but telepathy is their primary form of discourse. We can elevate our value in the eyes of other civilizations and gain much-needed insight and wisdom by developing our God-given psychic abilities.

Liberation Comes through Psychic Development

In the past, I knew some people who worked with abductees. One problem that abductees have is that the abduction is not a one-time event. The majority of abductees are abducted over and over again. It happens over the course of a lifetime, and it happens through generations of a family group. Abductees find that their children, grandchildren and great grandchildren are also being abducted. The only way abductees can stop this pattern of alien abuse is for them to develop their spirituality in a structured way. What psychic research has shown is that every incident of alien abduction is preceded by an alien psychic attack. First, the aliens psychically attack the individual, and then they physically abduct him or her. When the abductee learns how to shield himself from the psychic attack, the abductions stop. Often this can be done through simple Christian prayer. Even if you aren't yet capable of telepathy or astral projection, you can always pray to God, thereby attaining a level of psychic self defense. Psychic self defense on the part of abductees is the only way to stop the abuse.

The same type of psychic development which can liberate an abductee can also liberate all of humanity.

Humanity presently appears to be in the iron grip of hostile aliens who would like to destroy our species. And although some benevolent ETs occasionally make physical visits to contactees, they only do so when allowed by galactic law, which is rare. Yet they can make spiritual visits as angels when they are invited. We have been discouraged from asking for help, shamed into thinking that asking for help is a weakness, and conditioned to believe that anything not physical does not exist. Therefore, it is very difficult for us to shift our perception and to realize we are powerful spiritual beings with powerful spiritual helpers who are always eager to help us. They are not rude; they will not intrude. But invite them and they will come. They are respectful of our free will and will not do our work for us. So each of us needs to send psychic invitations to our divine helpers, gratefully accept their psychic help, and make our declaration of independence from the Archons. In this way, we will each block Archon access to our body, mind and spirit. You can ask your guardian angels to stand between you and the Archons — and they will do just that! Benevolent ETs love to help humans, coming as angels of light, but are only allowed to come when they are asked to do so.

A permanent presence of the hostile Archon empire exists here on Earth in underground bases. They also live in invisible, shielded space stations above our planet. Earth is behind enemy lines at this time and it's not easy for benevolent ET groups to physically visit us, but at this point, Archon occupation of this world is by no means total.

I have also been told that there are bases hidden within the Moon, used in some cases by Pleiadians and in some cases by Grays and Reptoids. And because of treaties, in some cases, both sides work together.

There are galactic laws to which all ET and alien civilizations must adhere. There are many different types of spacefaring ET civilizations and some are more powerful than others. Beyond our galaxy, in Andromeda, a powerful Elohim council has authority over a cluster of galaxies of which our galaxy is a part. These powerful Elohim ETs consist of pure mind and psychic energy. These are the Andromedians and they are profoundly telekinetic. They may create temporary physical bodies to communicate with physical beings, but their persistent form is purely spiritual and mental.

Although the power of the Andromedan ETs over this cluster of galaxies is absolute, they rarely impose their will on other species. But they do support certain galactic laws based on spiritual principles. And as they are highly psychic, what they value most is a willingness to purify the mind and develop psychic abilities. To Andromedians, psychic ability is the foundation of authentic civilization. Therefore, to the extent that our human species is willing to ignore its own natural psychic potential, it is unprotected by intergalactic law. It is our unwillingness to accept and develop our psychic gifts that has placed us in the undesirable situation of being subjected to the tyranny of hostile aliens. The Reptoids and Grays choose to use their psychic abilities, and our human species on Earth (for the most part) so far has chosen to not use its psychic abilities. Thus we are seen by the galactic leaders as being inferior to the Reptoid-Gray Alien species.

It is ironic that we are considered to be an inferior psychic species because Earthling human beings have latent psychic abilities which far exceed those of the Reptoids and the Grays. But human beings have been taught to distrust anything that is not physical, so it can be very difficult to get Earthlings to actually consider the fact that we have psychic powers, just waiting to be discovered. I have been putting out books and videos on the subject of psychic development, and what I find most often is that readers may find the ideas intriguing, but they don't usually take the necessary steps to develop their psychic muscles. The average human being is a psychic giant who imagines that he is a spiritual midget. And this misperception places our entire species and planet at risk.

However, when enough human beings begin to explore their potential and flex their psychic muscles, we will find we can drive the alien invaders away from our planet through psychic force alone. We are on the verge of becoming spiritual warriors who will actually win the spiritual war. And if, as an individual, you are the only one you know who chooses to systematically accept and awaken your psychic powers, you can at least turn your own life around. The trials and tribulations that torment so many people in this world will cease to affect you, once you commit yourself to your psychic development. Even a spiritual commitment to follow Christ's Law of Love can achieve this change. Furthermore, an awareness of the loving kindness of Jesus Christ, the Holy Spirit and God the Father can be a big first step in the development of practical psychic powers.

Many people complain about the oppressive nature of the New World Order. But every day that goes by in which you do not make effort to strengthen your psychic powers, you are submitting yourself to the NWO. By denying your psychic powers, you are bending your knee to the hostile alien overlords who oppress us.

Although most of the ET spacefaring civilizations throughout this vast galaxy do not concern themselves with Earth's backwater civilization, there are still some galactic (or intergalactic) laws that still apply to us. And these laws are enforced by a galactic alliance of spacefaring ETs who are more powerful than the Gray Aliens and Reptoids. According to those galactic laws, hostile aliens cannot engage in their final invasion of Earth until the people of Earth fully consent to it... so just say no!

Most governments of the world have consented to a partial occupation of the Gray Aliens, and the highest leaders of these countries work in cooperation with the Gray Aliens. Though the consent may have been won through covert psychic influencing and the rulership of secret societies, the consent is there, nonetheless. Even if they are not aware that the NWO agenda is being engineered by the Archon aliens, many world leaders have willingly gone along with it for the sake of personal profit. But not all world leaders have surrendered to its degrading agenda.

A final invasion of Earth cannot legally occur until and unless the human race, as a whole, spiritually consents to the alien occupation. We are therefore under continual psychic attack, in an attempt to, bit by bit, chip away at our resolve. And the full scope of it is much bigger than we can imagine, given the degree of mind control we are under. But this psychic attack can only be successful as long as this deception goes on. Once the attack is seen clearly, it ends.

The Creative Power Versus The Deceiver

The conflict taking place on Earth, as well as on other planets throughout the universe, can be thought of as a universal challenge to what we might call the One True Source of Creative Power. This divine source is opposed by what we might call the Deceiver or Adversary — who personifies the forgetting of, the ignoring of, or the denial of the Creative Power.

The Creative Power is present everywhere, always. It is here, now, at all times, was and will be in all time periods past and future. There is nowhere the Creative Power is not. It comprises and encompasses all knowledge and all wisdom. The Creative Power is the primordial vibration, the constant, unconditional field of love energy that fuels and feeds all of life, with life. The Creative Power is the universal life force. The Creative Power is the divine light.

In editing this book, Patricia Robinett made this observation, “Matter exists as a relationship between energy and light. Matter is only a temporary effect, to be found where light and vibration intersect. As light continues to vibrate, “matter” sooner or later dissolves back into the amorphous, universal, constantly moving energy field from which it came."

However this came to be — we may never know exactly how it all began — the Deceiver lost its faith in the universality of the Creative Power.

So here we have on one hand the One True Source of Creative Power which exists in a hyper-dimensional reality of pure spiritual love and creativity — and on the other hand we have the Deceiver which dwells in a sub-dimensional sphere of fear, pain and utter destruction.

The Deceiver feeds on fear energy. It survives by collecting confused souls, who feel stuck in this temporary material universe, those who have lost their spiritual connection with the Creative Power. It encourages them to believe that only matter is real, that their happiness and security depend on material things, and that matter endures. From there, it logically follows that they will also adopt the Deceiver's world view — fear, pain, and so on. This is how the Deceiver consumes souls. Upon entering the sub-dimension where fear reigns, all hope of infinite love is lost.

In the realm which could be described as the highest Heaven, the Creative Power Source dwells in and with the ethereal, transcendent beings. At the same time, since it is everywhere, always, the Creative Power spiritually manifests throughout all of creation, maintaining all natural laws and animating all life forms. And since it is unlimited, the Creative Power can manifest itself in any physical form it wishes, so it can communicate with the various types of beings who exist on the material plane.

As a Christian, I happen to believe that Jesus Christ was a full manifestation of this divine Creative Power and I would call the Creative Power, the Creator. However, the Creator does not have to be thought of in religious terms — or even be called "God", to be God. The divine, omnipotent, omnipresent, omniscient Source is not an egotistical dictatorship. The Creator transcends the limits of human imagination and the conceptual mind. It is impossible to capture its magnificence in dry, intellectual, theological terms.

Rather than to try to put the infinite in a box, perhaps it's more appropriate for us to aspire, to personally enjoy and appreciate it in its "formless form" — as the power of pure, unconditional, spiritual love. Jesus affectionately called it Abba, Papa, for it is patient, kind, comforting, always with us, and there is no limit to the power of its love.

Nonetheless, the Creator grants us free will, so we can turn toward or away from this divine power in any moment we so choose. This is why the Deceiver is allowed. We are not robots. We choose of our own free will to have an eternal spiritual relationship with the Creator. Souls that reject the fact of unconditional love are allowed to live in fear and loathing for as long as they like... but the path that leads them to the Deceiver had a beginning and it will have an end. There is a limit to the allure of pain.

The Deceiver represents a dimension of entropy and ignorance. Throughout the universe there are several versions of this archetypal, cosmic Deceiver. The two we are most familiar with are Satan and Lucifer.

- The local physical manifestation of the Deceiver in our galaxy is called Satan. In the material world, he manifests as a powerful, dragon-like, Reptoid emperor. He is the head of the Reptoid-Gray Alien interstellar Archon empire, and he/she/it dwells in this galaxy in a solar system far from Earth.

▪ Beneath the crust of this planet, somewhere below the Middle East, living in an underground psychic control center, is an Archon creature of some type, known to some as Lucifer. Lucifer is the leader of the Archons who live inside the Earth and on space stations in this solar system. A Christian telepath once told me of an old interstellar legend that said Lucifer was once a human being who extended his life by becoming a cyborg. And now, after thousands of years, Lucifer has devolved into a supercomputer with some organic components, much more machine than human. I've also been told that it's a mistake to try to remote view Lucifer, so his present form is uncertain.

In this solar system, Satan is symbolized by the sixth planet from the sun, Saturn. Saturn is crowned by rings made of the destruction of its own moons. Satan, like the planet Saturn, is crown by the residue of his destructive feats. In astrology, Saturn rules time and all things stern, cold, hard, dark and dank. Saturn rules carbon, which is the sixth element in the periodic table of elements. It is best represented by the color black and the geometric cube.

Inside the northern pole of the planet Saturn is an ancient space station which has a space-time portal that leads to other Archon worlds. It is from one of those worlds that Satan, the supreme leader of the Archon Interstellar Confederacy, rules over his conquered peoples.

All of the great spiritual leaders of Earth, such as the Christ and the Buddha, have opposed the emperor Satan in some way. And although there is a physical presence of hostile aliens in our solar system, in essence this war is a conflict between love-based consciousness and fear-based consciousness.

Since love and fear are mutually exclusive — "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casts out fear." And "God is love." (1 John 4:8,18) — the hostile aliens continually strive to drive humanity out of their natural awareness of the omnipresence of love, into a state of fear and false sense of separation. When a person's awareness of the Creative Power is weak and he feels isolated, he may convince himself that he should align himself with the Deceiver.

Instead of feeling a zest for life and a connection with his fellow human beings, the Archon-programmed human Earthling often feels dread, guilt, contempt and loneliness. Any individual who completely gives into this type of fear-based mind control, has submitted himself to the hostile alien overlords. This is why we find so many people treating their fellow human beings cruelly. This is why we find ourselves living in a world, where it seems to be normal to have continual war, insanity, political oppression and crime. All dis-ease is due to humanity's submission to the Deceiver and the alien overlords.

But the Elohim, who are consciously aware that they are one with the Creator and who serve the Creator's will, have not given up on terrestrial humanity. They are dedicated to turning us away from the Deceiver, and back to a harmonious relationship with the Creator.

The Elohim Ambassador to Earth

Probably the most difficult idea for me, as I struggled with in the various things that were told to me by these Christian psychics, was the way they had come to view Jesus Christ. Although in one way their ideas could fit into traditional Christian thought, in other ways they seemed to deviate from it. Personally, as a Christian, I use two main criteria: the four Gospels and the Nicene Creed. What was described to me didn't conflict with either, but it certainly put a new spin on the traditional story.

I'm not saying that I agree with this idea, but at least I found it interesting. What the Christian psychics suggested was that Jesus Christ had been the Elohim's ambassador to Earth. The Elohim believe themselves to be one with God. They consider themselves to be the physical expression of God as a people. So Jesus Christ, being an Elohim, would be God in the flesh. But he was begotten and born of a virgin. With the Elohim's advanced telekinetic powers, they could asexually impregnate a woman, shaping the ovum on a molecular level, forming it into a perfect embryonic human. Once born, Jesus would then lead an ordinary human life.

Because all Elohim are telepathically connected to one another, all of the Elohim would come to feel empathy for the human condition through the life of Jesus Christ. Thereby, through Jesus Christ, humanity would have an opportunity to have a spiritual relationship with the Elohim. Most human beings have difficulty relating to a non-physical, transcendent, supreme being. But the Elohim do have physical form, and are male, female, adult and child.

When as an adult Jesus Christ was baptized, he transcended the limits of human ability and could perform the type of miracles that all members of the Elohim can perform. When he was crucified, all of the Elohim felt it. So the compassion that Jesus felt for humanity as he died on the cross was felt by all of the Elohim. His loving teachings expressed the Elohim's love for humanity. And after the resurrection, his Ascension into Heaven represented his return to his own people, all of whom have the same amazing powers that he demonstrated while he was on Earth, performing miracles.

Thus, all who believe in Jesus Christ, the representative of the Elohim, are saved by choosing the love of the Creative Power over the fear of the Deceiver. So when a Christian believer dies, he or she may reincarnate under favorable circumstances as a Pleiadian, or if spiritually mature enough, as a new member of the Elohim.

The presence of Jesus Christ in the world was the Elohim's living promise to eventually liberate the people of Earth from the Archon overlords who presently oppress us.

Whether or not this RV-ET version of the Christ story is true, I find the story of Jesus Christ to be amazing. For more than a thousand years, Hebrew priests had been making the yearly sacrifice of the Passover lamb. All of this was a prelude to the sacrifice of Jesus. On the third hour of the day, just as Jesus was being nailed to the cross, the Passover lamb at the Temple was bound to the altar. At the ninth hour of the day, Jesus died on the cross at the same time that the priests killed the Passover lamb. More than a thousand years of sacrificial rehearsal preceded the crucifixion of the Messiah. If, indeed, the Elohim have been engineering the development of Christianity as a movement on Earth, they have been working on it, bit by bit, over a very long period of time.

Also, the prophecies contained in the Book of Daniel and the Book of Revelation seem to have predicted events which are now unfolding in our time.

Whether it is of ET or supernatural design, for me, Christian spirituality has been the path of my personal salvation. I don't expect everyone to believe in Christianity as I do, but I know that spiritual development is essential to human survival.

Spiritual Survival

Spiritual development is more valuable than material wealth or comfort. Archon aliens use their psychic powers to manipulate Earth's leaders. Many of these leaders belong to secret societies which covertly rule world governments. Occult rituals to attune the world leaders to the psychic manipulations of the alien overlords. Using secret society occultism, some human beings achieve material gain through a psychic submission to the cruel alien overlords who hate humanity. This explains why so many financial, corporate, political, and even religious leaders are heartless and corrupt.

Many early Christians held a belief in reincarnation which was called the "Wheel of the Soul". There are some verses in the Bible that seem to refer to this belief.

Although it may lead to worldly power, submission to the alien agenda can have serious spiritual consequences for a human soul. Such submission can eventually direct how a soul incarnates in its next lifetime. A soul that submits completely to the domination of Satan may reincarnate as a Gray Alien or as a Reptilian Alien. A person who centers his or her consciousness on the unconditional love of the Creator will reincarnate as a human being either on this planet or another one. Human beings who have unresolved spiritual conflicts here on Earth may reincarnate again as human beings on Earth. Other Earthlings, having completed their time on Earth, may find themselves born into favorable circumstances on a Pleiadian world. Those most spiritually mature human Earthlings are potentially reborn as members of the Elohim.

All human beings feel a wide variety of emotions — both positive and negative emotions — because this is the human condition on Earth. All humans experience a diverse emotional spectrum. Since most people are centered primarily on loving emotions, they are spiritually saved. In spite of the efforts of the hostile aliens, most human beings are able to retain their humanity in both this incarnation and the next.

The advanced psychics I consulted in the creation of this book have told me that they have been tracing how souls move through different incarnations. From what they've said, the planet Earth is a place of judgement for souls. Earthling human life is very short, usually less than a hundred years. However, on most extraterrestrial worlds, beings live for hundreds or even thousands of years in each incarnation. So although the human life cycle on Earth is short, what you do in this incarnation determines the nature of your next incarnation, which is likely to be much longer.

This is why I think the afterlife should not be thought of simply as going to heaven or hell. Perhaps it's a little more complicated than we were taught in Sunday school.

When you see humans here on Earth losing their humanity and behaving in ways that are cruel and inhuman, realize that they are systematically, yet unconsciously, choosing how they will reincarnate in their next lifetime. They may not be fully aware of the choice they are making, nonetheless through their cruel behavior they are making a choice. They are creating a type of karma or fate by which they destine themselves to reincarnate as non-human aliens on an Archon alien world.

However this is not the choice I would make for myself. I would rather retain my humanity in this lifetime, and reincarnate as a genetically perfect human being on some other desirable extraterrestrial world inhabited by compassionate, extraterrestrial humans. And I believe that most spiritually awakened Earthling humans, if they were fully informed and honest with themselves, would feel the same way. Spiritual survival, as opposed to physical survival, means to retain your humanity in this and future incarnations.

At least this is the point of view held by some advanced psychics. What I've been told is this: during your lifetime, your mortal physical body is animated by your mental body. Your physical body will remain genetically human until your physical death. But the persistent form of your chronic thought patterns will determine how you reincarnate.

So if you reject your humanity with your thoughts, attitudes and behaviors in this lifetime, there will be karmic consequences. If you were to assume a persistent attitude of resentment, paranoia, revenge and cruelty, your mental body will come to resemble that of a reptilian and you will take on a reptilian form in your next incarnation. Or, if you were to assume a persistent attitude of sociopathic indifference in which you reject your feelings of compassion for others, you will find that your mental body will resemble that of a Gray Alien and you will eventually reincarnate as a Gray Alien.

But if you choose to be influenced by the Creator and the angels, you will develop persistent attitudes of love, compassion and good will. This will influence the form of your mental body, which will take on an aesthetic human form. Thereby you will reincarnate in a desirable way, as a human being, in your next lifetime.

The negative transformation of a soul into demonic form comes about through a process of overshadowing. If an individual allows his or her body to be persistently overshadowed by an alien-demon, eventually his or her spiritual/mental body will take on the alien's demonic form. Overshadowing is basically demonic possession. In order to gain worldly wealth or power, some individuals willingly allow themselves to be overshadowed and therefore, demonically possessed. Many aristocrats and world leaders are persistently overshadowed by alien overlords. And this is why they have so much worldly power in this alien-occupied world. However, the overshadowing process is a form of spiritual death in which the individual loses his or her humanity.

Survival in this alien-occupied world must first and foremost be thought of in terms of spiritual survival. Truthfully, materialistic survival for yourself, or even for your family, is less important than spiritual survival. Hostile aliens working psychically behind the scenes constantly encourage you to trade off your humanity in favor of slight materialistic advantages such as wealth, status or comfort. And you are encouraged to ruthlessly compete with other human beings for all these things. Yes, in this society an attitude of insensitivity and cruel disregard toward other human beings is currently encouraged. Eventually one ceases to identify with humanity and instead acquires a callous, cold, reptilian attitude.

Military dictatorships and international corporations seem to be designed to encourage spiritual dehumanization. Some persons may be tempted to think that if they sell out to evil world leaders, they will gain some materialistic advantage for their family. And if you have children, this may seem like a moral viewpoint because all parents feel a strong obligation to help their children and to make them happy. But to give material advantage to your children while placing their spiritual survival at risk is not moral and will not, in the long run, make them happy. It is better to live and die as a human being and to reincarnate as a noble human being, rather than to die to your humanity and reincarnate as a Gray Alien or a Reptoid.

The Grays and the Reptoids tend to be unhappy, joyless creatures. And some beings, having been tricked into reincarnating into the form of some type of hostile alien body, become disillusioned with their existence in an Archon hell world. This is why some Archon citizens covertly rebel against that empire and undermine the actions of the Archon leaders. They hope to create the karma that will allow them to die to their Gray or Reptoid bodies and reincarnate as humans. Some human beings, on our planet now, were once Grays or Reptoids in a previous life. And now they have a second chance at spiritual survival. Through their actions in a previous Archon life, they rejected their grotesque genetically-engineered alien bodies to reincarnate in more naturally formed human bodies on Earth.

Genetic Engineering

Another aspect of this intergalactic conflict between the Creator and the Deceiver has to do with genetic engineering. There is a distinction to be made between natural, living creations and artificially manipulated life forms. The human race is an example of a natural, living creation. The genetic nature of humanity is determined by the divine wisdom of our Creator. The Archon invaders have contributed nothing to the development of our species. Our human DNA may have been tampered with to some degree by hostile aliens, but mostly we are natural creations, as are most of the plants and animals on our planet. But, as both the Gray Aliens and the Reptoids are products of extreme genetic engineering, they seek to destroy humanity by tricking us into following in their footsteps — to become genetically degraded. Their plan is to turn our species into a race of genetically-engineered slaves.

This type of planetary enslavement has happened to many species on many other worlds. This is one reason why the hostile alien overlords are destroying our world with geo-engineering in the form of chemtrails, fracking and other forms of massive pollution. Earth's formerly lush environment is being rapidly deforested. The hostile aliens are enemies not just to humanity but to all of the beautiful life forms found in the natural world. What has been done with GMO crops is only the beginning of what is intended for all life on Earth.

In order to better manipulate and control humanity, Archon aliens have genetically engineered certain human bloodlines to make them receptive to their psychic influence. The "old-wealth" aristocratic, generational billionaire families are highly inbred. Inbreeding and genetic engineering do not make superior humans, but rather more subservient puppets who use their wealth and political influence to serve the will of the alien overlords hiding deep beneath the Earth's surface.

The human race as a whole is still a natural creation. We are not yet a genetically-engineered species. But to some extent, we have fallen from genetic grace. Our genetic purity has been, to some degree, tampered with. These changes have made the human race less spiritual and more technological in nature. In order to understand how this happened, you need to understand something about the true history of humanity.

Forbidden History

> Those who control the present, control the past and those who control the past control the future. — George Orwell

In the future, historians will use different techniques, for determining the history of the world, than do our contemporary historians. For instance, much of the history that is taught in schools and universities is not history but propaganda. A deliberate mixing of authentic facts and intentional falsehoods can be found in virtually all present-day history books. But even today there is a movement comprised of honest historians who seek to learn the authentic story of human race. As that movement grows, its findings will transform human civilization.

You can't learn accurate facts about human history by reading history books because we Earthling humans don't have access to the information sources that tell the true story of our planet. But by using telepathy to contact benevolent extraterrestrials who do know our world's history, we can learn more about the true story of our people. And the insights that come from the benevolent ETs can then be used to guide remote viewing sessions to explore the past. This can then lead historians to better determine what the information collected from archeology and geology indicates about the past. Only after all this data is compiled, should historians look at contemporary historical texts to see if there is any accurate information in them that can add insight. Rather than being the first source that a historian refers to, academic history books should be the very last resort. This is because the hidden Archon alien rulers have used their influence to deliberately distort our history books, to conceal their presence and their harmful intentions for this world.

If the alien overlords were to successfully make the Earth into an Archon world, the result would be a sad mockery of our magnificent planet. The vast diversity of our ecosystem would end. The myriad creations living here would be replaced with a collection of genetically-engineered species. This sort of thing has taken place on other worlds in this galaxy. You cannot appreciate what is at stake here on Earth unless you learn something of who and what we really are and what our true history really is.

> Those who don't know history are doomed to repeat it.— Edmund Burke

The history of the world that has been taught to most of us is a false history, and generations of human Earthlings are caught up in a matrix of deception. So to understand what is really going on in this world at this time you must understand something of the true history of the world. You probably have been told that human civilization is about six thousand years old, beginning with ancient Sumer, but Sumer only marks the beginning of one phase of the alien occupation of Earth. Human civilization is more than a hundred thousand years old and is spread throughout the galaxy. An alien attack on our solar system took place thousands of years ago, and the alien occupation of Earth began after that.

The pyramid is often interpreted as the symbol of the Archon alien overlords. This is because they always organize along the lines of a hierarchical system. All of the power and knowledge is at the top, where the aristocrats rule; all of the work is done by those at the bottom of the pyramid. And the human aristocrats are psychically controlled by the hostile aliens.

However, all symbols can be interpreted in a variety of ways. Although the pyramid may be thought of as a symbol of hierarchical societies, it can also be thought of as a symbol of the connection between terrestrial humans and extraterrestrial intelligences. The pyramid as a form of building construction is not evil in itself; it is neutral. The geometric form of the pyramid takes advantage of energetic forces and they can be beneficial. For example, if you meditate within a pyramid-shaped object, you may find yourself experiencing positive energies. And it has been postulated that pyramids were built to collect and direct some type of energy, all those years ago.

Some history books have suggested that monumental pyramids were built only in Egypt and South America, but pyramids are found throughout most major continents, as well as in underwater environments. There are many more pyramidal structures throughout the world than are acknowledged by conventional history — and more pyramids are being discovered all the time.

But the global alien civilization which brought forth most of the pyramid building over the last six thousand years is itself less impressive than the Earth's pre-flood, antediluvian civilization. A highly evolved human civilization existed before the great flood. During the pre-flood era, many forms of humans walked the planet in the presence of Reptoid overlords and the human race had access to advanced Archon technologies. The antediluvian world was one of great wonders — and horrors.

Before the first Archon invasion, the human race lived in peace on Earth and in this solar system with amazing and benevolent ETs, but our spacefaring human cousins left this solar system to escape a terrible Archon attack.

In fact, a vast majority of the human populations that once occupied this solar system, live elsewhere now. Extraterrestrial humans are somewhat stronger and healthier than those of us still living on this planet — and they are more psychic than we are. Perhaps their ancestors were selected for the spacefaring program before the Tower of Babel, in which days...

> And the whole earth was of one language, and of one speech.
> — Genesis 11:1

Perhaps the "one language" was telepathy and they never lost their ability to communicate telepathically. Or perhaps their ancestors were selected to be part of the spacefaring community due to their psychic aptitude... or perhaps they retained their psychic abilities because they have been living in cultures which encourage the use of psychic abilities. Chances are they left the planet before humans were subjected to the mental downgrade that caused the "one language" to become many:

> Let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may not understand one another's speech. Therefore is the name of it called Babel. — Genesis 11:7,9

During the Antediluvian Age there was a sophisticated, international civilization. Seafaring societies throughout the world spanned the globe in sailing ships of ingenious designs. And although most terrestrial humans still lived close to the land in tribes of hunters and gatherers, some had developed civilizations with science and technology. All of this existed during what we call prehistoric times. But when a Pleiadian counterattack resulted in the Great Flood genocide, it destroyed much of the human race on Earth at that time and the history of the Antediluvian Age was lost to us. It is also true that the off-planet human cultures, unlike ours, retain full memory of Earth's Antediluvian history.

Three Waves of Space Migration

Throughout the Milky Way galaxy, there are many worlds with intelligent life. Some of these worlds are populated with human beings whose ancestors came from planet Earth when the First Space Migration took place, some twenty-five thousand years ago. When those humans left, they took seeds, plants and animals with them in their great spacefaring arks. And thus they were able to terraform many new worlds that are beautiful and Earth-like. The population of the extraterrestrial humans who descended from the First Space Migration has grown faster than the population of humans living on this alien-occupied Earth.

T h e Second Space Migration has been accomplished by harvesting and transporting human genetic materials to Pleiadian worlds. During the last six thousand years the Grays have harvested our genetic materials. The Pleiadians have acquired and used these genetic materials to create human clones, who then have children, and so forth. Our DNA has also been harvested and used to create Gray Alien Hybrids, but mainly it has been used to create genetically superior human beings, who now live on Pleiadian planets. Extraterrestrial humans, who live elsewhere in this galaxy, thrive on terraformed planets, in colossal space stations, and within nomadic fleets of spacefaring vessels.

It's only been in the last six thousand years or so that we humans here on Earth have been treated like cattle. And when Earthling human beings finally break free from the oppressive Archon control, perhaps we will once again develop spacefaring technology and create a Third Space Migration, expanding what is positive in our culture beyond the Earth, into the solar system and eventually to other worlds in this galaxy.

The Psychic Battlefield

A vast population of extraterrestrial human beings is still somewhat involved in an ongoing interstellar war, waged between the benevolent ETs of the Galactic Authority and the hostile Reptoid-Gray Alien axis of the Archon Confederacy. On a galactic scale, extraterrestrial humanity is winning the war against the Grays and Reptoids, but here on our original home world, planet Earth, the oppression of our species continues.

In terms of this interstellar war, the planet Earth is really not of any great military, strategic importance. The planet Earth could be lost and the Reptoid-Gray Alien axis would still ultimately lose the interstellar war. However, what happens to Earth, humanity's home world, does influence the morale of the extraterrestrial humans whose ancestors came from Earth. So the battle for the survival of Earth is of spiritual importance.

It's a rather delicate situation. The Pleiadians have a peace treaty with the Archon Confederacy that prevents them from attacking Archons who live under the surface of our planet, as long as they play by certain unbreakable rules that govern their occupation of our world. So the Reptoids can't just bring in a fleet from outer space and kill off humanity — and they can't openly occupy Earth with their troops. I understand that this peace treaty will be observed in some form for about a thousand more years.

The human race can't fight the underground Archons with contemporary military weaponry, for by doing so we would be risking the destruction of our own people and planet. The only safe weapon we Earthlings have access to, that can stop the Archons from manipulating our world leaders and abducting our people, is the power of thought and prayer. Planet Earth is a psychic battlefield. The Archons have used fear, trickery and psychic manipulation to convince our leaders — who have then used fear, trickery and mind manipulation to convince us — that psychic abilities are dangerous. And that is the main reason our species is so vulnerable to Archon trickery — because we are not protected by our natural psychic powers. In a spiritual war, we need to exercise our spiritual powers. Remember, this teaching from the Bible:

> For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. — Ephesians 6:12

Psychically blind, we cannot tell who is our enemy and who is an ally. Psychically deaf, we cannot hear the clues we should be hearing; we cannot hear an enemy's true intentions toward us. The enemy calls us "friend" and we smile sweetly. Our friend tells us of the enemy's plans and we reject his warning. Psychically adept extraterrestrials think we Earthlings are no smarter than animals because we put all our attention on outer appearances. We are not using our subtle inner senses. We walk handicapped through our world, wearing a spiritual blindfold and earplugs while others are fully engaged.

When the human race develops its spiritual and psychic senses, the tables will turn. As it now stands, humans are mind-controlled slaves and the Archons are our puppet-masters. But when we fully develop our latent, subtle spiritual senses and withdraw our permission for the Archon to live here and manipulate us, we will triumph over them. It won't be that difficult. The most important part is to wake up to the war we have been blind to, and to take our power back — to pray, meditate and reclaim the psychic abilities we lost when the "one language" of telepathy was turned into a cacophony of confusion.

Psychic Development & Human Survival

It is inevitable, that at some point in time, we human beings living on Earth will awaken our collective psychic powers to take back our independence. Remember that we Earthlings are actually powerful spiritual masters who have only been brainwashed into believing that we are powerless materialistic fools. Unfortunately, the awakening of the human race will likely be a slow process as long as so many Earthlings reject their God-given psychic gifts. But once all superstition is recognized as nothing more than "a fearful illusion that appears to be real", we will enthusiastically embrace the talents that lie within us. They are waiting to be exercised and enjoyed.

One reason that the Star Gate Remote Viewing Project funded by the U.S. Government during the Cold War was of such importance was that it represented a landmark change in human awareness of the very real possibility of reclaiming lost psychic abilities. Without realizing exactly what they were doing, the early remote viewers became the first line of spiritual warriors to take our planet back from the alien invaders.

The valid psychic practices we encourage here honor life, divine love, honesty, integrity, freedom, light and transparency. These psychic powers are based on attuning with the God that is Love and Life and Light. Jesus repeatedly demonstrated the use of telepathy, remote healing, precognition, clairvoyance and the power of prayer. The amazing powers Jesus displayed were not limited to him and his lifetime, 2000 years ago. He came to show us what we are all capable of when stand firm in the power of Love and step outside the blinders placed on the mind.

Jesus manifested himself as the divine essence of the Creative Power in human form. Jesus performed many miracles because he listened to and heard the divine Creative Power. Listening and hearing is the essence of psychic proficiency. If we do not yet understand how to do what he did, it is only because we have not yet reached the levels of consciousness he helped his disciples attain. He was confident they could do it. He said to them,

> He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. — John 14:12-13

He went to his Father in prayer and meditation and his Father guided him. It is our right and duty to practice positive prayer and psychic self-protection. Our Father is always inviting us to align with him, for that is how we, like Jesus, bring the healing power to Earth. Learning to effectively turn to Our Father is the only way we will free ourselves and our fellow humans from the darkness and negativity that have enslaved us for millennia. But we need to approach our study and practice wisely.

Jesus was aware of the dangers of affiliating with the dark side and he refused to get involved with it.

> The devil took him up into an exceedingly high mountain, and showed Jesus all the kingdoms of the world, and the splendor of them; And said to him, All these things will I give you, if you will fall down and worship me. Then Jesus said to him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. — Matthew 4:8-10

Misdirected, unethical, secret, ritualistic occult practices are concerned with worshipping Satan, Lucifer, the Devil or demons; and they are about the fear-based desire to control people, places, things and events. The occult has a well-deserved bad reputation, for its secret, hidden, dark occult practices are based on demonism. Demonism, also called demon possession, is the psychic takeover of a human mind and body by a devil, a hostile, alien, non-human entity. Non-physical beings are powerless by themselves. They can try to influence us, but they cannot perform actions in this world unless we allow them to use our bodies. The occult process of demon possession involves drugs, sexual rituals, animal sacrifice and/or human sacrifice — all of which shock us into a state of traumatized unconsciousness so demons can enter and use our bodies. Similar practices, wrapped in the U.S. flag, are employed in government mind-control programs to turn humans into robotic soldiers, spies and slaves, obedient to the dark side. (Research MK Ultra, Project Monarch, etc.)

Those who survive this era spiritually as well as physically will do so because they have awakened their God-given spiritual abilities in a positive way. Through an awareness of and alignment with the Creative Power, our highest abilities can be awakened and applied to do good.

The biggest barrier to psychic ability is the fact that most human beings have been brainwashed to believe that psychic abilities either don't exist or, if they do exist, they are evil. Once you have accepted the fact that you do have God-given latent psychic abilities and that you can use your psychic abilities on the side of God, love — for your own good and for the good of humanity, then it will be relatively easy to take the necessary steps to develop your psychic powers. Read the New Testament, and consider what you have learned here about the types of psychic abilities. Jesus demonstrated many positive psychic modalities as he did his healing work. That is how he went about his Father's business. Our work is no different.

> If you believe that you have psychic abilities, you do; if you believe that you don't have psychic abilities, you don't.

The truth is, your psychic gifts are already built-in, begging for you to see the beauty and value in them.

So, if you already realize that you have psychic abilities and want to develop them, here are a few things you can do to begin to awaken them, and some basic principles upon which most systems of psychic development operate:

1. All human minds are connected telepathically on a subconscious level. Much of telepathic practice is simply a process of becoming conscious of information that is already contained in the subconscious. One way to do this is to recall your sleep dreams shortly after you awaken and to write them down.

2. Your intentions govern the nature of your psychic powers. If you intend good for other people, then your psychic powers will help and heal people. But if you intend harm for others, your psychic powers will have a negative effect on yourself and others.

3. Some persons feel they must rely on pharmaceutical drugs for health, but when reasonable, it's best to achieve freedom from all drug dependency. The repeated use of alcohol or drugs (including fluoride in drinking water or too much caffeine) will ultimately suppress and limit psychic awareness. In addition, many drugs are potentially dangerous — and sometimes illegal.

4. A regular practice of gratitude, prayer and meditation tends to enhance psychic awareness. Spiritual exercises, like physical exercises, need to be repeated patiently, over time, before they begin to show results.

5. Maintaining physical health, eating well and getting adequate sleep are important for the positive use of psychic powers. Pay attention to what you actually feel in your physical body. Pay attention to what other people feel. Emotionally reconnect with your body.

6. Attitudes such as love, serenity and gratitude make it possible to use psychic talents in a healing way. Movies, TV shows, video games or loud pop songs that attack your serenity should be avoided.

7. Living with an attitude of mindfulness allows you to become attuned to your natural intuitive gifts. Being mindful of what you feel in the present moment will put you in touch with your natural spiritual powers. Think about what you are doing while you are doing it.

These are just a few basic ideas that you might find useful. But always remember that there are many different, legitimate methods of developing psychic ability. Remote viewing represents one system. The Japanese word Reiki means Universal Life Force and is an example of a holistic health practice that takes advantage of natural psychic powers. Many other systems for safely developing psychic ability are available now; others are being developed. This is a very exciting time in human history.

Through an international movement of psychic awakening, the human race can reclaim control of the governments, businesses and social movements on our planet. As mentioned earlier, once we have regained control of our world, we may consider starting a space colonization campaign. This Third Space Migration would put us in a position to form an alliance with benevolent ETs. Once we can negotiate from a position of strength, we can form an alliance with the Galactic Authority that will allow us to live in peace with other ET interstellar cultures. In the end, we will be on the side that is victorious. And you can contribute to this ultimate galactic victory, through your own personal psychic awakening.

You don’t have to be a puppet whose strings are pulled by the alien overlords, you can develop your psychic abilities and use them like psychic scissors to cut the strings of oppression and free yourself and others.

S.C.A.N. & Psychic Christianity

S.C.A.N. (SCAN) stands for the Secret Christian Alliance for Nationalism. This book was written at their behest. So it makes sense to explain something of their approach to spirituality. First off you should know that the word scan is a little-used term for the application of psychic power. To scan someone is to use psychic power to contact him telepathically. When you scan someone you are placing your psychic attention upon him. There was a sci-fi horror film called Scanners which took this term and misrepresented it. The use of the term scanning to describe remote viewing preceded the movie, but the silliness of the movie ruined the word. Few people use this term anymore. During the time of the Defense Department's psychic research there was a remote viewing group called Scanate, and the word scan was still sometimes used back in those days. Some Christians who were involved with the military remote viewing projects left the government and eventually became involved with other Christians to form an anonymous and independent psychic research group they called SCAN.

The way SCAN members understand and use the Bible differs somewhat from traditional Christianity. Over the years they have come to reject the idea of the Bible as a rule book. In their early days as a group, decades ago, they were extremely conservative and interpreted the Bible in very literal ways. But they have come to believe that God is love and that God's law is love. They believe that you should first love God, and also love yourself, loving all others as you love yourself. They believe that if a Christian says a prayer with hatred in his heart, even if the form of the prayer is Christian, the hatred turns the prayer into a Satanic practice. Also if a person isn't a Christian but prays out of love, even if it isn't a Christian prayer, its essence is nonetheless inspired by God. They believe that if you act with loving intentions and with an attitude of empathy, you are in accordance with God's law, even if you seem to be breaking the rules of the Bible.

At one time, as explained earlier, because of certain Bible verses, they wouldn't allow gay Christians to join their group. Over time they changed their policy on that issue, and other issues as well.

Before they pray, they calm themselves and if they have feelings of anger or dislike for someone, they deal with that by talking with others, meditating or praying first for peace of mind. Once in a serene mood, they will say a prayer such as the Lord's Prayer or one of the Psalms. Many of them pray frequently. Some try to maintain a discipline of praying at least seven times a day.

Telepathic communication is the projection of mental images and emotional expressions. Each of the parables of Jesus each consist of a series of mental images as well as emotional expressions. Consider the parable found in Matthew 20. It describes an owner of a vineyard who hires workers early in the morning, and then at later times in the day. In describing this, Jesus paints a series of pictures with words. At the end of the day, the vineyard owner pays each worker with the same coin of value, no matter how long each one worked. Jesus doesn't explain the meaning of the parable, but he ends it by saying,

> So the last shall be first, and the first last: for many be called, but few chosen. — Matthew 20:16

SCAN members would consider a parable like this to be a telepathic template. This would be a series of mental images containing emotional dynamics. These mental images, when projected, contain meaning. The parable above is sometimes interpreted as meaning that every one who follows Jesus receives the same reward, salvation, no matter how long they have been a Christian. But other meanings could be conveyed by this parable. And when SCAN members communicate to one another telepathically, they contemplate a series of mental images which they project to one another using techniques they've mastered. The style of teaching that Jesus used in the Bible suggests that he was familiar with this type of telepathic communication. And SCAN members believe that the reading the parables of Jesus is a way to practice the development of telepathic ability.

An anonymous SCAN member told me the story of how she had once telepathically contacted her husband to help her, when her car had broken down. A snowstorm was coming while she was driving down a remote country road, and one of her tires blew out. This was before the time of cellphones. It turned out that her spare tire was no good. She prayed to the Holy Spirit to contact her husband, and she focused her mind on a series of visualizations showing the flat tire and the remote location. Then she started walking down the road, hoping to make it to a neighbor's distant farmhouse before the storm came. But while her husband was working outside their home, preparing for the storm, he suddenly had a sense of concern for her. He went inside, prayed to God and then stared at a blank wall. He saw a series of mental images faintly projected upon the wall and realized what was wrong. He immediately drove to that road and found her, while she was still walking. They fixed the tire and both made it home before the storm hit.

SCAN members do not consider that their psychic abilities exist apart from their belief in God. They consider the teachings of Jesus to be of greater importance than anything else in the Bible. They don't try to put new wine into old wine skins, in that they don't try to interpret the New Testament by limiting it to ideas or commandments found in the Old Testament. What they seek is a relationship with the living God of love — not to be programmed by dogma or theology. Their faith is not in any church, but in the Holy Spirit. For them, the Bible is a doorway that leads to an awareness of Christ, and this awareness informs them and guides them. They do have rules that steer their Christian community. But they first and foremost seek the direct, immediate experience of spiritual, psychic communion with God.

Consider Matthew 5:30, in which Christ says, And if thy right hand offend thee, cut it off. Only a madman would interpret this literally. But this mental image described is more forceful than saying, "Eliminate your bad habits." SCAN members are not concerned with a literal interpretation of the Bible so much as they are interested in interpreting it as a tool, a series of stories that contain mental images that can connect the mind of the believer with the Universal Mind of God. Theology comes from men, inspiration comes from God. They seek not the dry bones of theological mind control, but rather a dynamic relationship with the living God.

In my interactions with these SCAN members I have witnessed both small and big miracles. They encouraged and empowered me to write my books because they wanted to share their miracle-making lifestyle with the world. Although they must remain committed to their anonymous status and avoid the public spotlight, I have come to see them as a prototype for what openly psychic Christian communities will be like in the future.

. Summary .

In retrospect, in my conversations with members of this group of Christian psychics, I should have perhaps paid more attention to the dates they talked about when describing ancient, prehistoric events that took place on Earth and in this solar system. Mostly, I was just trying to get a general idea of what was being described to me. Most of the people of Earth are suffering from complete cultural amnesia and have no true sense of what has happened in the past or what is happening now. So I'm not sure that the exact dating of extremely ancient events really matters. The dates I've used could be off by a few thousand years either way. And some events, like the Great Flood, seemed to have taken place in stages, over longer periods of time. I have to say that any date older than six thousand years ago does not have much cultural significance to most present-day Earthlings. Human civilization (as we are experiencing it) began about six thousand years ago. Earlier events are relevant, but it is their impact upon our present day culture which matters, not their precise dating.

This is the sequence of events as I understand it...

Many ages ago, the solar system was different than it is now; Mars was a living planet like Earth, and it was inhabited by a long-forgotten alien culture. But this was so long ago that it hardly matters.

Those super-ancient Martians are long gone, their planet's molten core has long since cooled, and the ecosystem that was once on their planet's surface has long, long since died. There is nothing left of their culture except perhaps the remains of a giant alien face which stares lifelessly upward, out into space. Intelligent life, centered around Mars, which was then in a different orbital slot, abandoned this solar system and so it remained empty for who knows how long.

Hundreds of thousands of years ago — or longer — the Elohim came to this deserted solar system and changed the orbital order of the planets. They created new planets and created life on Earth. They brought the human race, in its original form, into existence.

The interaction of extraterrestrials with human beings on Earth is very ancient, perhaps happening more than a hundred thousand years ago. What we now think of as the continent of Antarctica was not always covered with ice. In the most ancient of times, it was a place where ETs and human beings interacted.

Before the first Archon invasion of our solar system, there was another planet between Mars and Jupiter. Elysium was the home of the first rulers of this reordered solar system, the Elohim. They selected certain humans from Earth, brought them into space stations and trained them to be spacefaring humans. These spacefaring humans eventually lived in Martian space, in its new orbital slot, and in space stations around Jupiter. These spacefaring humans were similar to our present-day Earthling humans, but perhaps more genetically pure.

After the first Archon invasion, the Elohim and spacefaring humans left this solar system. The spacefaring humans became the Pleiadian humans and united with the Blue-Krishna ETs, to form the Pleiadian Space Command.

Some human beings were left behind on Earth after this invasion. And over a period of thousands of years, the Archons genetically altered most of the human race through controlled breeding — and in some cases, genetic engineering.

Eventually, the interstellar war between the Archon Confederacy and the Pleiadian Space Command took a turn, and the Pleiadians began to win. After thousands of years, the Pleiadian space fleet drove the Archons from this solar system. In order to save what was left of true humanity on Earth, the Pleiadians, with the permission of the Galactic Authority, killed off the majority of Earthlings. Those who had been overly altered by the Archons were deemed to be not really human anymore. This was the metaphorical Great Flood described in the Bible. Although this was genocide, I think that the Pleiadians thought of their actions as a massive "mercy killing" because the Archons had been so cruel in their genetic manipulation of humanity. They believed that they were liberating what was left of true humanity on the planet from the destructive influence of the Archon occupation.

Following this liberation of the solar system, there was a period of thousands of years in which galactic law placed a non-interference ruling over our planet and the human race was left alone on Earth. During this time of secure isolation, the human race returned to a more primitive lifestyle. People lived in simple nomadic tribes of hunters and gatherers.

Approximately six thousand years ago, the second Archon invasion of this solar system took place. Thousands of Reptoid and Gray Alien Archons returned to Earth, and made underground cities beneath the Earth's surface. They began to directly and indirectly influence the human race, establishing civilization as we now know it. They began to take DNA from humans and traded it to the Pleiadians for favors. The Pleiadians used the human DNA to seed their new terraformed worlds with human beings.

Elsewhere in this galaxy, the Pleiadian Space Command began to systematically eliminate the worlds controlled by the Archon Confederacy. As the Pleidaians killed off Archon worlds, they replaced them with Pleiadian human worlds. Although the Pleiadians now have superior technology over the Archons, that isn't the only reason for their victories. Actually the Archon defeats seem to be engineered with the cooperation of disillusioned Archons who are knowingly betraying their fellow Archons. It may be that the souls of the Archons who are killed off in this war hope to reincarnate in human form once their conquered planets are transformed for human occupation. Because the inhabitants of Archon worlds suffer terribly under Archon rule, the Pleiadians see their violent actions as acts of stern mercy, because the mutated and genetically engineered slaves of this Archon system are basically in hell.

The Elohim are aware of the cruelty we Earthling humans have suffered during the long, oppressive Archon occupation. A little over two thousand years ago, the Elohim sent Jesus Christ to Earth as their emissary. Jesus reminded all Earthlings, who would listen, of their true identity. He let them know they were powerful spiritual beings — princes, not paupers. Jesus was a spiritual king. He personally witnessed the horror of the Archon oppression during his lifetime. He healed as many as he could. He was loved and revered by many. And as the Elohim are all psychically connected to one another, they all joined him in his suffering as he personally experienced the ultimate Archon cruelty — crucifixion. Jesus represented the Elohim's promise that someday we Earthlings will remember who and what we truly are and then we will be free of Archon rule.

Our Time of Revelation is Now

This brings us to a current period of revelation where secrets are now being exposed. A "truther" movement is growing in the United States and around the world. Presently this movement is more concerned with political and economic issues than with deep, spiritual insights. But digging into the causes of our political and economic dilemma, we will begin to realize the value and importance of accepting, developing and celebrating our psychic powers. Thus we can free ourselves from the detrimental influences some hostile alien cultures have had upon our world.

This group of psychic Christians also told me some things about their observations of the future. They claim that a group will emerge, in the decades to come, which they called the Psychic Christian Alliance (PCA). There is no point in violently challenging the Archon leaders below the Earth or in this solar system; the only way to challenge them effectively is with psychic force. And that's what the PCA will do. They will develop psychic powers and create an army of psychic Christians who will use their powers to reform and free humanity. They will use psychic power to compel the Archon leaders to leave humanity alone. The PCA, by whatever name they come to call themselves, will protect humanity for an era of a thousand years, causing peace to break out around the world. Eventually the Galactic Authority will deal with the Archons in some final way, but until then it will be up to psychic Christians to become the Earth's defenders.

As an individual you should know that there is a war being fought for the possession of your soul. As an individual you always have the choice to center your awareness on spiritual love or upon negative emotions such as fear, anger and hatred. The NWO represents the cold-blooded Reptoid approach to life. If you cooperate with it, you could lose your humanity and perhaps your soul. Jesus Christ came to this world to show us a different path. He taught that all sins can be forgiven, and by accepting the law of love your soul can be saved.

The power of love, prayer and meditation are the keys to humanity's liberation.

> They will neither harm nor destroy in all my holy mountain, for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea. —Isaiah 11:9